GAYATRI MANTRA

“Soma”, represented by the face with a chakra on the forehead, is sometimes considered a separate chakra, associated with the mental clarity to achieve enlightenment. It is located between the Ajna and Sahasrara chakras. Located above the third eye in the center of the forehead, the soma chakra refers to the “nectar” (amrita), of the lotus of twelve petals in the center of which rests the crescent moon. Kamadhenu Gayatri, the wish-fulfilling cow, provides Soma (nectar) to the third eye of the sixth chakra (Soma chakra, or moon chakra). Kamadhenu is white in color with the face of a crow; her forehead is Ahamkar (ego) and her eyes are human. She has horns like a cow, neck like a horse, wings of a swan and a tail like the peacock. With penance and practice, yogis can hear the subtle sounds of Nada and learn to enjoy the nectar which comes from Kamadhenu Gayatri to the Soma (Moon). Saint Vishwamitra imparted the Gayatri mantra (as Bala and Athi Bala) to Rama and Lakshmana. The recitation of this mantra by Rama and Lakshmana provided the capacity to overcome thirst, hunger and fatigue. Thus, Kamadhenu becomes accessible to the yogi who meditates and reaches the Soma chakra.

Gayatri is shabda brahman (the sonic divinity). Brahman is all pervasive and its sound is the Vedas. Thus Gayatri is the very basis of the Vedas and merits the name of veda mata, or the Mother of the Vedas. It is the very substance of the cosmos and therefore the reality behind the known universe. The Gayatri mantra is composed of a metre consisting of twentyfour syllables, generally arranged in a triplet of eight syllables each. Therefore, this particular metre (TRIPATHI) is also known as the GAYATRI metre. The Gayatri is divided into three sections. In the first section: Aum Bhuh Bhuvah Suvah; the chanter contemplates the Glory of Light that illuminates the three worlds, or the regions of experience. The second section: Tat Savitur Varenyam, Bhargo Devasya Dheemahi; describes the glory, the splendor, and grace which flows from that Light. The third section: Dhiyo Yo Nah Prachodayat; is a prayer for final liberation, through the awakening of the innate intelligence that pervades the Universe as Light.

History of Gayatri Mantra

Gayatri Devi is an incarnation of Saraswati Devi, consort of Lord Brahma, symbolising the "shakti" (strength) and "dev" (quality) of Knowledge, Purity and Virtue. Saraswati Devi is held to be the patronness of the Arts, being a poet and musician, as well as skillful composer. In the form of Gayatri Devi, with the blessings of Lord Brahma, she is believed to have given the four Vedas to mankind.

Gayatri is depicted seated on a lotus. She is depicted with five faces representing the pancha pranas /pancha vayus(five lives/ winds): prana, apana, vyana, udana, samana, of the five principles/ elements (pancha tatwas) earth, water, air, fire, sky (prithvi, jala, vayu, teja, aakash). She has 10 hands carrying the five ayudhas: shankha; chakra, kamala, varada, abhaya, kasha, ankusha, ujjwala utensil, rudrakshi mala.

Gayatri, Savitri and Saraswati are three goddesses representing the presiding deities of the famous Gayatri mantra chanted thrice a day. Gayatri is the presiding deity of the morning prayer and rules over the Rigveda and the garhapatya fire. Every grihasta (householder) was expected to keep 5 or 3 sacred fires (Five fires: ahavaneeya, dakshagni, garhapatya, sawta, aavasadha.) in his house to perform Vedic rituals.

In Sanskrit, there are definite rules that regulate poetry: rhyme and metre are not written whimsically. The Gayatri Mantra has a Vedic metre of 24 syllables. Amongst the regulated poetry, the Gayatri mantra, chanted by properly qualified persons, is the most prominent. The Gayatri mantra is mentioned in the Srimad Bhagavatam. Great sins are said to be expiated by a pious recitation of this Gayatri verse which reads as follows:

*Om bhoor bhuvah svaha, Tat Savitur varenyam,
Bhargo devasya dheemahi, Dheeyo yonah prachodayat.*

Gayatri mantra is meant for realization of God and is regarded as representing the Supreme Lord. It is meant for spiritually advanced people. Success in chanting it enables one to enter the transcendental position of the Lord. But, in order to chant the Gayatri mantra, it is necessary for one to first acquire the qualities of the perfectly balanced person in terms of the qualities of goodness according to the laws of material nature. The Gayatri mantra is considered to be the sonic incarnation of Brahman and is regarded as very important in Vedic civilization. Hindu Temples across the world perform Gayatri havan (homam) periodically to propitiate the Lord. Ghee (rectified butter) is applied during the homa by all the participants seated around the homa-kunda.

The Story of Baba and the Tiger skin

When Sai Baba was young boy, An Englishman was hunting on the other side of the Chitravati River, which runs along by the side of Puttaparthi, Baba's hometown. He killed a tiger near Puttaparthi. He was returning to Anantapur and his jeep was stopped opposite to Puttaparthi village and would not start again. The driver who had heard about the Miraculous Boy (Baba) went in search of Him to see if He could help them to get their car started. The driver asked the boy “Are you Sai Baba”? Then Sai Baba told him that he would come to the jeep. Baba peeped into the jeep and saw the carcass of the dead tiger which the officer had shot just two hours ago. Sai Baba said that he himself is the one who stopped the jeep at this place. He told them that the dead tiger was a mother of three cubs just two weeks old. They are at this time wailing for their mother. He told them to go back, recover the cubs and gift them to the zoo, where they would be cared for. He told them not to shoot wild animals with his guns. Instead, he told the Englishman, that he should shoot them with his camera. The Englishman obeyed Baba. Swami’s counsel touched him very much and he stopped killing animals. A month later, he came to Baba with the tiger skin. The Englishman told Baba “I cannot live with it any more, sir. I would like to present it to you”.

There is a tiger skin under the feet of Baba in Prasanthinilayam, and it is presume, that is the same tiger skin. Lord Shiva normally wears a tiger skin and sits on it for meditation. There is a great lesson here that hunters should keep in mind, to save the wildlife. We reap what we sow. Therefore STOP eating meat and convert others into vegetarians to transform everyone into Higher Learning. Or else they will also be hunted by the same animal which will take human birth and the humans will become animals in their next birth. As mentioned in the Newton’s third law “Every action has an equal and opposite reaction.
