

Europe Private Tours

Our passion is exploring...

Europe Private Tours Privacy Policy:

This Declaration of exemption of responsibility is consolidated with the Politics of Online Privacy of Europe Private Tours, and must be incorporated in its Website and as it follows:

1. Company:

Europe Private Tours consists on an independent tour organizer and seller firm member of AETP (Portuguese Association of Tour Operators and Tourism Companies).

Because Europe Private Tours gives high importance to its customer's privacy, it does not pass, rent or distribute to services of marketing or other services its customer's data.

Europe Private Tours and its firm partners are legally distinct and independent entities and they have not to be interpreted thus they act in a relationship of subsidiary agents.

2. Exemption of Responsibility:

The information contained and accessed in this Site (The "Site") is supplied by Europe Private Tours in its initial page (Home Page) as being the proprietor of the Site (<http://europe-private-tours.com>), and offers to the user information of general interest.

In accordance with facts of specific circumstances, the application of laws and regulations can vary. On the basis of the process of electronic communication, Europe Private Tours does not assure nor guarantees that the Site will be remained without exempt of error. Therefore, the information is supplied to users without any type of guarantee, implicit express, or including exactness.

Under no circumstances Europe Private Tours will able its related partners and users to held the Company responsible by damages of any nature (including, however but not limited to the responsibility for loss of use, loss of data or losses of profits), independently of the form of the action, including, among others, actions on contracts, actions for recklessness or other actions for civil deriving of the Site or related with the Site, any information existing in the Site, or access to content by means of the use of the Site, or with any type of copy, exhibition or another unauthorized use of the Site information.

Considering that the content of the Site is protected by copyrights (copyright), the unauthorized use of any material contained in the Site will be able to infringe the laws of copyrights, commercial marks and other laws. In case that the user makes a download of materials contained in the Site for personal use or non-advertising, the user will have to keep in all and any copy of the material all the relative acknowledgments of the copyrights marks, or other contained similar acknowledgments in the Site's original material. The materials contained in the Site cannot be modified nor reproduced, or publicly shown, executed, distributed, or publicly used for commercial purpose.

Links with thirds are offered as an information facility for our users. Europe Private Tours does not control and is not responsible for none of those sites or for its content.

Europe Private Tours has for obligation to protect its reputation and its marks and reserves the right to request the removal of any unauthorized link existing in our Website.

It is absolutely necessary to request explicit permission to use Europe Private Tours logo. For this proposal, users must contact with the webmaster, by email, using the section "contact us".

The following activities of links in our Web Site are forbidden, and can configure questions of breaking of trademarks and copyrights:

- Links that involve non authorized use of our logo;
- Framing, inline links or meta tags;
- Hyperlinks or other form of links that dissimulates the URL and pass for the main page;

3. Privacy Policy:

Europe Private Tours believes that the responsible use of the personal information in our Website is critical for our business-oriented reputation and objectives. As part of our commitment with the users and partners' privacy, we adopt this Online Privacy Policy. The extension and the type of the information that we receive in our Website, depend on the information given by users, according to their process of registration on the Site.

We use that information to answer to the users requests and to archive statistical data and not for other ends.

We use also the personal information to personalize the navigation online of the visitor and to allow the access to the Website content for his appropriate necessities. Moreover, in some cases, we use "cookies" (small archives of text, placed in the user's computer for occasion of its first visit to the Site). The majority of current navigators recognizes when one "cookie" is displayed and allows the user to refuse or to accept it.

"Cookies" on-line are used basically with the intention to enrich its experience and are not being used to track habits of navigation or to identify visitors, unless we get his permission for this purpose. If users visit our Website to read or to make a download of the information contained, such as prices, conditions of reservation for tours or transfers, destinations, etc., great part of the information we collect is only for statistics purposes (for ex.: domain from which the users have access to internet, dates and schedule of its access to our Site, internet address of the web site from he directly made a link to our Site.

The personal information supplied by the users will be kept only during the necessary time to take care of the intentions for which information has been collected or demanded by law. We do not share or sell personal information with third parties, except when necessary for the performance of our activities or when demanded by law or other legal processes.

Moreover, personal data collected by us can be transferred to other firm members, only with the purpose to serve the users requests. When users provide personal information electronically, they give their express consent to Europe Private Tours to transmit their collected data to our members and affiliates in order to proceed with user's requests.

Europe Private Tours adopts politics and procedures of technological and operational security, to protect personal information against loss, improper use, alteration or unintentional destruction. Our staff with access to the personal data is trained to keep the confidentiality of such information.

Europe Private Tours understands the importance to protect the privacy of children, especially in on-line environment. Our Website has not been projected nor destined for minors under 13 years old. Our politics is never collect or keep information, intentionally, of any person with less than 13 years of age.

Europe Private Tours recognizes its responsibility to protect the privacy on-line of personal information of the Website visitors. If you have any questions or comments regarding our administration of personal information, please contact us to the email address: support@europe-private-tours.com. You can use this email address also if you are not interested on keeping receiving information about us, and you want unsubscribe from our newsletter.

© Europe Private Tours – Executive Board – updated on March, 2014

