Two Harbors High School Holds Spring Concerts

By Haley Searls

Two Harbors High School recently held their spring concerts. The concerts featured performances provided by students in grades 6 through 12.

To end their performance, the concert choir performed Stand By Me. This piece afforded an opportunity to feature choir seniors Dryst Jordan, Hailey Jurkic, Henry Rennwald, and Autumn Smith.

Banaha (Soldier's Song), an upbeat, traditional piece from the Democratic Republic of the Congo set the stage for the middle school concert.

A variety of jazz pieces were presented by the vocal jazz band. These pieces ranged in moods from the soaring Fly Me To The Moon (In Other Words), to the smooth Dream, to the hopeful and optimistic We'll Meet Again.

The 6th grade band played the triumphant Bugler's Dream, known to most as Olympic Fanfare. Mighty Empire by Robert W. Smith and the main theme from Star Wars with its bold melody were also performed.

The high school concert band ended the night with three pieces; the sweeping West Side Story Medley, and the more classical Nessum Dorma by Giacomo Puccini.

Taco Time, a fast-paced, Latin-feel song kicked off the 7th grade band's performance. This was followed by Riverside March and Legend of Ft. Apache.

Suspense was added to the musical mix with the Junior Jazz Band's rendition of the James Bond theme.

Band director David Haaversen states that he was very happy with the students' performances. "Concerts were well attended, everything went well, and it was a fitting end to the school year."

African Marching Song and the catchy, syncopated tune of Jungle Dance were showcased by the 8th grade band.

The high school program began with the choir singing the longing-for-home song Nine Hundred Miles. This was followed by Journey In Peace, which featured flutist Keara Graden.
