Model Horse
RE·VIEW

Vol. 7 No. 1 ~ Spring 2022

A bigger-than-life artist who leaped into the model horse hobby in 1972 and kept right on splashing past the boundaries for decades, Elizabeth Bouras passed away May 12 at age 61. Her legacy includes countless now-vintage customs she created as Amarna Productions...including pinto part-Arabian Diamondback, a CM Breyer Legionario III she gifted to Corky Visminas in 1986.

A Word to the Fore: With Thanks

Is it the first day of summer yet? No? Whew! It's taken longer than anticipated, but this Spring issue of the VCMEC Model Horse Re-View will make it out before summer is officially here...we're glad for a win no matter how small!

The passing of Liz Bouras on May 12 was gut-wrenching. Our deepest condolences to her longtime housemate, Paula O'Keefe. Liz has been so good to us, allowing us to buy such historically important horses as Wickenden Osprey, Kandu Koho, several wonderful works by Nancy Strowger, and Yellow Dancer, her epic bay pinto Saddlebred stallion by Julie Froelich. Thank you so much for letting us be their new caretakers, Liz.

Among Liz's own creations, we're all the more grateful to Ann Bilon for having sent Amarna Bint Morafic, at right, our way several years ago. She was a top showhorse for Liz in the first half of the 1980s, and in painting her fleabitten grey, Liz painstakingly replicated Nancy Strowger's physically demanding, grinding technique.

Thank you so much to Sarah Minkiewicz-Breunig for writing the beautiful tribute to Liz that starts on the next page, and to Paula and others who contributed photos. I wrote the sidebar that follows it, but it took a while to get my mind in a place to be able to do it--it's just so awful that Liz is gone.

The last two pages this issue were found on the shelves of our Model Animal Hobby History Archive, and feature Liz's work in her own words. We hope you'll enjoy.

Huge thanks to Julie Froelich for judging the concluding sixth leg of the 2020-21 VCMEC Online World Championships series! The results start on page 9.

Next up is the series' aggregate results, which will be in the Summer issue at the end of July! The World Champion and Reserve World Champion for each class have been determined by averages in the aggregate results--sure glad that monster job is done!--and we're already at work typing everything up.

Unlike the previous two editions of the series, the 2020-21 edition does not have World Champion and Reserve World Champion title ribbons for each class. Some folks have said that they'd really like that to continue, though, and we sure would, too--so we're thinking about the possibility of letting entrants order them for the cost of the ribbons and postage.

If we were to have class World Champion and Reserve World Champion ribbons made, we'd likely be contacting entrants before the aggregate results are released in late July and asking something like, "You have 16 World Champions and 12 Reserve World Champions--would you like to order title ribbons for $X and postage?" Payment would be needed before we put in the order for the ribbons. Be thinking about if this is something you'd like for your star horses that win those hard-earned titles!

Now that this issue is (alllmost! Just...have..to...keep...on...typing...) out the door, watch for the show packet for Vintage Custom Model Equine Congress Live III in the next week or so! It will be held October 1 at the spacious Iron County Memorial Building in Hurley, Wis.

At the same beautiful venue, we'll also be having a model horse swap meet and live show on July 16: the Spark Plug Cup! It's for all model horses, not only vintage customs, and is being held one day before the 100th anniversary of the first appearance of Barney Google's horse Spark Plug! Gonna be something special--hope you might make it!

Thank you again to everyone who's sent kind thoughts and encouragement our way as we work to preserve and promote vintage custom model equines through VCMEC. We really do appreciate it.

'Til next, please take care, and we'll see you next month!

-Sparky C.

An Inconceivable Loss: Elizabeth Bouras, 1961-2022

by Sarah Minkiewicz-Breunig

Epic. Trailblazer. Fierce. Unique. Effervescent. Fearless. Passionate. Genuine. Luminary. Inspirational. Kind. Joyous. Adventurous. Badass. Thoughtful. Sparkling. Enthusiastic. Humor. Complex. These are just some of the words people used to describe one of the most epic and beloved icons who has ever graced our community.

On May 12, 2022, we lost Elizabeth Victoria Bouras. She was 61 years old. A tooth and claw cancer warrior, she fought to the last against Leiomyosarcoma, a cancer with a 100% mortality rate, for five long, hard years — she was that tough, had that much life in her, that much moxie and gumption.

Her dear friend of nearly 40 years, Paula O'Keefe, shares, "She loved that Game of Thrones quote, 'What do we say to death? Not today!' And she said it right down to the last." And despite it all, her joyous enthusiasm for life bubbled over, her spirit always inspiring and uplifting. Oh, Liz — you never ceased to amaze!

Growing up in Pennsylvania, she discovered model horses as a child and being so creatively bent and full of enthusiasm, began customizing in the '70s, creating herds of spectacular and singular works that captured people's hearts from Day One. She created countless pivotal, legendary pieces — *Opium, Amarna El Nisr, Atari Baby, Essence Rare, Buckaroo Banzai and so many, many more. Indeed, her portfolio reads like a model horse who's-who, packed full of paradigm-shifting talent that helped to lay the groundwork and the standards of all that the arts would become today.

Over the years, her influence has touched nearly every aspect of our genre, indeed, she got involved in so many facets of our hobby and was a catalyst for so many events and spontaneous

Liz winning with *Opium--her third of three remakes that embodied that ID--at a 1990s live show. (Today he's known as Ibn Opium, owned by Michelle Weston.) Liz passed away May 12.

happenings, it's easy to lose count. But as if that wasn't enough, she was an active judge, photographer, writer, ambassador, and mentor, whose welcoming demeanor, thoughtful guidance, and photos and articles for hobby magazines helped to inspire untold numbers of others to take up customizing and model horses, directly enriching our community even further and introducing a new cast of folks who had their own gifts to enliven our hobby.

Liz created and photographed Amarna Electra, her very first repaint, in 1974. He was owned by Jean Derench.

Essence Rare, a Breyer Proud Arabian Mare customized by Liz in the early 1980s, was among her galaxy of showring stars. This Arabian mare has inset glass eyes, as do many of the plastic models Liz customized.

Customized Breyer Amarna El Nisr, a Grand Champion for Liz at the 1984 Model Horse Congress, would become the prototype for her 1993 artist resin release, the Amarna Arabian Stallion.

Put it all together then and quite literally, she's a Godmother of Customizing and a Founding Mother of the model horse hobby. She was just one of those pillars. She has her very own, very long wing in the pantheon of our Greats.

But even more than that, Liz was so well loved — to know her was to love her, and her pool of friends was vast and varied. Her joyous, passionate heart and her big, genuine smile just won you over instantly. Truly, in a very real sense, our community — our history — has lost a large part of its heart and soul, one without equal or comparison. There will never be another Liz. Not even close.

And Liz was living hobby history, not some half-remembered abstract from decades ago, but a living legend with a memory like a steel trap, whose life was so expansive, she's literally touched every aspect of our community at some point. The arts alone owes her a debt of gratitude and admiration for her unparalleled contributions to its technologies, aesthetics, and direction, so much so that the hobby landscape would have been a vastly different place without her.

But now, without her, we must go on, carrying her legacy in our hearts, our skills, our enthusiasm, our love, and our shelves. Farewell, my friend. You've left us in good hands. We got this. You're free now, and you will always be loved and the beauty you created will live forever!

Liz is survived by her adorable cat, Kylo Ren, her dear friend of nearly forty years, Paula O'Keefe, her horde of loving friends, and the treasure of exquisite works she spent a lifetime devotedly creating.

An avid student of the work of Nancy Strowger, Liz painted Amarna Bint Morafic, left, in 1983 using Nancy's difficult fleabitten grey technique.

Liz created far more than Arabians. At right is Appaloosa mare Atari Baby, from Liz's own collection, one of several Sigue Sigue Sputnik-inspired models created in the late '80s. Speaking of which...

Published in a 1986 issue of Breyer's magazine Just About Horses, Liz's article "Showing the Model Arabian" was an inspiration to countless then-budding model horse artists, including Sarah Minkiewicz-Breunig.

Above is the original *Opium that Liz created. As her skills progressed, she remade a Breyer Proud Arabian Stallion to be a new *Opium, featuring him in the far left two photos in her Just About Horses article above. He was eventually replaced by a third *Opium, known today as Ibn Opium...so maybe she even had a fourth!

A Look at a Few Other Legacies

Among the vast herd of work Liz left us are some with naming prefixes she established, some that were collaborative work, and some that were part of gangs that she created with glee.

Her "Amarna" prefix is well-known from her many star Arabians that carry it. But she also had a prefix for draft breeds: "Haddon Hall," named for a home of David Bowie, and once so prevalent that it often got shortened to "HH" in model horse show results. Haddon Hall Prospero, at left, is an early 1980s Liz creation owned by Eleanor Harvey.

For the many Welsh ponies Liz sent forth from her studio, most if not all had the prefix "Liseter," in tribute to the real Liseter Hall Farm in Pennsylvania, breeders of top Welsh ponies and not far from where she grew up. Liseter Dark Crystal, created by Liz in the early 1980s, is at right. One of the most famous Liseter models she customized, Liseter Chimera, was dominant throughout the 1980s in what was then the premier showplace for drafters and ponies, the Big & Little Club.

Grand Champion, Seattle Slew and Reserve Grand Champion, Amarna Bint Morafic both owned by Amarna Productions -John Bellucci and Elizabeth Bouras.

Liz teamed up with John Bellucci in 1984 to collaborate in customizing. That partnership was over within a year.

In 1987, Liz became a housemate of the Nite Watch Farms duo of Pleisiosaur Productions' Judy Renee Pope and Paula O'Keefe.

From that point on, until Judy's tragic passing in 2007, their collaboration cooked up hundreds of wild, wonderful remakes. Just one example is Lobo, at right, a Breyer Black Beauty remake to be the equine embodiment of the DC Comics character. This blazing beast is now owned by Cindi Nakagawa.

Earlier, in 1985, Liz grabbed hobby headlines with her Team Banzai showstring, customizing horses inspired by the movie "The Adventures of Buckaroo Banzai Across the 8th Dimension." She collaborated with Sandy Tomezik to record and sell a VHS video on how to customize model horses, featuring Liz demonstrating the making of the iconic Buckaroo Banzai, above, and bucking horse Dr. Lizardo, both remade from Breyer Stock Horse Stallions. Horses created to be sons and daughters of Buckaroo Banzai were always in demand, including daughter Targa Carrera, at left, a 1987 collaboration remade by Judy and painted and haired by Liz.

More mania wasn't far, as the glam-punk band Sigue Sigue Sputnik inspired Liz (remake and hair) and Judy (paint) to create the wild guy at right to carry that name--along with some actual hair from the band's lead singer, Martin Degville--in 1987. The ranks of Sputnik Syndicate horses exploded, with some by Liz, some by Judy, some together, some by Julie Froelich, and one a collaboration between Liz (paint) and Julie (remake and hair), My Sputnik Baby, at left.

So many memories...so many more legacies...Liz did everything big!

*THE RAISULI (CH)

Arabian stallion ~ CM by Beth Peart & Nancy Strowger in 1977

1960s/'70s Overall Reserve Champion Workmanship

DARK COMMANDER

American Saddlebred stallion ~ CM by Adren King and Jason Ross in 1986

1980s Overall Champion Breed, Overall Champion Color, and Overall Res. Champ Workmanship

Colleen Headley's Kla-Ha-Ya Stables gang dominated this go-round, as they do so often! We unfortunately didn't get a response from Colleen for the Victory Lap this time, and certainly hope all is well there. In the meantime, here is what she shared about *The Rasuli in a past issue:

"*The Raisuli was pretty new to Ava Maureen Durbin's Rebel Stables when I joined her club. MARA, in 1978. His stallion ad for that year, picture inked by Nancy Strowger, portended of things to come in the group. Remake by Beth Peart, repaint and soft thread mane/tail by Nancy, he looked tough and proud but he is an Arabian after all and loved by his people.

"He frustrated Ava no end when trying to get a good color halter photo, or when getting performance photos back saw that he had spit his bit and was only good as a reference photo.

"Now with Ava having passed almost 5 years ago, he is with me and I think every day he shakes his forelock and reminds me of what he says he deserves in this world. I miss you, Ava....."

JAMIL MHURATT

Arabian stallion ~ CM by Sarah Minkiewicz in the late 1980s

1980s Overall Champion Workmanship and Overall Reserve Champion Color

Cheryl Ridge writes, "It was the late 1980s. I was spellbound by the work of newcomer, Sarah Minkiewicz. Two of her creations (CM Breyer Proud Arabs) had won first and second place in a single photo show CLASS of 576 entries!! In a show of greats (something of a who's who of the hobby) it seems nothing short of a miracle that those very two models came to live with me in Australia.

"Mon Nafa Rani (Proud Arab Mare) was with me by the end of the 1980s. Her full brother, Jamil Mhuratt (Proud Arab Stallion), ended up with a friend in Germany who incredibly offered to sell him to me in 2005. Despite this coinciding with my hiatus from the hobby it was important Jamil be reunited with his sister!

"A decade or so later I was coaxed out of my hiatus by the opportunity to showcase my oldies. Thanks to the VCMEC I could find my happy place in a vintage corner of the hobby. And it was here in the VCMEC show series Jamil came into his own. Him being honored, appreciated and highly awarded multiple times now, and over several seasons, fills me with pride and gratitude. And I feel blessed to be the custodian of not one but two of Sarah's early works. And endearing Proud Arabs no less! Thank you!"

SWEET JANE

Arabian mare ~ CM by Carol Williams in 1989

1980s Overall Res. Champion Breed

Laura Doll writes, "I purchased this mare, sight unseen, from one of the last (if not the last) customs sales lists that Carol Williams offered. This was right when Carol was putting the QH1 into production, so she wasn't really planning to do many Breyer customs any more. I was delighted when she arrived! She is a customized PAM and her coloring is gorgeous. I have had a lot of people say that I should have given her a more traditional Arabian name, but at that point I named most of my horses from the music I was listening to, so her name came from the Velvet Underground song."

longer do because of the history attached to many of them. He's been Autumn Gold for 20 years now. He's gone to many live shows with me. He has really excelled in mail-in and online photo shows and has won many champion and reserve champion ribbons. He was my first model purchase that wasn't a Breyer so I'm extremely partial to him and he will be with me for life!"

Quarter Horse mare ~ CM by Sarah King in 1991

1990s Overall Res. Champion Color

Sarah Minkiewicz-Breunig writes, "When I first sat Malicious in the VCMEC show pamphlet some time ago, I was simply smitten! But when I actually got her and held her in my hands, I was doubly so! All of that famous Strowger/Ross/King detailing and nuance are present on her in spades, exemplifying that artist in their full bloom, but you only really see its full depth up close. It's in bright sunlight that makes Malicious truly sing by popping her color in that way only that artist can do. I mean, she just glows! I love the tone and shade of her dark palomino color too--so unusual and eye-catching, rich and unique. Malicious is definitely a stand out in any crowd and I love her so much! I pinch myself every day!"

AUTUMN GOLD

Paint gelding ~ CM by Tom Bainbridge in 1996

1990s Overall Champion Breed

Corrie Soboda writes, "Autumn Gold is one of my oldest show horses. I didn't know about the hobby beyond being a collector since 1985 until the year 2000 when I found a custom on eBay. It opened up a whole new world of model horses to me! I then found the Model Horse Sales Page. I love a lot of Tom Bainbridge's work so when I saw this beautiful minimal pinto buckskin custom come up for sale on the MHSP in the early 2000s, I needed to have him! I purchased him from Kristina Lee of NE. He came with lots of show photos taken in December of 1996 by Carol Gerhard [one of them is shown at above right!]. He was previously named Centennial. I used to rename horses, something I no

INDIAN PRIDE

Thoroughbred mare ~ CM by Sarah King in 1991

1990s Overall Champion Color

Kelly O'Connor writes, "Indian Pride was consigned to the 1991 MARA-ABC Select Sale, the same sale through which I'd bought Jetan's Glory (Ross dapple grey Terrang) a few years earlier--and when I saw that dapple coat and extreme facial shading on a Kelso I was smitten (how can you go wrong with Maureen Love's classic TBs?). The catalog was black and white, so her rose grey color was a delightful surprise! I still marvel at her grace and elegance and remain a bit stunned I was the high bidder. She is a treasure!"

by Elizabeth Bouras

In the past few years, model remaking has become increasingly popular as it allows the remaker to change the position, sex or even breed of the model, thus creating an original who will probably stand a better chance in the show ring where there are often many models who are alike. In this article I'll try and introduce you to basic remaking using methods that I have found quite successful in creating "Productions by Amarna."

First, you will need certain materials—a model to work with, a small hacksaw, filling material and there are many things that will do the job, such as putty, plastic wood or even air dried clay (although that is quite brittle) but I personally recommend a substance called "Epoxy Ribbon," available in most hardware stores, that kneads together easily, sands well and hardens within 24 hours to a point where it is almost as strong as the original plastic.

Once you have the materials, sand off the excess seams from the molding process on the model and remove the plastic mane and tail if you intend to add a hair mane and tail later. (Remove tail by cutting it off at the base—sometimes it is also necessary to saw tail away from where it joins the leg, being careful to remove only the tail & not any piece of the leg!) Then you must decide how the model is to be remade and make incisions where necessary. For example, in the remade Proud Arabian stallion shown in Figures 1A & 1B the following cuts were made—1) a large wedge shaped cut in the base of the neck which allowed me to bend neck until the edges of the cut met, thus lowering the neck carriage. 2) The head was removed by cutting it away from the body, and reattached at a different angle, using a wadded piece of aluminum foil stuffed in the opening of the neck & of the head to hold it together and in place. 3) In remaking the legs, the leg is removed from the body, cut horizontally against the shoulder or hindquarters so that it may be rotated to the desired position. Again, wadded foil is used to hold the leg in place against the body. 4) To bend a knee, ankle, hock, etc., a cut is made on the opposite side of where you want it bent—i.e., to bend a knee cut on the front of the knee until you are able to bend the knee back. After desired cuts are made, use filling material to fill up the gap, hold head back on, etc.

Allow the filler material to dry and harden completely before sanding. When sanding, first use a coarse, then medium and then a fine grade of sandpaper and make sure that all areas are smooth and level with one another. An electric sander such as a Dremel Motor-Tool works wonders on models and is highly recommended.

If your model requires a base for support, drill small holes in the bottom of hooves to be attached to base, then drill a hole all the way through the base where hoof is to be. Then, by using a nail with it's head towards the bottom of the base, you can take the model off the base for easier shipping and tacking up.

Finally comes the fun part, finishing the model. First, I'd recommend spraying on a base coat—the spray paint goes on in a smooth coat and sometimes smooths out the remaking a bit. Then repaint as desired—acrylic paints are recommended for they are fast drying and water-soluble, although oils (which can be rather messy as they are oil based and take a while to dry) work well too. For a hair mane and tail you can use acrylic fibre (available in many colors in many hobby and craft stores) or fiber backed fake fur (which should be removed from cloth backing to allow it to lie flat on model's neck) or anything that seems suitable—I've seen excellent results using sheep's wool, embroidery thread and even dog hair!

This is only a basic guide—there are many variations available, especially in the remaking process which is only limited by your imagination. To show some examples—Fig. 2A and 2B—here I used the little-known Breyer Jumper model, replaced his head with a Breyer Indian Pony's, tucked it down a little, removed the plastic mane and tail, and filled in the holes left, and added a braided hair mane and tail. The braids are made out of braided embroidery thread, the tail is acrylic fibre over a thin epoxy tailbone that was wrapped at the top with embroidery thread and left unwrapped at the bottom. Fig.

3—this American Saddlebred stallion was made by taking a Breyer Proud Arabian stallion model, replacing it's head with a Breyer Black Beauty head, with the neck slightly lengthened at the top and the head turned slightly to the right. His forelegs were squared together and the hindlegs stretched back to give him a correct show stance. To add breed authenticity, his forehooves were lengthened with filler and his tail set high, his forelock and upper part of the mane were braided with embroidery thread to look like ribbons. Figure 4. A simple but effective remake, here is a Black Beauty who has had his bent foreleg straightened and his head replaced with one from a Breyer Adios (one of the nicest heads on any Breyer model!) The mane and tail were completely removed, and a short hair tail was added, as well as a hair forelock. The roached mane effect is given by a black pipe-cleaner glued down to the neck!

I hope that this basic overview will help those interested in remaking models and give them a good start! Remember, if anything, all it takes is time and practice so don't be disappointed with your early efforts but keep with it.

SHOWING THE MODEL ARABIAN

By Elizabeth Bouras

The Arabian, one of the most popular and beautiful breeds of horse, has acquired quite a reputation for versatility. In live Arabian shows, the variety of classes surpasses that found in almost any other breed show, for the Arab can be found exhibiting in everything from Dressage to stock events. However, in model shows, this idea is often misunderstood. Many showmen yield to the temptation of entering Formal Combination as these classes call for similar performance on the horse's part. However, it would be extremely unlikely to see this same horse winning a cutting class or a barrel race as these two particular events call for the development of different talents. We often fail to realize that our models are perhaps even more limited than their live counterparts, as they are permanently frozen into a fixed position.

Realizing this, we really should not expect our models to excel in classes which their particular pose is not suited for. The following are a few examples of poses that are appropriate for specific classes as well as

Despite the fact that this horse's position is perfect for halter or showmanship, we have to admit that he would look pretty silly in the majority of performance classes. The only other class which he could possibly be shown in would be Native Arabian Costume (figure 2) as the costume and the horse's conformation play a major role in determining the winner.

Figure 3, shown in a Western show saddle and curb bridle, is an example of the pleasure-type Arabian. Note the level of the horse's head — the neck is arched but the head is down. Although this pose is relatively relaxed, the horse still seems alert and in photographed this horse can successfully be shown in gaming events such as barrel racing or pole bending (figure 6). Note that the camera angle (and slight tilting of the model) can significantly add to the illusion of speed.

The subject of figure 7 is the often seen but seldom understood Park-type Arabian. The "Park" Arab is quite unlike his pleasurable counterpart as he is bred and trained to give a brilliant and exhilarating performance. He performs the same gaits as the pleasure-type horse (the walk, trot and canter) but with animation and presence. Desirable characteristics are a higher headset than a their horse in every class they can find the tack for, and are unmindful of whether or not the position of that particular model is really suitable for the event.

Although the breed is versatile the ability of most individuals is limited. In the real horse world, to compete on a top level requires a great deal of training. This means that for all practical purposes, you seldom see one horse competing in more than two or three events. You will also find that these specific events usually share the same demands. In example, it is not unusual to see a Champion Park Horse win in classes like Fine Harness and some reasonings as to why they were chosen for these events:

Figure 1 is a good example of a pose which is ideal for halter and showmanship classes. The horse's position highlights his breed characteristics as well as enables the judge to get a good view of his conformation. This particular pose further accentuates a characteristic desired in the breed, for the hind leg stretched back helps make the croup appear more level. (Note that only one leg is stretched back — Arabians are never shown in a "show stretch" like the American Saddlebred or Morgan.)

contact with the rider. This is a nearly ideal headset for a pleasure mount.

This same pleasure-type pose is also well suited for trail classes (figure 4 — successfully negotiating a bridge) as well as events such as pleasure driving and sidesaddle. Some individuals in pleasure poses are also quite acceptable for lower levels of dressage.

Figure 5 is another pose suitable for pleasure classes — the working canter. Besides excelling in pleasure classes, this pose is also useful in Hunter-Jumper classes where more speed is desired. If skillfully pleasure horse's as well as height in action. His type of action is very distinct and totally inappropriate for pleasure classes but is suitable for Fine Harness classes (figure 8).

Better understanding of the basics will help you to show your models in the classes which they are best suited for. If you are unsure of what is called for in a particular class it's best to do a little research. The International Arabian Horse Association sells pamphlets on various class requirements which, although written for real horses, are equally helpful to model showmen.
