Golf association honors Port Orange Police

The Cypress Head Men's Golf Association Aug. 25 honored the Port Orange Police Department at the golf leagues annual luncheon.

Police Chief Thomas Grimaldi represented his department and was the guest of honor. Chief Grimaldi was joined by his predecessor, former police chief and association member Jerry Monahan.

The league also recognized its members who were former law enforcement officers, including Bill Bonnell, Tommy Lee, Bill Manson, Ron Perry, Bill Rieger, Don Taylor, Dick Vineyard and Jim Walsh.

Sixty-five members of the Cypress Head Men's Golf Association enjoyed a round of golf and wore blue shirts to honor the police. All were treated to a luncheon catered by the Tavern restaurant.

The annual luncheon also included the election of officers for the coming year. Those elected were President Tony Delmonte, Vice President Jack Nederostek, Secretary Alan Angelone and Treasurer Bill Schieder.

Two members scored a hole-in-one on two par threes that day. Tony Miller aced the par three 16, and Sid Massey knocked his T shot in the hole on the par three hole 12.
