

THE STRUGGLE OF THE SEEDS

THE PROBABLE ASTRONOMICAL PROPERTIES OF THE BLOOD ATONEMENT

The purpose of this illustration is to show the astronomical occurrences that happened during the time Jesus was on the Cross of Calvary. If in fact it is the case that the actual crucifixion date was on Passover in April 13, 32 AD, what is unique is that there was a planetary alignment juxtaposed to the cross. This is the case if one looked just over the Mount Moriah at high noon when the supposed eclipse occurred. This is the instance when the entire land was covered by darkness. The astronomical sign was Draco with the foot of Hercules at its head as if to 'crush' it. This depiction is reminiscent of the Genesis 3:15 contention between the Seed of the Woman, which was and is Jesus and the Seed of the Serpent, Lucifer ultimately through the agent and host of the coming AntiChrist.

One very interesting aspect of the astronomical arraignment of the stars and constellations is that the Draco outline comprises that of a dimension that approximates the phi ratio proportions. The Fibonacci spiral is used for emphases that corresponds to the star Thuban.

The crucifixion rendition illustrated is based on the archeological work and research of Ryan Wyatt. This purported site is itself in phi ratio in terms of distance from the Garden Tomb and the Skull Façade.

According to Wyatt, the term of offense of Jesus was also advertised on boards that were edged within the ledge of the pinnacle of Mount Moriah.

 Thea crushed the head of the Serpent.
 The Serpent at the Cross of Calvary stung the heel of Jesus.
