March for the Fallen

PO Box 450

The March for the Fallen isn't just a march; it's a memorial walk – or jog – and we'll be having a competitive "ruck march" portion of the event open to military personnel and veterans. The main event of March for the Fallen will be a non-competitive march/walk to honor the fallen that will be open to everyone.

In addition to the non-competitive march/walk there will also be three competitive events. The first will be an individual "ruck march" where individual competitors will be required to carry a 35-pound ruck sack.

The second competitive event will be a squad-based competition where teams of up to 8 people will participate in a ruck march as a group. Each competitor will be required to carry a 35-pound ruck sack and the team will be timed based on when the last individual crosses the finish line.

The third competitive event will be a platoon-based competition with teams of at least 15 participate in the ruck march as a group. Like the squad competition, each competitor will be required to carry a 35-pound ruck sack and the team will be timed based on when the last individual in the platoon crosses the finish line.

All profits will be given to a local (Spokane area) veterans group or split between groups.
