

Who Is Our Neighbor?

William Flanders

1. Who is our neigh-bor? That's the ques-tion. Who is this per-son we're to
2. We do re-call a cer-tain sto-ry: A man's been mugged and bad-ly
3. "Who of the pass-ers - by proved neigh-bor to him who could not ev-en love? The one a-cross the street or next door? Or in the a-part-ment up a - hurt. He's in a ditch where o - thers see him, but leave him there ly - ing in the move?" Now that's a ques - tion we can an - swer: the one who did care for him with bove? Just tell us how to know our neigh-bor, and him or her we'll love as best we dirt. Then comes a for - eign - er who helps him, some-one who has no busi-ness be - ing love. Then... an - y-one might be our neigh-bor, if we would on - ly take the time to

can. We won't be per-sonswith-out feel-ings,with no re - gard for our fel-low man. here, yet will notleave the man un-cared for. But who's our neigh-bor? It's still not clear.
heed, with un - derstand-ing and com-pas-sion,their cir-cum-stan-ces;from that their need.