Fellow members,

I have written a couple of new navigation spreadsheets for 2018. I will make these available at the class - they should make trip planning a breeze!

In the meantime if you happen to have "Microsoft Office 360 for home" did you know you can put it all or part of it on your phone for free? If you don't have MS Office there is a free alternative! It's called Libre Office, it works on Windows, Mac, and Linux systems, and has a companion app for your phone. My phone is a little stingy on the available memory so I only installed MS Excell and not the whole thing.

In addition to your paper charts and plotting stuff I would also encourage you to bring your laptops - remember we are planning out our route and the laptop is just one more tool.

Also new this year will be John Garvey with a short rules discussion.

Looking forward to seeing everyone.
