A Note from Rick: Tuesday's markets were very active as Spring approaches. We had bigger numbers in all categories and prices were solid throughout. Calves and feeders led the way in both volume and price gain over recent weeks. Dairy cows and springers were steady. We had several groups of good mixed fats and they sold very well. Actually, it's been a long time since we've had slaughter cattle prices this high. Butcher cows on the other hand was the only market that lost a little ground this week. After several weeks of continuous gains, I guess we were due for a slight correction. The one big change has been the Organic Butcher Cow market. We have gained another active buyer and prices have increased significantly. I look for this to continue and hope that we also continue to have more and more consistent cattle to offer these buyers. The Haflinger Auction is coming up this weekend and the Riding Horse Auction is in a few weeks. See you at TLA!
