

"The Dutchy is large enough to haul a couple of bags of groceries, your gym bag, or everything you need for a day at the office. Made from recycled billboards, it's functional and weatherproof, and pops right off your bike rack and compresses, too."

— The Essentials: 5 Must Have Items For Bike Commuters

"It's clear from the array of bike accessories offered on their [Green Guru Gear's] website that they love biking and want you to love it too. Their handy panniers, saddle bags, and backpacks are designed to make carrying your necessities much easier (they even have 6-pack holders!)"

— 7 Men's Accessories Made From Unexpected Materials

"Green Guru makes products like bike panniers and backpacks from used inner tubes, convention banners, billboards, and fabric scraps. It sells its own products, and even manufactures upcycled products for third-party brands."

— In The Spotlight: Green Guru Gear

GREEN GURU is made in Colorado, USA from upcycled old gear like bike tubes, tents, climbing ropes, wetsuits and more since 2007.

Think of all the old gear that just gets worn out! We collect these tough and cool materials after their first life, then upcycle them into new durable bags and accessories for another adventure. This helps the environment in good ways too, not to mention supports and creates livable wage jobs.

Think of it as the place your old gear wants to go when it dies. Now it doesn't die, it gets reincarnated into GREEN GURU.
