

Love Poem to a Modern Lady by Robin Gile

While you sleep I will whisper

To your tattoos and coax them

Over to my side of the bed

Of your body

As you lie there supine

And a little exhausted

Very relaxed

Stretched out in repose

That is when Tattoos

Can migrate

And murmur your secrets

To me