The Royal Naval Association (RNA) was formed in 1950, borne out of various Naval clubs and associations which had sprung up from the desire of ex Naval Service personnel to carry on the special comradeship that is a feature of life in the Royal Navy. We are a family of current and serving personnel, relatives and supporters of the Royal Navy. The RNA includes all ranks, ratings, branches and specialisations of the RN, RM, QARNNS, WRNS and Reserves. So this is truly “all of one company”. The term “shipmate” has been adopted as a form of address between members of whatever rank on official occasions.
