Fort Worth Decorative Painters is a Chapter

Celebrating 35 Years

FWDP President Letter

So, has anyone flown to Rome, Paris, London this month? Me neither. Anyone been mostly sitting home wondering where their next drive-thru meal will come from? I thought you would say "Yes". I don't know which is worse, being young and impatient to get on with their lives, or being older, realizing time is precious, but anxious for the next year to be over so we can become "whole" again. (Best estimates are it will take that long, even with a vaccine, to bring numbers safely down.)

Your Board has been meeting via Zoom, and will again on October 19th. Log in information will be sent out later. Hopefully we can hold a Zoom General Meeting for all members on November 23rd. Look for log-in information in the November Newsletter.

I have mailed out western boot Christmas ornaments for the optional Christmas exchange. If you missed it, we will roll over all planned themes and the "official" 2020 ornament, and party, to 2021. But, to keep in touch, and to commemorate our lost year, I purchased ornaments in the shape of a boot. Rules for the exchange are in the September Newsletter. We will exchange, per rules in the Newsletter, and we will open the package you receive from another member at a Zoom Christmas Party, December 14th at 7 p.m. See Sharlene's article for more information each month. READ THE EXCHANGE RULES.

If you have not asked for an ornament, please do so soon while they are still available. You need to have it painted by November 1st. If you receive the ornament to paint, and later decide not to participate, TELL ME before November 1st so I don't draw a person to receive your ornament and you aren't sending one to them.

Each year I decorate my yard for every holiday, however my Halloween pieces are still in the box. With "life" cancelled, my heart hasn't been in it. Just when things seemed most bleak, I woke up one morning and my neighbors had erected a 15 foot pumpkin. Maybe I should go look for that box of decorations.

Stay well, let me know if you want an ornament and contact Peggy if you want to join her Zoom painting circle.

Virtual Christmas Party

Your calendar is already marked for our Christmas party on December 14 at 7pm. This year we will host a virtual party via Zoom. The board has met a couple of times using Zoom and it has worked well. You'll need Zoom on your computer or phone. (Computer is best because you can see more faces on your screen.) Reach out to a board member if you need help with set up.

We will host a chapter meeting on November 16. This will be our "official" 4th meeting of the year AND a test run before the party to work out any technology kinks. If you are "Zooming" for the first time, try a practice meeting with a friend or 2 before our meeting. It's a great way to get comfortable with your set up.

Connie has generously supplied an ornament for a special exchange at our party. She has already mailed the ornaments to those who requested one and will draw names soon. Painted ornaments will be mailed to names drawn and will be held for opening during the party. If you didn't request one, she still has a few that can be sent if you let her know this week.

Wear your favorite Christmas sweater the night of the party. Bring your favorite beverage - peppermint tea, hot chocolate or ???

Let's do a card exchange before the party. Look at your name in the directory; send a card to the person above and below your name. A hand painted card would be awesome, but a card from your stash would also be nice. Imagine how fun it would be to receive a card with a note from a fellow chapter member! Bring cards you receive to show at our virtual party.

More details to come later about the party!

Membership

1. Reminder that membership dues ($20) for our chapter are due by December and can be sent to my home address which is listed in the directory. Thanks to members who have already sent their dues in and have renewed their national membership (Society of Decorative Painters membership).
2. There are many painting opportunities online by well known teachers in various mediums in the evenings, the weekends, and the mornings. There is literally something available for everyone. The best part given the time and events going on right now is that you can stay in the comfort of your home while still painting and staying connected. One such website is called Artful Webinars. They have two different offerings: the ornament of the month and regular artful webinars. You pay a small fee for programs you want to participate in, download instructions, prep your piece, sign on to link provided when it's your scheduled time, and paint with them live in the comfort of your own home. Awesome programs and teachers. Classes fill quickly. Website: www.cindyharrisonart.com. Join an art group on Facebook. There are many group offerings on Facebook like Artfully Connected, etc. to see what others are doing and/or offering online. There are a lot of free classes out there for members of these types of art groups; you just have to be a member and have the supplies to paint with. Other avenues to check out are your favorite teacher's websites and/or contact some of our chapter members to find online group painting opportunities as many are painting together via Zoom.

Until next time. Keep safe, stay connected, keep sharing, and keep painting.

“Just a quick note to ask for prayers for all of our friends who are facing challenges. Some have shared, some keep it unspoken...Personal illness, family sickness, loss of a loved one, financial challenges, quarantine, hurricanes, tornados, deadly fires, record breaking heat, rolling blackouts...there just seems to be a rash of things wreaking havoc in our circle of friends. And please keep in mind, some of us may have hidden sorrow, or worry, or indecision or illness that we choose not to share. We all carry something. Prayers for all.”
