Dawn Hammer Tabata

Executive Director, Grange Insurance Audubon Center. A nature and conservation enthusiast, Dawn enjoys experiencing and sharing the benefits of Ohio's natural beauty and diverse culture. She can often be found birding, hiking, or kayaking in Franklin County Metroparks, Adams County, or Pelee Island.

Birdwatching has taken flight in recent years. No matter where in the country you live, now is the time to get outside, to listen, and to see what has 47 million Americans looking up in wonder.

As recounted by an "accidental birdist," beginner birding doesn't have to be stressful—you need not know names and songs of all the birds you come across, just enjoy them. You can learn at your own pace. You might become an "accidental birdist" not expecting to see anything, but most likely will be amazed at everything!
