
Multiplication and division are _____ operations.

Example: $\square \div \square = \square$

Is there a way to use the same numbers to make a multiplication sentence?

$$\square \times \square = \square$$

Working a _____ problem in the opposite direction creates a _____ problem. Working a _____ problem in the opposite direction creates a _____ problem. That is why multiplication and division are _____ operations.