StoryTeller™ PROJECT

501C3 Nonprofit Corporation
Founded 1999

Our Mission

StoryTeller Project is dedicated to serving the community through skillful, innovative and impassioned use of Expressive and Media Arts. Educational and entertainment programs utilize a rich palette of music, performing arts, visual arts, video and mixed-media to serve a wide range of organizations and program participants, with emphasis on special needs and underserved populations.

Highly trained and committed professionals develop and deliver programs that are relevant, with productive experiences that foster positive outcomes. The essence of our mission is to bring useful and joyful learning to the individuals, organizations and communities we serve.

Standards-Based Programming

StoryTeller Project's educational programs and services align with the California State Curriculum Standards, and are grounded in Best Practices in educational methodology.

Complete Program Resources

StoryTeller Project will provide all program content, curriculum materials, process facilitation, and/or performances, plus all materials, musical instruments, and audio/video equipment.

Collaboration

StoryTeller Project is available to collaborate with the educators and organizations it serves, in both program planning and implementation. We strive to create synergy with our program partners.

Examples of Programs & Services (partial list)

Healing Arts Programs for Integrative Medicine

Movement & Music for Life
A life enhancing program for adults in all phases of cancer treatment. This program integrates therapeutic movement, creative movement and guided imagery rest and relaxation, all supported with live multi-instrumental music.

Multimedia StoryTelling Performances & Workshops

The expressive and media arts provide a powerful, integrated pallet for students' expression and creation of narrative pieces. Structured themes include:
- Living the Hero/Shero's Life
- Transitions - Exploring Life's Journey - Past, Present and Future
- Autobiographical Stories
- Our School - students' stories from the classroom & schoolyard

CrossCurrents

Music, visual media, songs, and spoken word are blended to create a multi-media journey through the diverse landscapes of American and World music and cultures.

StoryPower

Wisdom Tales and Teaching Myths are presented theatrically, and musically, with lots of audience participation.

Life Through the Lens

Provides an overview of photography and videography essentials. Students create personal works that reflect their perception of their life and world.

Language with a Beat

Rhythm and music provide the motivation for students to create, perform and publish their original poetic narratives and spoken word compositions, set to rhythm and music. This program is focused on teaching a range of language arts and literacy skills.

Music - Language of the Heart

Students access the power and magic of music through hands-on experiential learning with real instruments. Songs provide the narrative format and structure, while music is used to integrate intellectual learning with positive emotional expression.

Listen to My Body Talk - The Language of Movement

Body awareness, body language, and aesthetics are joyfully integrated with cognitive, emotional and social learning. Contemporary and cultural dance forms provide a rich backdrop for students' creative movement explorations.

Adaptable Programming

Story Teller Project adapts its programs and services to serve a broad range of students and organizations, including:
- Adult Education for Integrative Medicine
- Mainstream K-12
- Alternative K-12
- Special Education K- Adult
- Juvenile Justice Centers

Teacher Training and Professional Development

StoryTeller Project is available to share its professional experience and resources with other educators, artists, and community service providers.
