Eremophila Racemosa “Easter Egg Emu Bush”

Eremophila Racemosa, or better known as Easter Egg Emu Bush, is a lovely upright and compact shrub of bright green leaves that grows up to 5 feet tall and 5 feet wide. It is evergreen hardy down to 18 degrees. It blooms an array of colors each bloom changes from yellow to orange to pink to purple, decorating the whole plant in Easter color. Starting in late winter right through spring, sometimes through summer with adequate watering and almost no pruning required.

This plant feels right at home in our desert only needing low to moderate water with good draining soil.

Wonderful for clean neat appearance by pools and patios. Great for attracting humming birds, other nectar feeding birds and butterflies.
