AMANA NEWS AND NOTES

Join 100 Plus Iowa County

Meet new people. See old friends. Raise some cash for great causes. That's the goal of new group being formed in Iowa County to support Iowa County charitable giving by organizing three social events each year in the county.

The 100+ Iowa County Chapter will host an initial kick-off event Thursday, Oct. 24 at Fireside Winery, 5:30 – 7 p.m. as they seek members. "The goal is to raise more than $10,000 in less than 100 minutes," said Lisa McGrath who is helping promote the group. "This is the power of numbers."

This is how it works, according to the group's Facebook page: "To join you make a pledge to give $100 three times per year for a total of $300. Each meeting includes a social hour and nominations of local charities, non-profits, or worthy causes that positively impact Iowa Co. Three eligible causes are randomly selected. Members who nominated the selected causes will make a brief, informal presentation about the organization. Each member then votes by ballot for one of the three charities. The charity with the most number of votes will be the recipient of that meeting's donations. Each member writes a check for $100 directly to the recipient charity for a total group donation of $10,000 or more. Through this initiative we can raise more than $10,000 in less than 100 minutes"

Grayson Jones, Williamsburg, initiated the idea here locally, after attending a similar event in Johnson County, McGrath explained. Social giving is a growing trend popular across the country so a group decided to give it a try here.

To join contact Lisa McGrath or email 100plusiaco@gmail.com or visit www.100plusiaco.com.

Hurrah for Raincoats And Dedicated Volunteers

Last weekend's Oktoberfest was one for the record books. It rained hard Saturday morning just before the parade and off and on throughout the day, but you know what? No one really minded.

Donning raincoats, ponchos and a good attitude, the crowds came out for the parade Saturday and stayed in town despite the weather.

Sure, there was a little mud, here and there. Yes, it was sad they had to cancel the Saturday morning street performance of the New Amana Folk Singers. That was disappointing, but that's about all that got disrupted during an Oktoberfest that was notable for strong attendance despite the rain and chilly temps Saturday and Sunday.

"I thought that the weathermen saying there was a '90 percent chance of rain Saturday' would really kill our Saturday, but boy, I was wrong!" said one main street Amana merchant. "We had a bunch of people here on Saturday."

The rain poured just moments before the parade began but once the fire truck sirens blew, the rain slowed and then stopped so that folks were able to enjoy the parade which featured Shirley Reihman, long time Amana Society employee and Amana community volunteer, as its Grand Marshall.

The Amana General Store won "Best Use of Theme" while Ackerman Winery's float featuring "Lucy and Ethel" won "Most Humorous." The Amana Meat Shop's float took the coveted "Judges Choice," award in a parade that most residents expected to be very short, but in reality was just a little shorter than normal.

If you weren't in town on Friday, we can confirm that it certainly was very busy. Indeed Friday night might have been one for the record books at the Festhalle, while Sunday's attendance at the Festhalle appears to have been record breaker.

It will be a couple of days before exact attendance numbers are available, but event coordinator Cassidy Bringle was pleased with the event, "I think the festival went well, successful as usual and new improvements each year make the festival better and better."

As one Homestead resident observed, "The Festhalle was packed Friday all day. We had a huge line for food. We really had to hustle." She was there volunteering in the food tent for the Homestead

Welfare Club.

Furthermore, the Amana Church Elders reported that they had a record setting pancake breakfast attendance Saturday morning, feeding more than 70 people and raising over $700 for the Amana Colony Food Bank.

Don't Miss Last Performance of Creamery's Madagascar

With two grandkids, ages 2 and 3, in hand, we attended the Saturday afternoon performance of the Old Creamery Theatre's Madagascar: A Musical Adventure.

There is one more performance, Saturday Oct. 12 at 10 a.m. and if you want to laugh, love to be entertained and need to just have some fun, see this show before it closes. Tickets are $10.50 per person and yes, you can make reservations. Same day tickets are often available so don't hesitate to call.

All ages will love this whimsical tale about pampered New York Zoo animals who make a great escape, mostly by accident, and find themselves in Madagascar where things are pretty wild compared to zoo life. My grandkids were delighted! We grownups were delighted and so was the audience. Don't miss these Theatre for Young Audience performances they are a real treat.

Wilma is 99!

FEATHERS IN THE WIND

I was thinking of some past Oktoberfests we've had. I felt so sophisticated with one of the first which was held at the Amana Clubhouse.

Frankly, I had no idea what was going to happen. I had just been to Germany and learned a little, such as how farmers hung wreaths on their doors to welcome tourists in to taste their wine and cheese, this was before I realized I was allergic to lactose, so it was not such a good idea to stop, sample cheese and become ill two houses down the road. Oh well, the wine was really good!

Back to Amana.

I had invited some friends from Coe - only two spoke any German, to this first Oktoberfest. Naturally one was a guy I had been dating (long before I knew Charlie)

This guy had an Impala, a really great car at the time, so I thought twice before kicking him to the curb (Lucky for me he did get tossed aside eventually).

Another Oktoberfest was held at the school gym, for all the people who could walk the next day, it was the greatest!

Of course there was the really sad one when it rained so hard that Oktoberfest had to be completely off, but Oktoberfest without some rain really doesn't seem quite right.
