

Frank Pinkerton San Marcos, Texas

Frank Pinkerton is an East Texas native who earned his PhD from Texas A & M in 1967. After a storied career as an animal science professor and researcher in the U.S. and Asia, Frank retired from academia in 1993. Since that time, he has worked as a private consultant in oat marketing and management. He occasionally provides brokerage services to breeders across the country.

Frank's Q & A column, "Frankly Speaking", is one of the most-read items in the Goat Rancher magazine. The column shares his advice, wisdom and sharp wit as he answers readers' questions about goat nutrition and farm management. Frank also authors analytical articles for Goat Rancher on a regular basis.

Missouri Livestock Symposium

www.missourilivestock.com