Town Hall June 10

On June 10, at 2 p.m., the public service organization "Keeping it Country" will present several issues to sharewith the citizens of Lillian and unincorporated Elberta in Baldwin County Planning Districts 22, 29 and 33. The meeting will take place at The Lillian Community Club in Lillian.

The Baldwin County Planning and Zoning office does not wish to grant a petition to limit our minimum lot sizes to just RSF-1, approximately two-thirds of an acre per home. They want us to keep the RSF-2 category, which is 2.9 homes per acre.

We need as much community support as possible if we are to succeed. See Page 9.

TRIPLE HIT FOR WOLF BAY WATERSHED

Watchers Fear Farm Fallout, Population Growth and Climate Change Sheds Dim Future for Bay

About 10 years ago, a farmer let his herd of cattle into a pasture off County Road 95, where the animals proceeded to cool themselves in Hammock Creek.

No one saw it as an environmental disaster.

The cattle shuffled their hooves happily in the mud and sent the loosened soil anPAGE d pebbles swirling downstream. There, the sediment settled in its new home in the nearest bend of the stream. altering the course of the water flow.

So why do we care?

"When the path of a waterway changes, that sends storm runoff in new and unpredictable places," exains Leslie Gahagan, Environmental and Nature Parks Director for the City of Foley, and the recipient of the Water Conservationist of the Year Award, the most prestigious conservation award presented by the Alabama Wildlife Federation.

Wandering waters are not a good thing, Gahagan said.

"Neighborhoods that weren't in danger from flooding when they were built now are in the path of rising waters." she said.

The side effects of agriculture are the oldest of the environmental threats impacting the Wolf Bay Watersed, which extends from Rock Creek north of Robersdale.

to Baker Branch southwest of Silver Hill, Hammock Creek on the east and Wolf Bay off the Gulf of Mexico on the south.

Today a pair of newer environmental challenges are upstaging the farming fallout: population growth and climate change.

The Perdido Grande Dame Red Hat ladies

had an enjoyable time on Tuesday, May 9, at the El Burrito Restaurant on Hwy 98. They really enjoyed the food and the service. Deborah Donin and Mary Margaret Ayres were great hostesses. Our birthday girl, Kathy Brown, received a gift bag filled with wall hangings, a solar flower light, and a garden stone. Kathy also won the door prize which was a pink hydrangea. We all signed a get well card for Este Donnerwirth. Inga Petit was back with us and thanks God that she is now cancer free. The ladies decided to meet on the second Tuesday during the summer for lunch. Contact Waynette Brown 251-677-2679 for time and place. Guests are always welcome!!!

Congratulations to all.

Post 48 has sponsored to boys from Elberta High School this year, their names are Michael Gould Jr. and Michael Badger

THE AMERICAN LEGION WHY SHOULD YOU BELONG

The American Legion has existed for nearly 100 years and will continue to exist to serve veterans, service members, their families, and communities. It is the largest veterans service organization and works with the VA to improve services and reduce backlog.

They help protect the benefits that our veterans have earned and members fulfill the sacred duty by honoring the memories of U.S. military veterans after their death. Legion members also volunteer for over 1 million hours of service a year. They conduct numerous family and community programs so that they make a difference in their community, state and nation.

Legion members are very patriotic, they respect and honor our first responders, and they honor and respect the flag of this great nation and are very passionate about what they do.

They have a strong camaraderie, help with (benefits) claims and programs, and they are there to just simply talk and let veterans know they are not alone.

By joining the Legion, you will make new friends, have fun, get involved with your fellow legionnaires, by helping other veterans and the community in general at which this is a minimum cost and getting great satisfaction in return.

MEDICAL CLOSET

Post 48 would like to remind the Lillian Community that the Medical Closet is for all Lillian citizens at absolutely no charge. Many items include hospital beds, toilet items, wheelchairs and walkers. The only requirement is the return of said items when no longer needed.

THE INDIVIDUALS TO CONTACT ARE:

Perdido Bay Residents,

Your bay is being used as a dump. International Paper is dumping chemicals into our bay. The water is toxic to larvae and is herbicidal. Testing by Friends of Perdido Bay has demonstrated the toxicity. Our government has not only allowed this to happen but has supported it. No longer do we see shrimp boats or crabbers in our beautiful bay. This million dollar fishery is gone. Paper mills are the problem. Restore Perdido Bay to its once prolific past. # Tis the Season, and it's Not Exactly a Holiday

Last month I mentioned the different seasons of the year, but I forgot one. How could I forget the dreaded Hurricane Season that begins June 1 and ends Nov. 30? Yikes! Well, at least there won't be a Hurricane Sally this year.

It's time to get your emergency kits ready. Water is important. One gallon per person per day for several days is suggested to have on hand. Be sure to have extra batteries on hand for your flashlights.

Just a Thought or Two

By Sally McKinney

Have a good supply of your medications and a First Aid Kit. Electricity may be out for days, so plan ahead. Get a backup charger for your cell phone. Perhaps you should check out a generator for your home. Just before the storm is due to arrive, I always fill the bathtub with water to use to flush the toilet.

Start thinking about where you may go to evacuate. Keep your gas tank filled. Be sure to take your medications with you. Pay attention to reports of where the storm may hit, so you know whether to go west, north or east. Lillian area residents should use County Road 87 to evacuate. Remember that the bridge over Perdido Bay may be closed, so become familiar with other routes.

Don't forget to have your insurance information handy. Make copies of everything you may need, just in case you don't have access to them after the storm. Remember that just because you have everything online, you may not be able to access it. Paper is still a good source to save information.

After the storm be aware of no-goodniks who are out to make an easy buck. If there is damage to your property, take pictures, contact your insurance company and businesses you know you can trust. Do not sign over insurance checks to contractors. Beware of flooded streets. Do not try to drive > through them. Do not touch downed electric lines. Leave that to the experts.

Remember that there may not be any outside help for several days after the storm, so being prepared is important.

Several weeks ago I received a publication called "Stay Alert Baldwin Coun-

Dorothy L. Sayers: From Detective Novels to Theology Writings

Dorothy L. Sayers (1893-1957) was a British writer and scholar who is best known for her detective novels featuring the character Lord Peter Wimsey. She was also a significant religious thinker, known for her writings on Christian theology and apologetics. Sayers' theological writings focused on the intersection of Christianity and culture, and she sought to engage with contemporary issues and challenges facing the church. Her most famous book in this area is probably The Mind of the Maker, a study of the doctrine of the Trinity and its implications for creativity, art, and human personhood. She also wrote on topics such as the problem of evil, the nature of sin, and the importance of liturgy and sacraments.

Moving Forward

By Rev. Tina Lockett

Sayers was a friend of C.S. Lewis, the man who wrote the Chronicles of Narnia, Mere Christianity and dozens of other books. She collaborated with Lewis on a translation of Dante's "Divine Comedy" which is still published today. Sayers also corresponded with J.R.R. Tolkien who wrote The Lord of the Rings series. She attended some of weekly meetings of a group that Lewis, Tolkien and a few other writers had formed as their guest. Sayers own literary and theological work, however, was distinct from that of the group, and she is often considered to be more of an individual thinker and writer than a member of any particular group or movement.

While Sayers and C.S. Lewis were both members of the Church of England, they disagreed on the matter of women's ordination which was being discussed in the early 1950's. Before Lewis knew her view, he wrote to her asking that she take a public stand against it. This defense of tradition needed to be written by a woman, he reasoned. Instead, Sayers suggested she would be an "uneasy ally" for him because she did not see any theological reason why women should not be priests. She distinguished between whether a man or a woman should be "cast for the part" of "playing" Christ in the Mass (it made the most dramatic sense for it to be a man, of course) and whether a man or a woman could represent Christ to humanity. Because Christ was the representative of all humanity, not simply male humanity, she believed either a woman or a man could reflect that representation."

Let me end with a few quotes from Dorothy Sayers writings:

"Perhaps it is no wonder that the women were first at the Cradle and last at the Cross. They had never known a man like this Man - there never has been such another.

A prophet and teacher who never nagged at them, never flattered or coaxed or patronized; who never made arch jokes about them, never treated them either as "The women, God help us!" or "The ladies, God bless them!"; who rebuked without querulousness and praised without condescension; who took their questions and arguments seriously; who never mapped out their sphere for them, never urged them to be feminine or jeered at them for being female; who had no axe to grind and no uneasy male dignity to defend; who took them as he found them and was completely unself-conscious.

There is no act, no sermon, no parable in the whole Gospel that borrows its pungency from female perversity; nobody could possibly guess from the words and deeds of Jesus that there was anything "funny" about woman's nature." from Are Women Human?

"It is the dogma that is the drama -- not beautiful phrases, nor comforting sentiments, nor vague aspirations to loving-kindness and uplift, nor the promise of something nice after death -- but the terrifying assertion that the same God who made the world lived in the world and passed through the grave and gate of death. Show that to the heathen, and they may not believe it; but at least they may realize that here is something that a man might be glad to believe."

— From Creeds or Chaos

At St. Benedicts

Members of the third and fourth grade classes at St. Benedict Catholic School in Elberta participated in an interesting and unusual art project recently, thanks to the Bishop Sullivan Columbiettes, a Catholic women's organization associated with the Knights of Columbus. Member Phyllis Beam embroidered several pieces of fabric with various bible verses, such as "Love is patient. Love is kind. Love never fails." (1 Corinthians:4-8) The women brought the fabric pieces to the school with permanent markers. The boys and girls colored the items with the help of the Columbiettes. Ms Beam then stitched them together to make a hanging piece of art called "Scripture to Live By" that will be placed in the cafeteria. Pctured with the class are from left, St. Benedict Principal Dr. Kathy McCool, Columbiettes Sally Bremer, Terri Russell, Phyllis Beam and Diane Fiduccia and classroom teacher Courtney Catalogna.

Priority One: Passwords and Personal Electronic Security

Challenge Security Questions. Use two factor authentication and software password keeper.

There are numerous ways to protect yourself and passwords from being compromised. Creating a strong password with upper, lower case alpha characters, numbers and symbols could be enough as long as you can remember the password you created. It is suggested not to use the same password for everything. Obvious reason to worry: if your password is obtained access to all information is possible. However, if you have numerous passwords, it is your obligation to know each password for every location that requires it. Some cases if you have set up Challenge Security Questions the site you are accessing may ask you to answer the Challenge Security Question(s). If you have not setup your Challenge Security Questions on your sites, I recommend that you do and make note of the questions and your answer.

Two Factor Authentication security is a means to verify that you are you by sending a code to a cellular phone, e-mail address, and or in some iOS / MAC users to your YouTube account. Once you input the code you have access to your site.

This means you must have access to the method the code is sent to you.

Software Password Keeper controls your passwords to the site and or sites that require a password logon. You do not have to input the password after the first time and you select remember password. All is well on that device, however if you are using another device you will have to know your password(s).

It appears there is no correct or incorrect way to mange your passwords. The management is a preference of the creator of the password(s).

The Mouse

By Joseph Oakley

You are able to implement the level of security and challenge authentication that you desire from any of your accounts. It is all contained on that site under your account. There you have the ability to create answers to security questions, implement two factor authentication if provided by that organization, and change your password.

Until next time Remember; The key to enter are your password(s) keep them safe, don't get locked out.

I hope to accomplish that you know you are smarter than your computer, that the computer is a tool, and you are the master of that tool.

If you have any questions, you would like answered in this column, please send them to: mouse@pc-s4u.com

Until next time, safe computing. "PC'S 4 U where quality and client satisfaction are priority!"

TOWN HALL SET FOR JUNE 10

Taxes, Flooding, 98 and 91Traffic Lights

It's time to be informed and take action. Our top issue is to adopt a local ordinance to eliminate RSF-2 (2.9 houses per acre) in order to keep low density housing in our rural area. We also wish to add "NO PRD, PID, PUD," (planned developments), as an additional amendment

Keeping it Country

By Tracey Gambill

to keep low density with appropriate property setbacks. This will be explained at the Townhall Meeting. If we have enough support, we expect our final hearing on our text amendments to go before the County Commissioners in July. If these ordinances are not adopted, we will be forced to fight each time a developer applies for the higher density subdivisions in our beautiful area. Large turnout is paramount! Commissioners need to know there is a large community of support. Last townhall had 100 attendees. Bring a friend and make it 200 plus on June 10!

LATEST: On May 15 at the County Commissioners Work Session, I stated how we have been misled and slow-walked by the Planning and Zoning Director Matthew Brown, throughout the process of amending our local zoning ordinance text amendments. I will follow up by turning over my email paper trail to the new County Administrator, Roger H. Rendleman, to support my statements. Stay tuned!

NEXT STOP (Light!) Update: Regarding the Alabama Department of Transportation instructions on how to request a traffic control light at the intersection of Highway 98 and County Road 91, (5 calls and 4 emails since April 20)...Still waiting to hear from Adam Spence. I will continue to press the issue.

NATURAL WONDERS: Aren't we lucky, blessed to live in such a natural environment to enjoy every day ... early morning birds singing, roosters crowing, cows bawling, horses whinnying, sunrise, sunset, moonrise, driving by fields of fresh crops, cattle grazing, the smell of fresh grass, flowers blooming. I, for one, am grateful. "Keeping it Country"!

All the Best, Tracey.

OPTIMIST NEWS

The Optimist Club of Perdido Bay recently welcomed two new members (left photo), Ellen and George Thompson. With them are sponsors Dennis and Robin Newell. The Optimist Club is dedicated to "Bringing Out the Best in Kids." The club sponsors a variety of programs for boys and girls throughout the year. The club recently presented Lillian Recreational Park Director Lucy Smith (center photo) with a $200 check to be used for the new pickleball courts. Scholarship Winners The club also distributed three $1,000 in scholarships to three Elberta High School seniors (right photo). From left are Kendal Helton, Noah Givens and Kayleigh Jones. Kendal will attend Auburn University where she will major in nursing. Noah will attend Alabama Community College for his Associates Degree and then transfer to Troy University for a degree in Elementary Education. Kayleigh will attend Coastal Alabama Community College for an Associates Degree in Science and then she will attend a technical school to obtain credentials to become an Ultrasound Technician specializing in Obstetrics and Gynecology.

Elberta Tech MS, HS Students Score Well in State Competition

Over 20 middle school students and three high school students recently competed in the Technology Student Association Leadership Conference in Montgomery AL. Under the direction of Bill Allen, these students participated in such events as Robotics, Dragster Races, Solar Sprints, Audio Podcasting and Promotional Design. Our MS students came away overall Number 3 in the state and our HS (with its newly formed chapter) had a very strong showing. Elberta also is proud to say we will have State representation with both Noah Jackson (Reporter) and Karl Spilker (Treasurer) for the 2023-24 school year along with Bill Allen Middle School Chapter Advisor of the Year. The students are set to represent us at the national conference in Louisville KY June 28-July 3. For more information about TSA please go to Alabama TSA Building Technology Leaders.

Probably Not a Dry Spot on Fido and Tabby; Likely 'Walking Dandruff'

Here's some advice: when you take pictures of anything small with your smart phone, please, please, please, Get A Close Up. Your smart phone's camera has a zoom function. If you don't know how to use it, ask a grandkid or a neighborhood teenager. It is critical to get a nice tight picture that shows an insect's body segments and antennae if you want some help identifying what it is. Y'all can't call me and say it's a little brown bug. There are way, way, way too many options!

If you are trying to send photos to your vet of the white dandruff on your cat, remember to get in nice and close and watch out for their claws! Cats are treacherous. That tummy looks soft, warm, and fuzzy, but the one millisecond past when the cat is done having its tummy scratched your hand becomes the enemy!

That white dandruff like stuff on your cat may in fact be Cheyletiella, a genus of mites that live on the skin surface of dogs, cats, and rabbits. This mite is often called Walking Dandruff (WD), because it resembles a large, white, mobile dandruff flake. Cheyletiella yasguri occurs in dogs, C. blakei in cats and C. parasitivorax can be found in rabbits. Cheyletiella occurs around the world.

WD is a relatively large, light yellowish, oval mite. The female is usually about 0.5 mm long and 0.3 mm wide. The male is smaller, 0.35 mm × 0.22 mm. When looking at the outline of the mite from above, there is an indention at both sides of the "waist" (like a really fat, expanded figure 8) that is characteristic of the species. WD has very prominent "pedipalps", which are a pair of hooked claws that start right behind the mouth. They also have eight legs that end in combs to keep them tangled in hair!

WD uses its well-developed pedipalp claws to clamp down on the skin. By flexing its mouth muscles, it pushes it's mouth parts into a needle-like structure that injects a salivary secretion into the skin. (Have you ever tried to roll your tongue into a tube? That's kind of what this insect does with different parts of its mouth.) The mite then sucks the saliva and the digested tissue directly into its intestine.

Their entire 21-day life cycle of the mites occurs on ONE host. WD cannot survive off the host for more than 10 days. The mites can often be seen moving around in the hair coat -thus the "walking dandruff" nickname. Although they are "surface mites", the WD "tunnels" are shallow, and found in the outermost layers of skin that we, or our pets, would naturally shed. There are burrowing mites called Scabies,

Know Your Critters

By Celeste Hadley-Champion

Scaroptes scabiei which tunnel under your skin. Save yourself some night-mares and do not Google it.

In general, dogs are more likely than cats to show signs of mite infestation: primarily pruritis (itchy skin), scaliness and eczema-like skin lesions around the face. These surface mites can be easily seen moving around in the haircoat - "walking dandruff". Infestations with Cheyletiella species mites are very contagious, particularly among young animals or those that are sick or stressed in other ways. WD transmits readily to people too!

"When you add all these pressures on the water system, it causes water issues that people aren't prepared for," Gahagan said.

The Red Soil Menace

As Baldwin County takes its place among the fastest-growing regions in the country, local waterways are bearing the brunt of the neglect, pollution, and overload that is the byproduct of progress. It's not just local soil seeping into our streams and rivers. Construction waste from building sites as far north as Birmingham flows inevitably southward to fill our estuaries.

Building doesn't have to be a cluster calamity. When best management practices govern growth, contractors can minimize the environmental damage. But hasty construction, lack of education, and limited oversight wind up with tons of red clay, debris, and pollutants flowing to fill up the intricate web of waterways feeding the Gulf of Mexico.

"It's a question we always get," Gahagan said. "Why does it matter? It's only dirt and mud."

It would still be plenty problematic even if it were only red silt, as they call this cloudy culprit, gumming up the ecosystem. It blocks out the sun that grows the water grasses that feels it though? d the fish and create oxygen for marine life. It fills the nooks and crannies in streams and riverbeds where fish lay their eggs. When these fish nursery fissures fill up with construction waste, it's the end of life as we know it on the bountiful waterways of the Wolf Bay watershed.

And that's not the worst of it. All that mud migrating slowly and steadily southward through the waterways carries with it the toxic remnants of industrial waste, farm runoff, and construction scrap. Now we have fish rendered unsafe to eat in any amount in places like Magnolia Springs, Weeks Bay Estuary, and Bon Secour.

This sediment disfigures our economy, communities, and water bodies on many levels. Economically, it requires us to dredge the waterways more often than otherwise necessary. This dredging is expensive and can have other impacts, such as harming fisheries, Gahagan said.

So money saved in penny-pinching construction schemes comes due in accounts owed for dredging, loss of tourism dollars, depleted commercial fishing catches, and a diminished quality of life that cannot carry a dollar value.

Rising Tide

Warming waters and rising tides in the Gulf of Mexico translate to more rain in the Wolf Bay system.

"It isn't complicated," Gahagan said. "More precipitation means more flooding in our communities."

In fact, an Auburn University study analyzing the impacts of climate change and population growth in the Wolf Bay Water shed predicts urban growth will nearly double in the future. These two factors will cause temperatures and streamflow to increase every single month, especially during the fall.

At the same time we have more surface water, water stored temporarily in the watershed and in the ground is steadily decreasing.

Result? "Results showed that both climate change and (land use) change would cause a redistribution of streamflow. Higher flows were projected to increase, while small flows are expected to decrease," the 2017 study concludes. And we already learned what changes in streamflow mean for communities and homeowners: more flooding.

Feeling the future

Gahagan works closely with county environmentalist Ashley Campbell (the two are actually old friends. Officials are holding developers to higher standards and making sure simple things like existing drainage systems are well maintained. She recently noticed some ditches along Highway 98 south of County Road 91 that need work. That area is dotted with wetlands, though developers must prove they're not building on them, she said.

Those who live in the footprint of the Wolf Bay Watershed are feeling the changes.

Melvin Whitehurst grew up in a neighborhood just across Highway 98 from the new Fields Crossing community. Last July after heavy rain his family saw water rising across the yard up to their patio for the first time ever. Billy Cunningham's grandfather built a retirement home on Pirate's Cove Bayou in the late 60's. The family vacationed there with the Perdido Bay sailors. They fished, crabbed, and shrimped. The kids and the dogs ran free.

Water traffic has increased "exponentially" and there aren't enough launches for all the boaters who flock to Perdido Bay each weekend. Dwindling catches of shrimp and other previously abundant fish are the cost of decades of pollution in Perdido Bay.

Intensifying hurricanes like Camille, Ivan and Sally - byproducts of climate change - have "wreaked havoc on the environment," said Dr. Cunningham, a retired family physician. The water is higher. Hurricanes and development have thinned the lush tropical forest.

"It's a fine line we walk - property owners do have the right to use their land as they see fit," Gahagan said. "We just have to make sure that works for the rest of us given the environmental forces we're seeing in the future of the area."

SOMEONE YOU SHOULD KNOW

Like Many of Us, the Move to Lillian Wasn't Quite the Retirement We Figured

As you become friends with your neighbors, you find out some interesting information of their past and present lives. Joy Sims has been a neighbor for 30 years, but did you know that she is an accomplished stained glass artist? For years she has been designing colorful pieces for homes and businesses in the area.

It all started when she and her husband ran a door and window shop in California. It was her husband's idea that they add stained glass to their services. Joy jumped at the chance and immediately signed up for classes and she has been making art ever since.

When she moved to Lillian she thought she would be retiring, but she just couldn't give it up. She has dozens of books with patterns, but mostly she designs the pieces herself. A recent piece features a local beach with sunset and sand with tiny turtles making their way to the Gulf of Mexico. The four-by-five foot piece is now at home in a condo on the beach, replicating what the residents see when they look out the window.

When an automobile accident devastated the front entrance to Manning Jewelers in Foley, Joy was on the scene repairing the transom and doors. You can also see her work at Rotolo's Pizza in Orange Beach.

In addition to stained glass, Joy also includes etched and fused glass pieces in her collection. "Fused glass is a much more creative form," she says. "It's more of a right brain experience." She is also venturing into three dimensional pieces.

If you are interested in learning about this art, contact Joy at 251-9223-6346 to join an individual or group class.

She offers a six-week, three-hours-a-week beginner's class at her studio in Spanish Cove. It may be time to put your hidden talents to work. She also offers advanced classes. You can see some of her work on her website at joysims.com.

Lillian Methodist Church Joins the AL Emerald Coast Conference of the Global Methodist Church

On May 7, 2023, the Lillian Methodist Church officially became a congregation of the Alabama Emerald Coast Conference of the Global Methodist Church. After a series of meetings with the leadership of the Alabama West Florida Annual conference of the United Methodist

The Methodist Message

By Rev. Daniel Randall

Church and a time of prayerful discernment the members of Lillian Methodist Church determined that the direction that the United Methodist Church is heading is not a direction they can be a part of any longer. The church scheduled a Church Conference on March 12, 2023, with the Pensacola District superintendent of the Alabama West Florida Conference of the United Methodist Church. All members of the church, active and inactive, were informed of the Church Conference. At the Church Conference, the members present voted 99% to withdraw from the United Methodist Church and then 100 percent to change our name to Lillian Methodist Church and join the Global Methodist Church. To date 236 of 554 churches in the Alabama West Florida Conference of the United Methodist Church have withdrawn, and the vast majority have joined the newly formed Global Methodist Church. The Global Methodist Church was formed on May 1, 2022, by former members and leaders of the United Methodist Church who desired to create a new Methodist, Wesleyan, orthodox denomination. More will be departing this November. For the last 50 years, the United Methodist Church has experienced continuous conflict and is now experiencing a deep, deep division over the issue of its clergy performing same-sex weddings and the ordination of self-avowed practicing homosexuals. It is not about who is or is not welcomed in church.

God calls us to love everyone no matter what, but God does not encourage us to condone sin. Lillian Methodist Church's decision to disaffiliate had less to do with human sexuality and more with our convictions and understanding of the authority of scripture, our understanding of who Jesus is, and our concern for effective accountability within a denominational structure. Other than our name changing and our new denominational association we are still the same congregation continuing to reach out with God's love to this wonderful area as we have for the past 43 years. We are still Christian, Methodist, and Wesleyan, and everyone has always been and always will be welcomed at the Lillian Methodist Church. We are all a work in progress and none of us are perfect. I am a perfect example of an imperfect person. Yet, God calls every one of us to a saving relationship through His Son Jesus Christ, to confess our sins and accept Jesus as Lord and Savior and then to honor Him in the lives we live in His Holy name. We pray for all our area churches and the service that God provides through so many. To learn more about the doctrines and beliefs of Lillian Methodist Church, please check our church website at www.LillianMC.org.

New Officers, Equipment Upgrades Focus of LVFD Improvements

The Lillian Volunteer Fire Department responded to 66 calls dispatched by the 911 operators in May: 33 Medical Assistance; 7 Public Assists; 2 Motor Vehicle Accidents/Clean up; 2 Brush Fire; 4 Structure Fire; 10 Cancelled en route; 8 False Alarm/Miscellaneous.

For most of the fiscal year, LVFD only had two officers, Chief, Nick Dewhurst and Deputy Chief Todd Mullane. However, after many months of leadership training from rigorous classroom instructions to online course materials, we are now happy to announce we have two highly trained Lieutenants. Please join us in congratulating Lt. Curtis

By Goretti Lysek

Cantrell and Lt. Nick Dosh. We would also like to thank Deputy Chief, Todd Mullane and Chief, Nick Dewhurst for all the hours they contributed in getting the two new Lieutenants up to the highest standards of leadership. Lillian Fire would also like to thank the Masonic Lodge for providing dinner to the station in celebration of our new Lieutenants.

During our last monthly LVFD board meeting,

Chief Dewhurst advised the board that the department has been steadfastly working towards various improvements in the equipment. They have been adding LED lights to most vehicles and will be extending the boat canopy to increase sun exposure protection during long boat details in the summer months. He informed the board the department is in a position now to make improvements to the equipment rather than just fix existing problems which is setting up the department for greater success in its overall operations. Their main focus at this time is to ensure the vehicles can function as multi-purpose vehicles. In the event of one vehicle being sidelined due to any mechanical failures, they will be able to use other vehicles to pick up the slack. A great example of this is purchasing a vehicle topper. This topper will align with the goal of making one of our main trucks multi-purpose and will also help us be able to convert to a service truck when necessary. Again, the department obtained another great deal. Toppers usually range from $15k-$20k; however, they were able to purchase one from Alarka Volunteer Fire Department, N. Carolina, for $2,800. And a big thank you to Deputy Chief Mullane for driving to N. Carolina to pick the topper up.

Chief Dewhurst also advised the department was able to add one new member to the roster last month and there is a possibility of another couple of re-

The Happiness Project

LILLIAN FIRE RESCUE - If you have the heart to serve your community, you have everything you need

In this fifth installment of the HAPPINESS PROJECT series, we begin to explore some of the community organizations that use volunteers. This month we are focusing on the Lillian Fire Department which uses volunteers both as firefighters and as EMS workers

When you were a little kid, did you ever think "I want to be a fireman when I grow up!"? Then when you grew up, that dream faded and you became involved in another career? That's not unusual. But if you're still intrigued with the idea of being a fireman (or woman!), it's not too late! The Lillian Fire Rescue Department would love to talk with you.

According to Nick Dewhurst, Lillian Fire Chief, the Lillian volunteer firefighters and EMS workers come from all over. They are both men and women. They are business owners, teachers, mechanics, and IT people. The one thing they all have in common is that they want to help people.

Volunteer firefighters put out fires, provide important emergency services, like responding to accidents and medical emergencies, helping people in danger and distress. "We get a lot of fulfillment out of helping people on the worst day of their lives" notes Nick lives," notes Nick.

The Lilian Fire Department relies solely on volunteers as firefighters and EMS workers.

Nick stated, "People see firefighters and think 'I could never do that', but once they get involved, they realize they can.

They get a great deal of pride and satisfaction from something they never thought they could do."

The Lillian Fire Department is one of the premiere firefighting departments in Baldwin County. "Our services are topnotch because that is what our citizens deserve."

Firefighters become a close-knit group, a family, and is something you will take pride in for the rest of your life.

The best part of being a firefighter? Serving and helping others.

So if you enjoy helping people and making sure they're safe, the Fire Department would love to hear from you. They are always looking for new recruits to join their ranks as a firefighter or EMS worker. To volunteer, go to the Lillian Fire Rescue Facebook page and message them. Applications are accepted at any time.

But it is a commitment. It takes 160 hours of training to be a firefighter and 40 hours to be an EMS worker. "There's always something to do, even when we're not on calls," according to the chief, including drills and training each month. The average firefighter volunteers 15 to 20 hours per month.

"Volunteers must be 18 or older and be able to make 10% of the calls we have and 50% of drills we do each month. We provide all the training they need."

Whether or not you decide to volunteer with the Fire Department, any time you're going by the fire station and see the firefighters, don't hesitate to stop and say 'hi'. They'd love to visit with you, give you a tour and show you the trucks. They are all extremely proud of the work they do and would love to share that pride with you

Blue Sky Trading Co. Teams To Benefit Area Charities

Wanda and Joe Wilson have lived in Lillian, Alabama for over five years. Prior to that they lived in Gulf Shores. Wanda and Joe have been small business owners in Baldwin County for over 20 years and they are thrilled with their new venture Blue Sky Trading Company

The Wilson's recently bought the business from the former owner of LA Storage and opened Blue Sky Trading Company in the Spring of 2023 to serve the Lillian Community with a vintage and antique mall.

Vendors rent their booth space to sell quality vintage and antique items. It is not a thrift store. Blue Sky is a 6000 sq/ft store in Lillian for a wide selection of antique and vintage furniture, collectibles, arts, crafts, and many other unique items. Blue Sky is located at 33860 US Hwy 98 in Lillian. It is open 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday and they will take orders over the phone at 251-961-1150.

The latest in community spirit has proved to be a win/ win according to Jennifer Rousseau. She, along with Lori Jones, Robin Hammond, and Jan Kirkendall Clark have pooled their efforts to attend yard sales, estate sales, and receive donations from members of the Lillian community and other local areas to allow it's 501 c (3) organizations to benefit 100 percent from the proceeds from booth Number 9.

Booth Number 9 is the Blue Sky Trading Company Community Fundraiser. The Blue Sky Trading Community Fundraising booth will donate to other Baldwin County 501 c (3) organizations that benefit women and children in need and four legged fur babies.

Each quarter, a new charity will be selected to receive funding from the booth sales. Only sales from booth Number 9 will benefit area charities.

Wanda and Joe Wilson and the four women have partnered to offer this unique way for the community to aid local charities, by contributing money to area causes, funded through the community purchasing vintage trinkets or antiques for themselves or to give as a gift to their loved ones.

"It's a win/win situation," Rousseau said.

Wanda and Joe generously donate to the Lillian Recreational Park with food sales offered at occasional Saturday events. The Blue Sky Trading Community Fundraising booth had its inaugural kickoff event on Saturday, April 29. A pancake breakfast was served from 10 a.m. to 12 p.m., along with rum punch to have a celebratory toast to enhance the festivities for the event offered to the Lillian community. Please follow the Blue Sky Trading Company facebook page to see all the fun upcoming pop up events that occur throughout the week. Just google the company and follow the facebook link.

OBITUARIES

Former AL Rep. Walter E. Penry

A life-long resident of Baldwin County, Penry served six terms in the Alabama Legislature (1979-2003) representing the Eastern Shore of Mobile Bay and South Baldwin County

An active legislator attuned to the needs of Baldwin County, Representative Penry sponsored laws that allowed citizens to vote on the expansion of Daphne's city limits, established Fort Blakley as an Alabama State Park, and permitted Baldwin and Mobile Counties to keep a greater portion of the state's oil and gas revenue. He was particularly proud of the law he introduced which protected retired nurses and doctors doing pro-bono work by providing them with liability insurance through the state of Alabama.

In 1995, in recognition of his support of conservation, he was named Conservation Legislator of the Year by the Alabama Wildlife Federation. Penry served two tours of duty as a Corporal in the US Army and for many years was a member of the Foley Army National Guard eventually attaining the rank of Master Sergeant. A board member of the University of South Alabama Foundation for over 30 years, Penry was also active in the Boy Scouts of America, and received their highest award, the Silver Beaver Award, for dedication and service to scouting. Walter was a founder and long-term President of the Belforest Water System which brought municipal water to rural areas of Baldwin County which previously only had well water.

Penry graduated from Fairhope High School in 1949. He worked for the Gulf, Mobile and Ohio Railroad which later became the Illinois Central Railroad for over four decades. He is survived by his wife of 70 years, Jane Mathews Penry, his daughter, Dr. S. Elizabeth Penry of New York City, his son Walter E Penry 3rd of Daphne, his son Charles D. Penry (Lane) and two grandchildren (Evan and William) of Arlington, VA and his son John W. Penry (Beth Dietz) and four grandchildren (Grace, Aiden, Sarah and Kate) of Tempe, AZ.

Obituaries may be submitted to lillianeditor@yahoo.com.

Al & Cathy Head to the Front Porch June 15

Flute parts in rock and roll are not unheard of, but they are novel.

Canned Heat. Marshall Tucker, Jethro Tull. Moody Blues.

But that doesn't limit Al and Cathy's opportunities to showcase Cathy's enchanting flute skills.

The married musical duo - Al and Cathy Beanmake flute and guitar sound like an entire band.

"We did all the songs that had flute parts in them and then we started adding them to lots of other songs" Al said.

They tried substituting flute for guitar solos. And piano solos. And percussion parts. And it works. It's mesmerizing, as the two bring vibrance to a seriously breathtaking range of music. And it's that flute which makes this act stand out among others on the local music circuit.

The flute steals the scene in gripping the rifts of Neil Diamond's Sweet Caroline. It makes the magic in Stevie Nick's Crystal Vision. Eric Clapton, Lay down Sally? Flute. Oldie favorite Draggin the Line? All embellished and made better with the

"It was such a natural thing for us we really didn't stop to wonder if it would work or not," Al said. While the flute steals the show, both Beans are strong and able vocalists with easy likable harmonies that fill the night air on the Front Porch like a 6-piece band. Al is engaging on the odd -shaped little guitar he plays that is specially designed to be played sitting down. Cathy played flute in her high school band. A natural musician, she can play anything, Al said. Cathy had drifted away from music to focus on raising a family when Al found her in the Panhandle after what he calls his "frat days" in Nashville. Nashville is a great place to meet people and rub shoulders, Al says. It's not a good place for making money.

"It was like being a rockstar without the money" he said. "I didn't eat a lot of the time."

After bouncing back and forth between Florida and Alabama, the Beans settled in Daphne and appear to be Al says the Panhandle music scene is more to his liking than Nashville.

"Less hype, more happiness," he said.

Al and Cathy will perform at Johnny B's Front Porch on June 15. See you there

Coastal Ballet Unlocks Doors to Creativity With Arabian Nights

Scheherazade, Ali Baba and the Forty Thieves, Tales of Sinbad the Sailor, and Aladdin's Wonderful Lamp.

From the baby ballerinas giving their all to Mother Goose ditties to advanced dancers crushing it with their own choreography, the production is a celebration of creativity.

"I love Arabian Nights because it stimulates the imagination and gives students new avenues of creative freedom through movement," Cordy said.

"We all grew up on Mother Goose fables, but Arabian Nights introduces a whole new genre of fable and leg-

Cordy is something of a legend in her own right. She is about as close as your lay person is likely to come to ballet royalty.

Literally. With five decades in London's Academy of Dance, the late Queen Elizabeth asked Cordy to contribute to royal ceremonies. Cordy studied at Julliard and was a soloist and instructor for the Miami Ballet, Disney, the Alabama School of Fine Arts and two of her own ballet schools in Birmingham.

"The Queen was a benefactor for most of my life," Cordy says.

As the curtain opens on Arabian Nights at Gulf Shores Community Theater last month, Coastal's wee ballet wannabe's charm the audience with primary points and tippy toe turns. Then the stars come out, advanced dancers crushing it through their own compositions and and also classic choreography.

Some of Cordy's dancers may go on to fill Madame's footsteps as professional dancers, choreographers and teachers. Kyra Rose Cornwell will be serving out her second scholarship with Florida State University's intensive summer dance workshop.

But for those who aren't doing dance as a career, tapping into creativity through the curious band of romantic characters in the Arabian Nights can unlock other talents - writing, poetry, photography or sculpting.

Everybody isn't going to be a professional dancer," Cordy says. "But dance can open multiple access points to our students' creativity."

Coastal ballet is enrolling for summer dance workshops scheduled for 10-4 June 19-23 and July 17-21. Tuition is $150 for the week with classes in classical ballet, acting, French, character, jazz, contortion and etiquette. For more information call 251-979-9851.
