

Yadav Ghimirey

I come from Nepal and have completed M.Sc in Environmental Management in 2006. I joined Friends of Nature (Nepali NGO working in the field of wildlife research and conservation) in 2008. Currently I am director of wildlife research and conservation theme in the organization. My specific interest lies in studying small felids and small carnivores, especially the clouded leopard, golden cat, marbled cat, binturong and weasels. I want to study the interactions and intra-guild predation among these species. I also work with ethology and status assessment of other species like the snow leopard, grey wolf, small carnivores and owls.
