

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

CONTACT: Vel Johnson
vel@vasajcommunications.com

New Book Release Helps Children Reach Greater Heights

Orlando, FL – May 09, 2019 – Jamaican born author, poet, publisher, and legal scholar Janet Autherine, officially joins the genre of children’s non-fiction literature with the release of her book, Growing Into Greatness with God – 7 Paths to Greatness for Our Sons & Daughters. The book, written for the preteen reader, is a second edition paperback format, now available on Amazon.

“Teaching our children about faith can be challenging,” notes Autherine. “As a mother of three boys, I wrote this book motivated by the desire to raise them to dream big dreams and to identify their personal greatness at an early age.”

Interwoven with powerful messages, the book’s inspirational stories give direction for “Growing in ... Courage, Confidence, and Leadership.” The author has also included a journal and workbook with questions for study and self-reflection.

Synopsis – You Are Strong Enough to Pass Any Test

Nothing will ever happen to you that you and God cannot handle together. If the grade on your report card is an F, don't accept that it means "failure"; believe that it means "fearlessly working toward an A." Problems can shake you, but if you remain optimistic even in your weakest moments, they will not break you.

Autherine’s passages encourage the reader to discover his or her uniqueness and continue to learn ways to define greatness. The author notes, “After reading this book, I hope you can confidently say the following: I am a child of God! God made me and molded me with only the finest ingredients. Greatness is already within me; I embrace it. God created a path for my life that is sometimes beautiful, sometimes challenging, but always filled with opportunities for me to learn and grow. With God's help, I will grow into my greatness!”

About Janet Autherine, J.D.

Janet Autherine is a poet, author, publisher, and attorney, originally from Jamaica and currently living in Central Florida with her three sons. As a book enthusiast and storyteller, she introduces readers to inspirational writings through her blogs and publishing company, Autherine Publishing. Autherine attended Pennsylvania State University, receiving an undergraduate degree in Labor Relations. She also graduated from Boston College Law School (JD) and the Georgetown Law Center (LL.M in Taxation).

Autherine’s blog, Growing into Greatness, is described as growth through books, poetry, positivity and purpose, with a healthy dose of mindfulness and meditation. The author is also a proud introvert, sharing experiences through her blog, The Introvert Village. Autherine’s blogs and writing project, Women Leaving Footprints in the Sand, a piece designed to celebrate the lives of women who are walking in their purpose, may be found on her website at www.JanetAutherine.com. Autherine is available for media interviews, speaking engagements, and book signings. To reach her directly, send an email message to: JanetAutherine@GrowIntoGreatness.com.

###