Twentieth Sunday in Ordinary Time
August 16, 2020

At that time, Jesus withdrew to the region of Tyre and Sidon. And behold, a Canaanite woman of that district came and called out, "Have pity on me, Lord, Son of David! My daughter is tormented by a demon." But Jesus did not say a word in answer to her. Jesus' disciples came and asked him, "Send her away, for she keeps calling out after us." He said in reply, "I was sent only to the lost sheep of the house of Israel." But the woman came and did Jesus homage, saying, "Lord, help me." He said in reply, "It is not right to take the food of the children and throw it to the dogs." She said, "Please, Lord, for even the dogs eat the scraps that fall from the table of their masters." Then Jesus said to her in reply, "O woman, great is your faith! Let it be done for you as you wish." And the woman's daughter was healed from that hour.

FROM THE PASTOR

A Message From Fr. Brian Johnson

August 12, 2020 Twentieth Sunday in Ordinary Time Mt 15:21-28

Dear St. Pius X and St. Anthony Church,

What is Jesus doing in this escalating confrontation with the Canaanite Woman? Before we jump to any conclusion about offense or disrespect, I caution us to 'Stay with Jesus' because he is leading us through something. It helps us to know that Jesus ends this exchange by commending the Canaanite woman's faith with words that are among His highest praise for someone's persistent witness! Her humble faith is impressive. With this reading, we could go in many different interpretative directions, similar to how Jesus has gone in many directions even by traveling into Tyre and Sidon (He has left the reservation of Jewish territory). In our recent Sunday gospel readings, we've been seeing Jesus take extra time to withdraw & pray in solitary places, so maybe he is going clear into Gentile territory as a retreat. This makes it all the more striking that He would say to the woman, "I was sent only to the lost sheep of the house of Israel (Matt 15:4). She could say, "Then why are you over here to begin with?" But I think that she finds the hand of God involved in Jesus coming to her neighborhood. But a good question is still, "How does she know about Jesus?"

An important detail to keep in mind about this snappy and possibly sarcastic dialogue between the woman and Jesus, is that Jesus our good shepherd, knows our hearts (Acts 15:8 & Romans 8:27). Jesus knows this woman's persistent and good faith. He is not going to lose her. She knows that Jesus is her Savior. Again, Jesus will commend her confession of faith. Keep in mind that Jesus had challenged the apostles for their fear and lack of faith on the sea (Matt 14:31). Peter will make a great confession of faith in Matthew 16:16 calling Jesus 'Messiah' but that hasn't happened yet. But Jesus knows that the woman will hang on in faith. I think she picks up on Jesus' nonverbal cues, that He is going to heal her daughter, when he refuses to act on the disciples' selfish demand to 'send her away'. I suggest that Jesus is working on the faith of his own disciples more than on the Canaanite woman's faith. He knows that her faith is strong. But he is working to build the faith of his own disciples, and trying to broaden their understanding of his universal mission. The apostles had become pretty good at chasing people away from Jesus, instead of inviting them into relationship with Him. Recall that just last week prior to the feeding of the 5,000 the apostles had said, "dismiss the crowds...." (Matt 14:15). Also, the apostles will push away and discourage children being brought to Jesus for blessing in Matt 19:13. Apostles don't always show the best record of 'welcoming people into relationship with Jesus'. So it is no surprise that they tell Jesus here, "Send her away, for she keeps calling out after us." (Matt 15:23). I love how Jesus lets her faith be a 'show & tell' of faith to teach them. He lets her faith go from words to deeds right in front of them. Since Jesus doesn't respond directly, she eventually approaches Him and kneels before Him. Matthew 15:25 says she "came and did him homage, saying, "Lord, help me." She displays her faith by kneeling before him. Faith to her is more than saying words; she acts on faith by her gestures and persistence. She knows her Savior. And she is humbly content even with just one scrap from Jesus (Like Psalm 84:11 "Better one day in your courts than a thousand elsewhere."). Nothing dissuades her from seeking her Savior. I point out, also, that she is not asking for healing or prosperity for herself, she is solely on a mission to ask help for her daughter. She is interceding for someone else. And of course, Jesus heals the daughter remotely and praises the woman's faith in front of the apostles. (It would make a good bible study to locate and identify all of the healing requests made of Jesus that people ask for other people-but that is another day!)

I have always wondered if this Canaanite woman's strong and patient faith is behind the parable that Jesus teaches later in the gospel of Luke about the 'persistent widow' who tirelessly seeks justice from a judge in Luke 18:6-8. After telling that parable, Jesus asked his disciples and the crowd, "When the Son of Man comes, will He find faith on earth?" Good question!

Peace and Prayers,
Fr. Brian

Another Saint in a Time of Plague:

St. Luke (born ? – Died 84 AD)

Luke the Evangelist, patron saint of Physicians and Health Care Workers, is one of the Four Gospel writers. The Early Church attributed the authorship of both the Gospel of Luke and the Acts of the Apostles (which amounts to nearly a quarter of the New Testament text). During this pandemic time and as we pray for all health care providers, it is fitting to review St Luke's background in health or medical matters that is reflected in his writings. Since St Luke is referred to as both a devoted physician and a gospel (good news) writer, he may be a great resource during this particular time of epidemic illness, to draw hope from and discover comfort. His feast day is October 18. He is also claimed to be the patron saint of artists and historians, who also have eyes for detail, like doctors. I would like to look at the traces and clues in his writing that indicate his familiarity with medical matters and 'doctoring' background. So, St. Luke, pray for us

The only three scriptural references to Luke by name, come from Pauline (?) letters. The Luke mentioned there, worked with St Paul in missionary ministry. The most significant reference might be the one claiming Luke's medical experience. Colossians 4:14 describes Luke to be a doctor friend of Paul's, saying, "Luke, the beloved physician, and Demas greet you". Philemon 1:24 St Paul describes Luke as a 'fellow worker' in ministry. The description of Luke as 'beloved' could indicate him being known as a very personal, compassionate caregiver. Similarly, Luke's fidelity to care is seen reflected in the passage of 2 Timothy 4:11 that says, "Only Luke is with me". Some scripture scholars suggest that Luke was a personal doctor to St Paul himself (like a staff physician). Paul was known to have suffered chronic health conditions (such as his "infirmities" from 2 Corinthians 12:9 or his debilitating 'thorn in the flesh' 2 Cor 12:7, or his near blindness hinted at by Gal 6:11 "See what large letters I use as I write to you with my own hand"). Additionally, there are many interesting scripture quotes found only in Luke's gospel that speak of either 1) physicians themselves, 2) specific medical conditions or 3) particular medical observations (more likely to come from someone trained to observe 'symptoms' and 'diagnose treatments'. For example, only Luke contains the passages where Jesus says "Physician, heal yourself!" (Luke 4:23) and "Those who are well have no need of a physician, but those who are sick" (Luke 5:31). Also, a quick mention of some specific medical conditions uniquely found in Luke's gospel is seen in his reference to 'dropsy' in 14:2 which was a type of edema or swelling, or the 'spinal deformity' mentioned in 13:11. Also, Luke's familiarity with disease is seen by how he refers to people who 'suffer a particular condition' instead of only seeing the condition and labeling the person with it (sign of a more humane practitioner- holistically he sees the patient first then the disease) For example, Luke says, "some men brought on a stretcher a man who was paralyzed" (5:18) where Matthew says, 'people brought to him a paralytic' (9:2). Or Luke says, "here was a man full of leprosy" (5:12), while Mark says "A leper came to Jesus" (1:40). Luke compassionately sees a human being afflicted with a condition, while the less medically trained eye sees only the 'disabling, disfiguring state'.

But also, Luke knows the power of healing, and is sure to include (alone among the gospels) the account of Jesus healing even the aggressive soldier whose ear had been cut off (only in Luke 22:51). Also, especially unique to Luke is the parable of the Good Samaritan that details not only healing care, but also specific prescriptions of treatment. Luke 10:34 says, "Samaritan approached the victim, poured oil and wine over his wounds and bandaged them. Then he lifted him up on his own animal, took him to an inn and cared for him." Alcohol as an antiseptic and oil as a coating to prevent infection and wound contamination are mentioned as 'treatments'. So certainly, much can be found in Luke that indicates a medical familiarity, and demonstrates medical experience that can be used for the further spread of the gospel of Jesus Christ, our true healer. So again in this time of pandemic, St. Luke, pray for us.
