Thirtieth-First Sunday in Ordinary Time
Mt 23:1-12

“The greatest among you must be your servant.”

Robert Greenleaf is credited with the concept of “servant leadership” as a model for leaders in business and industry [and politics]. His model is impressive, but it is by no means unique. When stripped of the business and industry management jargon, it bears a striking resemblance to the life and message of Jesus. People listened to Jesus because his words matched his actions. People observed that he loved God the Father with his whole heart, mind, soul, and strength, and that he loved his neighbor as himself. That is why he had the credibility to challenge others to do the same. That is why he had the credibility to challenge the scribes and Pharisees who dressed in elaborate garments, claimed high sounding titles, sat in places of honor, performed acts to be seen, and assumed the “chair of Moses” - all the while placing heavy burdens on the people. It is no wonder the scribes and Pharisees rejected Jesus and his example of “servant leadership.” But for us who claim to be Christian, we must be servants. We get closer to God by serving others.

National Vocation Awareness Week
November 5 – 11, 2017

During this week we encourage all Catholics to:

- Take time to pray for vocations to the priesthood and consecrated life.
- Reflect on our own vocation and strengthen our personal relationship with Christ.
- Participate in the CALLED BY NAME process
- Invite and encourage young people to consider a vocation to priesthood or religious life and to consider participating in our discernment opportunities
- Educate our young people about the importance of silent prayer and taking the time to truly listen to God's voice in our hearts.

For more information about vocations, please visit

Sexual abuse of a minor or vulnerable person is a crime according to both state and Church law, and there is help and healing possible.
