Our Father

In the recitation of the Our Father at Mass, there is no provision for omitting the prayer, “Deliver us, Lord, etc.” except at a wedding Mass. Therefore, any musical setting of the Lord’s Prayer that is used at Mass must provide for the doxology to be sung after the prayer has been sung.

During the Our Father, the Roman Missal instructs the priest to “extend his hands” assuming the Orans posture. This posture is prescribed only for the priest and although it has been adopted by the faithful in some countries after the approval of the Holy See, in the United States it is still a posture assumed only by the priest.

The faithful holding hands during the Our Father is another posture not envisioned or prescribed by the Roman Missal. While this has been adopted within families with small children it should not be considered a normal posture of the Sacred Liturgy. Indeed some may feel uncomfortable if this posture is imposed upon them.

Rite of Peace

The Rite of Peace is a traditional practice by which the Church entreats peace and unity for herself and for the whole human family, and the faithful express to each other their ecclesial communion and mutual charity before receiving Holy Communion. Congregations should be catechized regarding the true meaning and purpose of the sign of peace. The sign of peace is an option in the Roman Missal that may be offered “if appropriate”.

The sign of peace is not an act of reconciliation, which has already occurred in the Penitential Act at the beginning of the Mass, nor is it a neighborly greeting. This misunderstanding of the meaning of the sign has led to abuses, such as extended or protracted exchanges of handshakes, hugs, and kisses, which delay the Lamb of God and disrupt the flow of the celebration of the Eucharist.

The priest may give the sign of peace to the ministers, but he should always remain within the sanctuary, so as not to disturb the celebration. For those in the congregation, it is appropriate that each person offer the sign of peace only to those who are nearest, and in a sober manner.

In the dioceses of the United States of America, for a good reason, on special occasions (for example, in the case of a funeral, a wedding, or when civic leaders are present) the priest may offer the sign of peace to a few of the faithful near the sanctuary.
