NRA Armed Citizen from December 2022 Magazines

On Sept. 23, after the 10-day waiting period required in her state, a 50-year-old woman in Patterson, Calif., picked up the revolver she had purchased. Around 10 p.m. the next night, she had to use it to defend against a home invader. The woman and her husband were at home when an unknown man began trying to force entry through their front door. The husband tried to prevent the man from coming in and the two grappled just inside the threshold. The woman retrieved her new firearm from upstairs and shot the intruder to death. Because she spoke Mandarin, she had a neighbor report the incident to police. Investigators reported the intruder was heavily intoxicated and had a history of alcohol abuse and of showing up "unannounced" at random residences in the area. Gaetz introduces 'Abolish the ATF Act'

Rep. Matt Gaetz, R-Fla., introduced a bill to eliminate the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives (ATF) following a controversial ruling that tightens regulations on pistol stabilizing braces.

The ATF issued its final rule Friday that will treat guns with stabilizing accessories like short-barreled rifles, which require a federal license to own under the National Firearms Act.

Attorney General Merrick Garland said the ruling enhances public safety, but Gaetz said it unfairly punishes disabled gun owners and veterans who rely on stabilizing braces to be able to fire with one hand.

Gaetz introduced H.R. 374, the "Abolish the ATF Act," Tuesday morning in response to the ruling, telling Fox News Digital it was the "final straw."

"I believe that you are likely to see ATF bureaucrats hauled before the Judiciary Committee to explain themselves in the coming weeks and months," said Gaetz, who also sits on the committee. "Because we're hearing this very loudly from our constituents, and the reason I filed this bill is, frankly, I think that the ATF should have to justify their existence at all."

SHOT SHOW 2023: ALL-IN ON FUN Posted on Shooting Industry Magazine.com, by JADE MOLDAE

Click the link above to read the entire article.

However, SHOT Show 2022 — though smaller in attendance and without some of the industry's biggest companies — provided a much-needed injection of enthusiasm driven by an in-person event. This was helped by SHOT Show 2022 having the largest footprint of any SHOT Show, thanks to the Caesars Forum expansion, which featured 2,400 exhibitors and 800,000 net sq. ft. of exhibit space.

"We're definitely going to have a 'normal' SHOT Show, going back to pre-pandemic levels — which is fantastic," Schilling shared. "We're trending above 2020 with our buyers, currently looking at 40% more buyers. We're getting that quality attendee back at the show, and a lot of new attendees as well."

"Interest from international attendees is pacing terrifically, which is surprising given the Biden administration's reluctance to bring back consulate staff that issues visas. And it's not just our industry being impacted by this, by the way," he said. "All we can do is all we can do — we want to get U.S. products in front of an international audience, but they don't make it easy with the hurdles they have in place."
