A Holiday Thought

A Breslov Dvar Torah for the Pesach Seder

If one swallows the maror [without chewing it] he has not fulfilled the mitzvah, for it is necessary to taste the bitterness. Dip it in the charoset and shake it off (Orach Chaim 475:3).

The Seder, like Real Life, is a process. And just as in Real Life, experiencing bitter pain is a necessary part of the process. A Seder without maror is not a Seder. A Seder that does not progress beyond maror is also not a Seder. Pain is an integral part of Real Life. Too often we try to avoid it or deny it. That's no way to live, says Rebbe Nachman. We have to look our pain squarely in the eye and conquer it, so that our triumph over it becomes a source of cheer.

To have a prayer of overcoming your pain, Rebbe Nachman teaches that you have to face it when you are strong enough to do so. You need to be at least a wee bit happy with something, with (almost) anything. (It's gotta be kosher.) If you don't have any immediately available, borrow some from the past or from the future. It doesn't have to be your own personal happiness; it's OK if you borrow some from a friend. If you can't muster up even that teensy bit, then at least hang around with people who are genuinely cheerful. They're bound to schlep you into their happiness.

Once you've gotten the happiness, you're ready to "taste the maror". Experiencing bitterness is a growing experience, a coming-closer-to-G-d experience. Chew on it. Try to understand its specific purpose, namely which latent strength of yours G-d is trying to elicit, and how it's meant to be manifested.

We do eat maror at the Seder, but not straight. For most it would be too overwhelming. Dip the bitter maror into the charoset, the sweet mixture of apples, cinnamon and wine. Then shake off the charoset. Let the residue of its pleasantness give you the strength and insight to unlock the lessons of bitter pain as you slowly masticate your maror. Let the resulting awareness accompany you into Shulchan Orakh, the meal, so Real Life can be the delicious spread it's supposed to be. - ז

Seudas Dovid HaMelech

A highlight of the year is the annual gathering which ends the holiday of Shavuos. This special meal - known as "the feast of King David" recalls the tradition that Shavuos is the Yahrzeit of King David. This gathering is traditionally graced by the presence of Rav Teitz who is unable to join us this year. The harmonies and melodies so characteristic of Bais Yitzchok, are a fitting close to the Pesach / Shavuos season, We hope you plan to attend this event which follows Mincha on the second day of Shavuos.
