

CIDER SYMPOSIUM

at

BEERONOMICS 2015

Seattle, WA
September 9, 2015

HOST INSTITUTION

IMPACT Center
School of Economic Sciences
College of Agricultural, Human, &
Natural Resource Sciences
Washington State University

WASHINGTON STATE UNIVERSITY

Organizing Committee

Randy Fortenbery
Suzette Galinato
Gnel Gabrielyan
Thomas Marsh
Jill McCluskey
Mike McCullough
Peter Tozer

Visit Seattle

www.visitseattle.org/

Discover Beer Culture, Seattle
[www.visitseattle.org/visitors/
discover/beer-culture.aspx](http://www.visitseattle.org/visitors/discover/beer-culture.aspx)

Check out local cider-makers and cideries in the Northwest at Northwest Cider Association.
<http://www.nwcider.com/>

A new feature at Beeronomics 2015 is a Hard Cider Symposium. Cider is the fastest growing segment in the alcoholic beverages market in the USA, and has enjoyed expansion in many markets around the world. The Cider Symposium provides a forum to exchange ideas and present high-quality economic research related to the economics of cider, cider apple production, cider-making and related activities.

The Symposium will encompass a wide array of topics including the economics of production; markets, marketing and market structure; consumers and consumption; international and interregional trade, industrial organization, policy and regulation, economic history, law and economics, and macroeconomics.

Beeronomics is a two day (September 8 and 9) conference focusing on beer, brewing and related activities. The Cider Symposium will take place on Day Two of Beeronomics.

Join us in Seattle for this exciting opportunity.

Submit one page Abstracts by April 15, 2015 to beeronomics2015@gmail.com.

HOTEL AND REGISTRATION

The conference will be held in downtown Seattle at the Sheraton Hotel. A block of rooms with a special rate has been set aside:

<https://www.starwoodmeeting.com/Book/Beeronomics>

Day Two Registration information is available on the Beeronomics 2015 website:

www.beeronomics2015.org

Contact: Charli Hochsprung, Event Coordinator, beeronomics2015@gmail.com