Chasan is welcoming Marlin White as vice president of Operations.

White will be overseeing the overall Chasan operations with a focus on future growth and development. He will be spending half of his time in Greeneville and the remainder in Knoxville and Nashville.

“I’m very excited to be a part of the Chasan team,” White said. “My title is vice president of Operations, but I often tell people I’m the vice president of Growth and chief problem solver.

“Our team here is great and things run very smoothly and since we are near capacity a lot of what my time will be spent on will be looking for opportunities to growth and expand the business,” he added. “We have experienced incredible growth over the last 3-plus years, and I’m very fortunate to be joining a company that is as strong, healthy and in such a growth position as Chasan is. I learned very quickly after coming on board is that Chasan has a true ‘can-do’ attitude here when it comes to our customers, both existing and potential.”

He is the only son of Chasan owners Charles and Sandra White, from whom the company derives its name.

“Marlin comes to Chasan with a wealth of business acumen and technical expertise that will help propel CHASAN’s success for in the future,” an announcement concerning his appointment stated.

White has worked 10 years in Nashville in various roles at Dollar General and Brookdale Senior Living, most recently working as a senior financial analyst, the announcement says. While at Dollar General, he oversaw all of Dollar General’s capital expenditures of $500 million-plus and reported to the CFO weekly, it adds.

“I have worked at several places in my career and many business say they are ‘can-do’ but falter when big commitments are needed,” White said. “I can personally attest that even in my short time at CHASAN I have seen a great willingness to partner with customers to help find a solution for a customer’s need. I’m very excited to be in a role where we can be very creative in problem solving.”

White is a graduate of the University of Tennessee Knoxville with a degree in Logistics and Transportation. His wife, Erin White, is a graduate of the University of Tennessee Knoxville with a degree in Political Science as well as having a Judicial Degree from Belmont University in Nashville. They have a son, Lincoln.
