Everyday RACISM in America: A special MSNBC town hall

“Hate, bias, and passivity toward harm to others all thrive on a lack of knowledge. We stand up for one another when we get more informed about fellow human beings and the world.” ~ Mica Pollock

Join us in the Mississippi Room at NWSISD for this presentation on Everyday Racism in America. This session will include the viewing of the May 2018 MSNBC Town Hall meeting along with small and large group guided discussion. The Town Hall meeting, a hour-long discussion, explored the current state of race relations in America through the prism of several events, including the arrest of two African-American men at a Philadelphia Starbucks and how hidden bias played a role.

Objectives/Outcomes:

- Have an understanding and working definition of hidden bias
- Be provided opportunities to share stories and learn from one another
- Be provided an opportunity to test yourself on hidden bias
