Through unique writing exercises and invaluable feedback, this 9-week workshop concentrates on helping writers be more prolific, break out into new areas of creativity and imagination, continue with work-in-progress toward completion or begin pieces that grow into exciting stories, novels, poems or memoirs. Writers will also get constructive critique in a supportive, nurturing atmosphere. I've been teaching for over 30 years and most of my students have gone on to publish their work in reams of literary journals, receiving prizes and monetary advances.
