AN UNEQUAL MATCH.

The Rival Polo Quartettes Meet at the Springs and Engage in a $100 Match.

The Tact and Experience of the Britishers Gives Them the Victory Over the Cow Boys.

The announcement that a quartette of Texas cow boys would play a polo match on Saturday afternoon with four Englishmen, members of the Texas Polo club, for $100, was sufficient to attract a large number of the citizens to the springs on that day. Few, except those who are bigots on Texan matters, expected that the cow boys would win the match, and indeed there is reason to believe that no such hope inspired the Texans, because they had not had that practice nor experience that is necessary for success, but all anticipated that the cow boys would ride well, and having regard to all circumstances do justice to themselves. In the latter expectation the public were not disappointed. They rode well as rough riders and were very active, but it was apparent that they had not in this respect the grace and ease of their opponents. The cow boys did remarkable well, but their inexperience was made apparent by the many misses they made, in the way in which their men were marauded, and in their attempts to guard their goal. From the first it was evident that the Britishers had it all their own way, and nearly all the contest took place on the cow boys' side of the field. In 13 minutes the Britishers made their first goal, but the cow boys disputed this, alleging that the horse's hoof and not the player's mallet had sent the ball through the goal. This was doubtful and the Britisher gave it up, but in two minutes after, they sent a ball through the goal in such style as would not admit of any objection. No more goals were got in this game, and neither side got a goal during the second game. In five minutes after commencing, the third game, the Englishmen scored another goal, and two minutes afterwards repeated their success. Practically there was no further play, and time was called without the cow boys succeeding in making a single goal during the three games. The official score was as follows:

Texas Polo Club..... 1 0 2-3
Texas Cow boys..... 0 0 0-0
Majority for the Texas Polo Club 3.

The sides were represented as follows: Texas Polo club, E. E. Shearburn, captain, H. M. Glazbrook, C. Mitchell, and Howie Glazbrook.

The Texas cow boys' quartette was composed as follows: Fred Parker, captain, not playing, Sam Bennett, George Maltzberger, Manuel Rentur and Joe Davis.

A MUSICAL TREAT.

The Vienna Ladies' Concert at the Mission Garden Fully Appreciated.

The LIGHT commissioner was on the lookout in the Fourth ward for items last night and called into the Mission garden, which was crowded with interested spectators, who were listening to the concerts given by Mrs. H. Temler's Vienna ladies' orchestra, and it is no figure of speech to say that he was well pleased. In addition to the picturesque appearance of the garden, which is in itself an attraction, the concert is of the most pleasing character. The orchestra consists of the following: Mrs. H. Temler, directress; Miss Fannie Herfter, violincello; Miss E. Heneman, violin; Miss L. Heineman, piano; Miss T. Weimar, cornet; Miss A. Weimar, drum and xcelophone; Miss E. Weimar, double bass violin; Miss Lydia Herfter, kettle drum and accompanist; H. Temler, cornet and clarinet; Mr. Vogel, violin; Mr. Von der Guzht, fife, and Mr. Miller, trombone. All the selections were well played, but the LIGHT must particularly commend the Post and Peasant, the Peek a Boo chorus, Die Post im Walde and La Fuella. In the last mentioned piece the violincello solo of Miss Fannie Herfter was exquisite, the tone being so clear, full and sympathetic as to secure a hearty encore. Die Post im Walde was principally a cornet solo for Mr. H. Temler, and was well and deservedly applauded. The pianissimo note and distance effect of the cornet were of the highest artistic character. Taken as a whole, the performance is an excellent one and merits the patronage of the public.

NOVELTY AT THE SPRINGS.

Messrs. Sanders & Eberhardt Inaugurate Their Series of Entertainments.

Messrs. Sanders & Eberhardt inaugurated their series of entertainments at the springs last night, and on the whole scored a fair success. The company consisted of Coll Cohen, F. Hesse, W. W. Selleck, M. Eggeling, C. Campbell, R. L. Barrow, F. J. Schreiner, Charles Habby, Billy Adams, C. Roberts and George DeHaven, all of whom did well in their respective parts, but the LIGHT must especially commend Coll Cohen's negro impersonations, the graceful dancing of Charles Habby, the Xylophone playing of Mr. C. Roberts of the Eighth cavalry band, and George DeHaven's contortions. The entertainment was regarded as being very pleasing, but considerable disappointment was created by the failure to have the pyrotechnical display.

A Freight Train Wrecked.

A wreck occurred at Sanderson on the Sunset railroad on Saturday night, by which the traffic on that road was delayed several hours. As far as can be learned no person was injured, but considerable damage was done to the rolling stock.

An Accidental Shot.

On Saturday as two men were riding into San Antonio, the pistol of one accidentally exploded and wounded the other in the foot. The injuries are of a slight character, but it is said the injured man had a narrow escape of receiving a more serious wound.

A Query.

So many fire hydrants have been located in the mesquit bushes that the citizens and taxpayers wonder whether these places have been selected by the city administration or by the waterworks company. If by the latter, these hydrants are probably erected free of rent.

Robbed.

Yesterday afternoon news reached the police office that a man had been robbed at the Sunset depot. On proceeding to the spot it was found that a man named Tom Mannigan, while sleeping on the doorstep of an unfinished building, had been robbed of a gold watch and chain. No clue to the thief has, as yet, been found.

How Iko Got the Lemonade.

Iko Cohen was at the Mission garden last night, and wore his Sunday-go-to-meeting hat. There he saw a lady friend drinking lemonade. Taking off the hat, he presented it, and said, "Won't you give me some?" The lady was kind. She gave him some; the only drawback was she emptied the glass of lemonade in his hat. Tableau.

She Rests Among Us.

The citizens of San Antonio will be glad to learn that Miss Anna Cedergreen, the celebrated basso vocalist and leader of the Swedish Lady's Quartette, is located in the city and will remain here for some time, resting from her professional labors. Miss Cedergreen in private life is known as Mrs. Clarke, and is in every way an estimable lady.

He Came for Peaches and Got Thrashed.

Some colored boys have been in the habit of going into Ed Steves' garden and regaling themselves with peaches. They called yesterday, when Albert Steves caught one of them and gave him a thrashing by the way of a caution not to do it again. Albert says that colored boys who want peaches are recommended not to come there, or they will find a thrashing.

A Second Affliction.

Arthur Dugosh, aged two years and eight months, son of Mr. I. Dugosh, died yesterday morning at 8 o'clock from typhoid fever. His remains were buried this morning from the family residence, at the corner of Goliad and Matagorda streets. This is the second child Mr. Dugosh has lost in a very short period, and much sympathy is expressed for the unhappy parents in their bereavement.

Where Is He?

Mr. James McMahon of Leavenworth, Kansas, who was boarding at the San Antonio house and disappeared about a fortnight ago, has not since been heard of. He is well connected and since his disappearance, letters and money have been received at his boarding house. A telegram has also been received, stating that if Mr. McMahon is sick, the landlord is to take care of him and send his bill on for payment. Mr. McMahon has been much depressed lately, and it is feared that he has committed suicide.

How They Both Ran.

There was an exciting race on Saturday on Houston street, the competitors being the celestial occupants of the laundry near the bridge and a slim negro. It appears that the negro crept into the laundry stealthily and grabbing the celestial's watch which hung on the wall, made off with it. John Chinaman saw the thief as he was going out, and went after him, but the fear of punishment proved to be a greater incentive to speed than the hope of reward, and as a result, the negro escaped and John Chinaman returned to his laundry much winded and minus his watch. John has now a very poor opinion of negroes in general and of this thieving rascal in particular.

SOCIETY LATINE SUPPER.

The 93d Anniversary of the Taking of the Bastille Celebrated.

The members of the Union Latine society gave a supper Saturday night at Scholz's restaurant in honor of the 93d anniversary of the taking of the Bastille. Among the invited guests present were County Judge Mason, Major Joseph E. Dwyer and son, County Collector Jose Cassiano, a reporter from the LIGHT, Express and Fort Worth Gazette, and a few others. Mr. E. P. Claudon acted as master of ceremonies. The supper was nicely gotten up and did the caterer much credit. After the gathering had filled themselves with the many good things before them, the master of ceremonies announced a few speeches and some singing was in order. The following toasts were had: "Success to the Latin Race," responded to by Judge Mason, saying that the present civilization and advance of Christianity was due to the Latin race, etc. "The City of San Antonio," responded to by Major Joseph E. Dwyer. The Major also responded to the toast, "To Our Invited Guests." "To the Press," responded to by Mr. Charles Seabaugh, who closed his speech in a patriotic appeal that in these United States, under the grand old flag, the stars and stripes, we were all one people. Mr. Jake Marshall then arose and told a story about the war. The recitation by young Mr. Dwyer was rapturously enjoyed. Mr. Quasso told what he knew about wine, and sang several songs. The singing of Mr. Leon Bacher was quite a treat. This gentleman is a good comedian and a fine singer, and it is to be hoped he will some time take part in some of the amateur performances. The reporters of the LIGHT and Express did not have anything to say—they got too full for expression. The whole evening was one of jollity and pleasure, and will long be remembered by those present.

MRS. SCHAUB AGAIN.

After Driving Furiously, She Fights the Buggy's Owner and Nearly Kills a Policeman.

About 7 o'clock on Sunday evening Officer Dolan, when returning from the springs, observed a commotion going on opposite Smith & Dunn's livery stable. Quickly descending from the cars he made for the spot and discovered Mrs. Schaub, of notorious fame, fighting, screaming and throwing rocks at Messrs. Smith & Dunn and his hostler. It appears that Mrs. Schaub and another lady of the demi monde, also from Ignacia Cortez's house, had gone to Mr. Smith's stable and hired a horse and buggy. On entering the buggy Mrs. Schaub commenced driving furiously, not only to the danger of herself but of the public. Mr. Smith promptly forbade her the use of the buggy, hence the fight. Dolan rushed for the infuriated woman, but before he was able to seize her, she had dashed a five pound rock at the officer's head; so well directed was her aim, that the missile landed on Dolan's helmet, crushing it in, and for the moment, making him stagger, but only for a moment. In a trice he had seized her and directed her steps to the police office. Mrs. Schaub's language was too awful to repeat, and in every way she showed herself to be a hard case. Officer Dolan says if it had not been for his good helmet, he would not have been able to tell the reporter the above facts.

GLASS BALL SHOOTING.

The Gentlemen of the Alamo Shooting Club Meet on Their New Grounds.

Yesterday afternoon in glorious weather the members of the shooting club met on their new grounds, between the race course and ditch, where sides were quickly picked up, and the practice commenced. The following is the score at 18 yards, 20 balls each.

MR. YOUNG'S SIDE.
Mr. Young, 13; Mr. Flood, 9; Mr. Adams, 14; Mr. Richter, 10; Mr. Cosette, 17; total 63.

MR. OLSMITH'S SIDE.
Mr. Olsmith, 13; Mr. Flory, 11; Mr. Friedrich, 14; Mr. Theile, 10; Mr. Welch, 7; total 55.

From the above it will be seen Mr. Young's side won by 8 balls.

And individual contest was then got up, 20 balls to each man, at the same range which brought out the following score:

Mr. Adams, 8; Mr. Friedrich, 5; Mr. Olsmith, 7; Mr. Young, 4; Mr. Theile, 7; Mr. Flood, 6; Mr. Richter, 6; Mr. Cosette, 6.

Mr. Adams therefore won the match, while Mr. Cosette made the highest score during the afternoon, namely 24 balls. The meeting then broke up, and the members went off to see the polo, and other various amusements going on at the springs.

Henry Burke in San Antonio.

As already stated, Mr. Henry Burke, the principal actor in the Denison scandal, is in city and is being introduced largely in the city. Mr. Burke, it is stated, is in appearance a very intelligent and gentlemanly man.
