

Warner's Campaign Event Raises Funds for Charity

Manchester Mayor Ryan Warner held a community meet and greet April 26, at Java Vault. The packed event was open to the public in order to allow residents and interested parties to ask questions and have an open discussion over a cup of coffee.

Residents showed up to ask questions about the upcoming May 19 town election. Questions centered on the differences between the candidates for office and numerous current issues facing Manchester.

The Tree of Friends Foundation (TOFF), a local charity group that addresses humanitarian needs, also participated in the event. TOFF sold coffee mugs, accepted donations and received a portion of all Java Vault sales in order to support their current initiative of providing weekend meals to local elementary school students in need.

Warner is seeking a second four year term as mayor. He is opposed by Councilwoman Tammy Black and Chris Tomlinson.

Manchester Mayor Ryan Warner poses with (L-R) Darcey Hott, Shelly Dubs and Jessie Boog inside the Java Vault, Manchester. Submitted photo.