

Worldview & Focus

The world can be tough, and only the strong survive. I will protect the innocent.
Is everything under control in an effective and just manner?

The world is a place where I cannot assert myself; instead, I will create harmony.
Is everyone being heard, including me?

The world is imperfect, and I work toward its improvement.
What is right or wrong, correct or incorrect?

The world is full of endless, exciting opportunities so I look to the future.
What is exciting? Do I feel constrained? Can I avoid pain?

The world is full of people who depend on my help; therefore I am needed.
Am I needed? Will others like me?

The world is a threatening and unsafe place. I must be loyal and question authority.
What could go wrong here?
Whom can I trust? Am I making the best decisions?

The world values winners, so I avoid failure at all costs.
How can I gain the respect and esteem of others?

The world is invasive, so I need privacy to guard my resources and refuel my energy.
Will demands be made on me for my time, energy, and resources?

In the world, others have something that I am missing. What is wrong?
Will I be rejected or feel deficient?
Can I express myself?
