NEWSLETTER OF THE ABILENE WRITERS GUILD—FEBRUARY 2019

Freezing February!

As I sit here writing today, we are in the midst of a cold snap, and there was even some sleet late yesterday afternoon and into the early evening. Are y'all as ready for Spring as I am? In this cold weather, I tend to want to stay in my cozy house with a blanket over my legs and feet (if my dog isn't already there) and either read a book or watch TV, doing precious little else.

If you missed our January meeting, you missed a rapid-fire, fun program by our guest speaker, LuCresia Fields. If only I had as much energy as she has! She was inspiring, interesting and fun! Now I am looking forward to hearing Joey Roberts share his thoughts about communicating with today's technology. Some of us "more mature" folks are trying to keep up with all the changes in communication, so come be inspired and encouraged by someone who is in the know!

As usual, here is my yearly reminder that if there is bad weather or ice on the streets, we will NOT meet because we want everyone to be safe and stay home. However, if the weather is nice, you have no excuse for not being there (other than work, or if you are out of town or ill), so mark your calendar now. We need YOU to help keep AWG successful. We love visitors and seeing familiar faces, so invite a friend or three.

St. Valentine's Day has passed and everyone no doubt had too much chocolate (is that possible?) or other candy. I hope you got flowers or a card from someone special or got together with good friends at the very least.

Please remember to check out the rules to our Members-Only Contest in the Newsletter and get your entries in on time each month. The rules say you can send in entries early for months ahead, but you must be sure to label them as such. Start writing now and perhaps you can even tweak one or more of your entries and submit them to our annual contest in the fall. It's never too early to get started.

Some of you gardeners are no doubt looking forward to planting flowers. On chilly, overcast, dreary days it may be hard to think about blooming flowers and plants, but Spring IS coming. Here are some thoughts for you.

"Keep your faith in beautiful things; in the sun when it is hidden, in the Spring when it is gone."—Roy R. Gibson

"The flowers of late winter and early spring occupy places in our hearts well out of proportion to their size."—Gertrude S. Wister

"If we had no winter, the spring would not be so pleasant."—Anne Bradstreet

"Winter, a lingering season, is a time to gather golden moments, embark upon a sentimental journey, and enjoy every idle hour." —John Boswell

Last one about sums it up! See you soon.

BRAGS AND SAGS

Brandon Davis is way behind on his reading. On the table sits a book he started years ago and a magazine from spring 2017.

Iris Williams is overjoyed that her son is home from Iraq. She sang at the senior citizens center gospel hour the "Prayer to the Holy Spirit" to music she wrote and an original song. She finished the "Bible in One Year 2018" and started 2019 on time.

Carla Kerr has been involved in another Murder Mystery production and a trip to Mata Ortiz, Chihuahua, Mexico so not much time left for reading.

David Dodge has finished the two books he has been working on. "It's been a challenge, but fun."

Mary Ann Smith entered the February Valentine's Day writer's contest! "This is more luck than brag since I thought it needed to be sent in by the 2nd until I read the contest rules a second time."

Marguerite Gray has exciting news! Her third book Bring Me Near has a release date of February 26! She adores her publisher Celebrate Lit Publishing. This is Book Three in her historical fiction series Revolutionary Faith, 1772-1777, Charles Town, S.C.

Lou Mougins's comics history book is underway. He placed another CREEPS script and is nearing completion on the third FOXFORCE. However, when he went to work on his book, Frankenstein 2, he found corrupt file. Lesson: backup files in multiple places and share with friends. Instead of a massive reconstruction job, it will only be a two-page rewrite!

Jo Cox has her next book, Creator's Parables, out with readers.

Volunteers for new AWG officers needed by April.
