More On The Elections

H. Ross Perot

The machinations surrounding the presidential candidates are daily becoming more intriguing. It just didn't seem possible that Perot would have dropped out of the race, particularly when he was on top in the polls. We here at Christian Crusade for Truth missed the analysis on his candidacy completely, for which we must apologize.

There simply had to be circumstances of enormous magnitude that forced him out. It is understood that he traveled quietly to New York for a meeting with someone or some group. It was when he returned to Dallas that he announced so suddenly that he was quitting and his lame excuse was that he didn't want to force the choosing of the presidency into the House of Representatives. That reasoning is not credible. He knew of that possibility before he started.

There are persistent rumors from both Europe and the United States that the economy throughout the world, and in particular the United States, is worse than the media or the government is reporting. Herbert Hoover was the patsy who was chosen to be the President when the crash of 1929 occurred. Was the trip to New York to forewarn Perot? Perhaps Perot is astute enough on his own to realize that he doesn't want anything to do with the Presidency for the next four years. We are living in times that "try men's souls."

For whatever consolation it may bring to people who intended to vote for Perot, information continues to arrive nearly on a daily basis which tells more of his beliefs. The assessment we included in the last issue is becoming more accurate with each passing day. His relationship with men like Yitsak Shamir and Ariel Sharon of the totalitarian Likud party has many of the average non-politically aligned Jews of the United States (and other countries) very concerned. Pollsters among their own people state that the larger share of Jews within the United States indicate they will vote for Clinton. We can learn a lot about Presidential candidates by reading the Jewish newspapers.

The Wall Street Journal reported on May 29, 1992 that Ross Perot was nominated to the Council on Foreign Relations (CFR). The nomination was seconded by George Bush! This information alone should arouse suspicions that there is fire behind that smoke somewhere.

It could be that the world's power structure is simply testing the waters. The controlled news media seems to be rotating among Bush, Clinton and Perot to see which one we in the serfdom will respond to with the least opposition. None of them is for the best interests of our country. There is no choice. The third-party candidates can't even get on the ballot in many of the states and the media won't recognize them if they do. It is a sad day for America when we are not allowed a space on the ballot that says "none of the above." At least we could protest. The lesser of three evils is still evil.

The U.N. World Police Force

On CNN News it was revealed that Egypt would be sending troops to Yugoslavia as part of the United Nations Police Force. It was openly stated that the U.N. policy, in all international police actions in the future, will be to use the soldiers of a nation that is not ethnically related to the local population. It was also stated that they will be prepared to use tactical force to bring order in Yugoslavia. When troops are not ethnically related to the people of a troubled country, they would be less hesitant to use brutality as a means to quell dissent.

If, indeed, they use Egyptian troops as a military force in Yugoslavia it will be the first instance of their declared intentions revealed in State Department document 7277, dated September 1961 and Public Law 87-297 dated September 26, 1961. There is a map of the world which has circulated for years which shows the proposed use of the different foreign troops in the countries of the world. Of course, as time goes on, their detailed plans change as to which country will send troops to other countries. The point is made that their intentions have remained unchanged. Time marches on for the One World Order.

Lesson In History Part 18

Nearly everything we read regarding world events reflects the ongoing battle towards a One World Order. The drums are beating faster and faster just like it was in an old fashioned cowboy movie when the man in the white hat nearly had the man in the black hat cornered in an inescapable box canyon. Only this time, with the One-World Order, the man in the black hat has the man in the white hat cornered or, at least, so it seems.

There has been book after book written on the subject of the One-World Order, its proponents, methods and timing. Most of the writers, those coming from the established schools of history, seem to indicate that this phenomena is of comparatively recent years. Only in those circles where historical revisionism is not considered a dirty word, is the truth being taught.

We who study and teach that the entire Holy Bible is about civilizations here on earth know that it is about their history and the prophecies of their future. Once that concept is firmly rooted in our minds then we realize that the dream of a One-World Order is as old as the days of Genesis 11.

"And the whole earth was of one language, and of one speech. And it came to pass, as they journeyed from the east, that they found a plain in the land of Shinar; and they dwelt there."

"And they said one to another, Go to, let us make brick, and burn them throughly, And they had brick for stone, and slime had they for mortar. And they said, Go to, let us build us a city and a tower, whose top may reach unto heaven; and let us make us a name, lest we be scattered abroad upon the face of the whole earth. And the Lord came down to see the city and the tower, which the children of men builded."

"And the Lord said, Behold, the people is one, and they have all one language; and this they begin to do: and now nothing will be restrained from them, which they have imagined to do. Go to, let us go down, and there confound their language, that they may not understand one another's speech. So the Lord scattered them abroad from thence upon the face of all the earth: and they left off to build the city."

"Therefore is the name of it called Babel; because the Lord did there confound the language of all the earth: and from thence did the Lord scatter them abroad upon the face of all the earth." (Genesis 11:1-9)

From that day to the present there have been secret societies and cults trying to reinstitute the ancient dream of a one world government, people and religion. They make their societies secret, telling us that their secrets are being kept from the rest of us "lesser" people. But, in reality, they are attempting to keep their secrets from God. They did it openly once and God came down, saw their efforts and put a stop to it. But if they did their work secretly, what then? How childish of them to believe it will work!

Alexander the Great tried it during the third century before Christ. Because of his one-world government, people and religion concepts, Phariseism became a powerful political and religious organization during the first century before Christ. Because of the Oral Laws of Phariseism, the Laws of God were being totally usurped. These were the circumstances that we read about in Luke, chapter one. The baby John the Baptist was born to Elizabeth and Zacharias.

"And his father Zacharias was filled with the Holy Ghost, and prophesied, saying, Blessed be the Lord God of Israel; for he hath visited and redeemed his people, And hath raised up an horn of salvation for us in the house of David; As he spake by the mouth of his holy prophets, which have been since the world began:"

"That we should be saved from our enemies, and from the hand of all that hate us; To perform the mercy promised to our fathers, and to remember his holy covenant; The oath which he sware to our father Abraham, That he would grant unto us, that we being delivered out of the hand of our enemies might serve him without fear, In holiness and righteousness before him, all the days of our life."

"And thou, child, shalt be called the prophet of the Highest: for thou shalt go before the face of the Lord to prepare his ways; To give knowledge of salvation unto his people by the remission of their sins," (Luke 1:67-76)

Do we see why it is so childish for the "one-worlders" to try it one more time? It was attempted on the plains of Shinar. Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon tried it. The Jews at the time of Christ tried it with their Babylonian Talmud and Phariseism. Now we have secret societies and wealthy people all over the world trying it one more time.

In lessons in the future we will describe in detail, based on historical data available to us, what happened during the time of Alexander and the years following him that set up the circumstances at the time of the birth of our Messiah.

In this lesson we will show the covert and overt actions of those extremely wealthy and self proclaimed oligarchs of the United States, as well as other countries, who have been working so incessantly to develop their version of the one-world order. It would be a mistake to believe that all of this fetish over the United Nations and a "New One-World Order" is a recent phenomena. The ink wasn't dry on the surrender documents at Yorktown nor the Constitution of the United States before they were already hatching their plans.

This lesson will only be concerned with the part that the United States played in the development of the current craze for a singular world government. Of course, we already know that those plans are not for a world government of the people, by the people and for the people. Their idea is a government by oligarchy, a government directed by a comparatively few very wealthy, special interest families. Some are from genuine families of nobility but only because they are wealthy. Most will be self-styled nobility but, again, only because they are very wealthy. Some come from what is called "old money." But those old, wealthy families will condescend to permit some of the nuevo rico (the new rich) to belong. In other words, they, too, "have their price!" Belonging to the right secret society, being selected to be a Rhodes Scholar, or attending the World College in Las Vegas, New Mexico and being accepted in the right corporation and obtaining wealth are some of the prerequisites.

This study will show that the idea of an oligarchy in the United States, instead of a republic, started at the end of the Revolution. We will show that they desired a disunion, or a civil war, as early as 1800. Their creation of the circumstances that led to the Civil War will be documented. We will show the direct involvement of the Scottish Rite of the Freemasonry movement which responded obediently to their masters within the oligarchy. Their plans for the creation of a separate empire which would include Cuba, Mexico and Central America as well as the South and Southwestern part of the United States will be discussed.

Reflecting on the Lesson in History, part 17, which described the underlying purpose of Columbus' voyages into the very same area, we will see that all of this revisionist history reveals an overall conspiratorial plan.

At the surrender of the British troops at Yorktown by Cornwallis which terminated the Revolutionary War, a very intriguing bit of history has been conveniently left out of the school history books. As recorded in the book Legions of Satan, written in 1787 by Jonathan Williams, Cornwallis was reported to have said this to General Washington: "A holy war will now begin on America, and when it is ended America will be supposedly the citadel of freedom, but her millions will unknowingly be loyal subjects to the Crown. Your churches will be used to teach the Jew's religion and in less than two hundred years the whole nation will be working for divine world government. That government that they believe to be divine will be the British Empire. All religions will be permeated with Judaism without even being noticed by the masses, and they will all be under the invisible all-seeing eye of the Grand Architect of Freemasonry."

The establishment and apologetic historians freely admit that there were "differences of opinion" regarding the domestic and foreign policies between the different national figures as our nation was maturing. But they shy away from disclosing that there were foreign influences in the efforts of the men within the various oligarchies.

Most of the major nations of Europe each had their contacts, or spies, working within the government of the newly formed United States. Most of these men were from very wealthy, powerful and sometimes noble families in their respective countries. These European men were simply representing their own respective oligarchy and their purpose for being here was to carve up America to their own best interests, financially and politically.

The founding fathers of the United States were, themselves, from wealthy and aristocratic families. They were all very well educated and were accustomed to communicating with men of like stature. Consequently, it was easy for the men from the European oligarchies to become acquainted and accepted within the circle of the founding fathers. As we shall see, many of them were even able to acquire very important positions within the government of the United States.

Just such a man has a name that is familiar to all of us from our high school history books. Aaron Burr has been romanticized and some historians even hint that he may have been given a bum rap. But Aaron Burr represented, from the very outset, the very powerful families of England and Switzerland.

Aaron Burr

Aaron Burr's ancestral lineage itself presents some very interesting information. His grandparents on his mother's side were the famous theologian and preacher Jonathan Edwards and Sarah Pierrepont. Jonathan Edwards became well known because he taught against the teachings of the Pilgrims regarding the concept of free will as compared to grace only. The Pilgrims taught that works are required as well as grace and that you are rewarded or judged accordingly. This debate is legion and has divided Christianity into those who believe in building the Kingdom and those who believe in waiting for the Kingdom. Sara Pierrepont's family became a part of the J.P. Morgan dynasty and owners of the New York Times. Those in support of the British position very quickly latched on to Jonathan Edwards theology and supported him.^{1}

Burr attended Princeton University as a classmate of James Madison. Burr's father had been the second president of the college and his grandfather, the third president. While Madison joined the patriotic Whig Society, Burr joined with the pro-British groups. It was here that he was discovered by James Mark Prevost. The Prevost family was powerful and famous as a part of the ruling 200 oligarchy of Switzerland. The Prevost and the intermarried Mallet family became a most influential link down through the years in the story of the oligarchies attempting to destroy our country. Aaron Burr married into the Prevost family. That fight continues to this very day and now the time is very short.

Another individual from a powerful European oligarchy who wormed his way into the official government of the fledgling United States was Albert Galatin. The Galatin family was from the oligarchy in Switzerland with members of the family directing (behind the scenes) the governments of Russia, Italy, Savoy, Holland and Southern Germany.^{2}

Galatin was born in Geneva, Switzerland in 1761 and educated at the University of Geneva. He was tutored by the famous pro-British, anti-American Voltaire. Galatin arrived in Boston in 1780 during the darkest days of the American Revolution. Somehow Galatin knew about the approaching act of treason by Benedict Arnold where the American Colonies would be split in two by the planned surrender of West Point to the British. Galatin waited for the outcome in Boston. When the plot failed he rushed to the Canadian border and hid in a cabin for over a year until the surrender at Yorktown. He came back and from then on he did everything he could to counter any national program that would have made the United States stronger and more secure.

He was an instigator in the Whiskey Rebellion. He worked incessantly to reduce the size and capability of the armed forces of the country, preparing for the War of 1812.

In 1801 Jefferson was sworn in as President. Aaron Burr was Vice-President and Albert Galatin was appointed Secretary of the Treasury. Galatin and Burr worked diligently to thwart the government's attempt to stop the British backed North African sea pirates from attacking American shipping. Taking advantage of Jefferson's inclination for working towards paying off all national debts, Galatin reduced the navy to a state of impotence. Only through extraordinary seamanship and bravery the pirates were destroyed anyway.

Concurrently with the anti-American behaviour of the families of Burr, Galatin and Prevost-Mallet, the "old wealth" of America formed its own oligarchy. Known as the Boston Brahmins, their wealth came from slave trading and, later, the opium trade. They aligned themselves with the British East Indies Company and were given world trade concessions not available to the average citizen. Their allegiance remained with England throughout the years and, today, they are called the Eastern Establishment. Some of the family names include: Cabot, Higginson and Lowell. Many other families have been added including the Harrimans and Morgans. The "Johnny-come-latelys" include the Roosevelts, Carnegies, Kennedys, Bushs, etc. Nevertheless, they all belong to the oligarchy that is in total command, along with the Jewish banking dynastys of course, of the people, the land, the laws, the schools, the business and even the religion of the United States.

It is obvious that the Burr, Galatin and Prevost-Mallet combine would want to align themselves with the Boston Brahmins and this they did. All of them were determined to destroy the Union and to make more wealth and power for their own oligarchies by forcing the Bank of England system of finance upon the United States.

At first, they wanted only to cause the secession of the New England states from the union. Then, they realized that it would be more productive for them, as well as England, to cause the secession of the entire South. Along with the southern states, they planned to create a huge empire out of not only the southern states, but Mexico, the Caribbean countries, and some of the western regions of what is now the United States. As this sordid tale of intrigue, treason, assassinations, war and cruelty unravels, we should learn that what Cornwallis said to Washington at Yorktown was truly a conspiracy that has nearly been fulfilled.

In 1808, John Quincy Adams, who was later to become President, held a very urgent meeting with President Jefferson. He told the President that a group of powerful merchants and bankers of his own Federalist Party in New England, known as the Essex Junto, were working closely with the British Secret Intelligence Service to create a civil war which would destroy the union. Their plans expanded and improved over the years to that of the empire just described.³

The leaders of the Essex Junto included these families: Senator George Cabot, Secretary of State Timothy Pickering; Judge John Lowell (ancestor of the modern McGeorge Bundy); Stephen Higginson; and the brother-in-law of Aaron Burr, Judge Tapping Reeve. It was Tapping Reeve who taught Burr the art of dueling with pistols which allowed him to kill Alexander Hamilton. Yes, they all flocked together like the buzzards they were.

The Essex Junto manipulated the circumstances that led to the War of 1812. They were confident that because of Galatin's efforts in reducing the U.S. Navy to only a few warships, the English would win. But, again, that small fleet of extraordinarily capable and courageous sailors swept the British fleet from the seas. They even secured the Malvinas Islands for Argentina. (The Malvinas Islands were recently the object of England's war against Argentina to regain them. If you will remember, there wasn't very much complaint from the current oligarchy over that venture!)

The Boston Brahmins and the Essex Junto were stunned that the United States once again won a decisive victory over the British. But they remained undaunted. They were determined that they would be victorious in dissolving the Union to their own best interests in wealth and power. But they now realized that it could not be accomplished by war with a foreign nation. It had to be accomplished from within. The American citizen would produce its own cannon fodder that they envisioned would end in total destruction of the United States of America. It was their intention that neither the South nor the North would win.

In other Lessons in History we have described the art of conquest using the Hegellian Dialects. Develop the thesis, or one side of the debate, and then counter that argument with the antithesis. Agitate and goad both sides into increasing violence. Finally, the entire population is so incensed that a conflict results which ends in what the Hegellian Dialectics calls the synthesis. This is exactly what the perpetrators of the United States Civil War did and, as we all know, it worked for them. Brother fought brother in a war that caused more deaths to Americans than World War I and World War II combined!

One of the most evil men ever to be a part of the American experience was Caleb Cushing. John Lowell, the leader of the Essex Junto and ancestor of the modern Bundy family, chose Caleb to be the central figure whom we could describe as the thesis in the great dialectics that led to the Civil War. Caleb came from the Boston Brahmin Cushing family which was famous for its involvement in the Opium trade in the Far East. They had very close connections with the British East Indies Company which was the parent organization to develop that immoral, illegal but profitable business. The same Boston Brahmin class is the cause of today's drug trade. In those days they forced the drugs on the Chinese. Today they are forcing it on the United States and Europe.

Using the same techniques of modern politicians (publically claiming one belief while secretly believing another) Cushing was able to work his way into the House of Representatives. The techniques used by these traitors, then and now, are incredible. Caleb Cushing acted the part of a true American Patriot, even claiming to be of the American Whig party. He went so far as to write election biographies for the Whig presidential candidate, General William Harrison. He published pro-American and anti-Free Trade booklets and he presented himself to the voters as an American first Congressman. Consequently, he was able to work himself into the position of Chairman of the House Foreign Relations Committee.

The Boston Brahmins now controlled the U.S. Government. General Harrison had been elected as President but he immediately died very mysteriously. John Tyler took over as President. President Tyler was a controlled individual under the command of the Boston Brahmins.4

Caleb Cushing was now able to utilize his powerful position as Chairman of the House Foreign Relations Committee to do his part of the dialectics to bring about the disunion of the United States. The world was already looking towards the United States as the guiding light in teaching the world the principles of republicanism (not to be confused with democracy) as compared to monarchies and oligarchies. Most of the citizens of the world didn't, at this time in history, know that the United States was in the throes of a fight to the death for its own system of government and that, it too, would wind up being ruled by an oligarchy. Only in name would it be called a republic. For the other nations to accept a major internal dissension of the United States, the world's estimation of this country had to be changed.

It would be a perfect coup, in the manner of Machiavelli, to establish their own empire and at the same time discredit the American experiment of republicanism. That is the course they decided to take. For those who think that men of power and position do not think in terms of the world being a chess board and that they can manipulate the nations of the world, and their peoples, do not understand the teachings of men like Machiavelli. The world has always had the men of intrigue and God will hold them responsible. We who love God are like sheep and it is so easy for these evil men to manipulate the sheep.

But God punishes us all in times like this. Even David brought about punishment when he sinned. David numbered (census) the children of Israel against God's will. Pestilence came upon the land of Israel. David pleaded with God:

"And David said unto God, Is it not I that commanded the people to be numbered? even I it is that have sinned and done evil indeed; but as for these sheep, what have they done? let thine hand, I pray thee, O Lord my God, be on me, and on my father's house; but not on thy people, that they should be plagued."

As you can see, David called us sheep but he repented for what he did and God released the pestilence. But it is not so with the perpetrators of the destruction of the great republic of the United States of America. They owe allegiance to another god, an occult god that gives us abortion and homosexuality. As we can see by their actions in modern time, they are not about to repent. Yes, they may even go to an establishment Judeo-Christian Church but that is just for window dressing.

Returning to Caleb Cushing, he now was in a position to start the creation of their new empire. As the history of this conspiracy is told, we will see events that we have all read about in our high school history books come into mind. But we will now see these events as a part of the grand conspiracy to destroy the union and to create a new empire ruled by the patrician elite.

Caleb Cushing, in his capacity as Chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, observed the British Foreign Minister Lord Palmerston force, by military action, the opium trade on the Chinese people. In retaliation for the Chinese government trying to stop the illegal import of opium, Palmerston ordered the burning and sacking of Chinese villages, the destruction of Chinese warships and the massacres of civilians. The Chinese were forced into opening five Chinese ports to unrestricted trade, including the open importation of opium, the exemption for all British merchants of all Chinese laws and the giving of the island of Hong Kong as a Crown Colony. Incidentally, it was this same Lord Palmerston who, with the help of Lawrence Oliphant, another occultist and member of an oligarch, created the situation in the mideast that gave us the Balfour Declaration which led to the ministate of modern Israel. When, oh when, will we learn?

Caleb Cushing

Cushing sent representatives of the Boston Brahmins to China to check on Palmerston's conquest. Warren Delano, the grandfather of Franklin D. Roosevelt, was sent to China as their consul. After receiving the information from Delano, Cushing then sent this letter to President Tyler:

"The British Government has succeeded in forcing China to admit British vessels into five ports in the Chinese Empire and to cede to England in perpetual sovereignty a commercial depot and fortified port on the coast of China. It does not appear that England contemplates attempting to exclude other nations from similar free access to China. But it does appear that she has made the arrangement for her own benefit only, and, if other nations wish for like advantages, they must apply to China to obtain them on their own account. Is not the present, therefore, an urgent occasion for dispatching an authorized agent of the United States to China, with instructions to make commercial arrangements in behalf of the United States?"

Caleb Cushing himself was appointed minister to China to make the arrangements! In typical politician fashion, he gave several speeches to the American public before he left in which he repeated, over and over, his pro-American and anti-British beliefs. He then bought for himself a very elaborate Major General's uniform and had prepared for him a letter of introduction written by Daniel Webster and signed by President Tyler. The letter stated:

"It is proper, and according to the will of heaven, that our two governments should respect each other, and act wisely. I therefore send to you Count Caleb Cushing, one of the wise and learned men of this country. We doubt not that you will be pleased that our ministry of peace shall come to Peking and that your great officers will, by your order, make a treaty with him to regulate affairs of trade, so that nothing may happen to disturb the peace between China and America." Note that the letter called Caleb Cushing a "Count" which is in direct violation of the United States policy. Notice also that Caleb stated to the people of the United States that he was pro- American and anti-British, thus, he went to China under a total misrepresentation to the American people.

He set sail for China with a sizable fleet of warships. He first stopped and exchanged views with British officials in Malta, Bombay and Colombo. He was received and saluted by the British and was given the details of the British communication systems for their entire empire.

When he arrived in China, the Chinese Emperor wasn't looking forward to his arrival. He didn't want another rape of Chinese sovereignty like he just received from the British. So Cushing sent him this letter:

"It is neither the custom in China, nor consistent with the high character of its sovereign, to decline to receive the embassies of friendly states. To do so, indeed, would among western States be considered an act of national insult, and a just cause of war." Nothing happened. The Chinese Emperor remained quiet. So, one week later he wrote another letter which said:

"It is my duty, in the outset, not to omit any of the tokens of respect customary among western nations. If these demonstrations are not met in a correspondent manner, it will be the misfortune of China, but it will not be the fault of the United States." Cushing then ordered an American warship to sail up to Canton Bay and fire a few warning shots into Whampoa. The Chinese still refused to reply. So, Cushing sent this letter:

"I can assure your excellency that this is not the way for China to cultivate good will and maintain peace. The late war with England was caused by the conduct of authorities at Canton, in disregarding the rights of public officers who represented the British Government. If, in the face of the experience of the last five years, the Chinese government now reverts to antiquated customs, which have already brought such disaster upon her, it can be regarded in no other light than as evidence that she invites and desires war with the other great Western Powers."⁵

The Chinese government was no match for the armada of navy ships that arrived on the Chinese coast prepared for war. China capitulated and signed the treaty which gave to the United States the same freedoms and rights in China that the British had. Thus, Cushing arranged for the open opium trade with China by the Boston Brahmins, those very "dear" fellows who ruled America from behind the scenes then and just like their descendants do today. Of course, the American public didn't know about this but nevertheless we were judged as a nation by God.

Then, on his way home from China, he stopped in Mexico to create more havoc for the American reputation. In addition to further destroying the American reputation, he was to set the stage for the development of a part of their new empire, not to be confused with the expansion of the United States of America.

The Tyler administration was concurrently with the Cushing China debacle, planning on annexing Texas to the Union. Texas had already revolted from Mexico and declared itself to be an independent republic. John Quincy Adams and Henry Clay approved of annexing Texas but not if it would cause war between the U.S. and Mexico. Mexico flatly stated that if the U.S. annexed Texas, war would be declared. But war was exactly what the Boston Brahmins and the Essex Junto wanted. Such a move would create a large part of their proposed new empire. From the official biography of Cushing the following is extracted:

"Caleb Cushing left the ship Perry at San Blas, Mexico, and rode on horseback to Guadelajara, at which he took a diligence (a form of stagecoach-ed.) for Mexico City, his route lying directly between two hostile revolutionary armies. What he had learned from his correspondents about American politics convinced him that a knowledge of Mexican affairs would undoubtedly be an asset during the next few years, and he seized every favorable opportunity for gathering information."

"During this overland journey Cushing acquired a considerable knowledge of Mexican character—a knowledge which, it may be added, led him to view war with that country with approbation and even elation. What he saw of Mexican sloth, procrastination, shiftlessness, bigotry, and treachery gave him an insuperable prejudice against that nation. Cushing's report on Mexico, dated March 22, 1845, was exhaustive and authoritative, and was used extensively by the War Department two years later."⁶

President Tyler, Cushing and the Boston Brahmins wanted that war with Mexico. Mexico had already made their proclamation which stated, "Mexico would consider equivalent to a declaration of war against the Mexican Republic the passage of an act for the incorporation of Texas with the territory of the United States; the certainty of the fact being sufficient for the immediate proclamation of war."⁷

The U.S. Senate tried to honor the Mexican government's declaration. The Senators, including 26 Southern Senators, voted 35 to 16 to reject President Tyler's recommendation to annex Texas. The number of Southern Senators voting against the proposal leaves no doubt as to the thoughts of most of the South.

That didn't stop the Brahmins. President Tyler was replaced at the polls by James Polk who defeated the pro-American and anti-British candidate Henry Clay. Another spoiler named John Slidell helped defeat Henry Clay and as a reward President Tyler sent Slidell to Mexico in the capacity, of all things, of peace commissioner! Again, just like in the case of Caleb Cushing and the Chinese Emperor, the Mexican government refused to receive Slidell. John Slidell sent a message to Polk and the war with Mexico was declared.

The war with Mexico was to serve several purposes. First, it was another excellent way to discredit the good name of the American's intentions of a republican form of government. Second, it was to provide the means to secure land for the empire of the oligarchs rather than that of the United States. We will understand this better later in this lesson. Third, it was to provide training for the generals who were later to fight the yet to be declared Civil War between the states. The names of the generals who trained in the Mexican War included Ulysses S. Grant, Robert E. Lee, William T. Sherman, and Jefferson Davis. The Civil War, of course, was to provide the land for the Brahmins to be the keystone for their new empire. They then could have their nobility, their middle class serfs and then their slaves, both black and white. (We will discuss more about the documented history of the multitude of white slaves, many of whom were children, brought to America from England, and elsewhere.)

The history of the preparation for the Civil War has to this point represented the thesis of the dialectics. Men such as Caleb Cushing, John Slidell, President Tyler and President Polk, were but just one part of the conspiracy. They did their assigned jobs well but there had to be the agitator, the antithesis of the dialectics.

The central figure to act as the antithesis was William Lloyd Garrison, the famous pamphleteer and newspaper publisher who agitated the American public into violence over the Black slavery issue! The historians tell us that Garrison was an abolitionist, one who believed in abolishing slavery and that he was so pro-American? Of course, but didn't Caleb Cushing represent himself as pro-American and anti-British, all the while doing the opposite? Slavery was only a minor issue. The perpetrators of the Civil War didn't care about the slaves, either the White slaves of the North and South, nor the Black slaves of the South and North. The Black slaves of the South were treated far better than the White slaves of the North or South. In fact, the Blacks felt sorry for the White slaves and considered themselves superior to them. But, we will tell the documented story of the White slaves later.

William Lloyd Garrison

William Lloyd Garrison received his indoctrination in the art of revolution from Caleb Cushing! Garrison started his violent career at the age of 18 as a typesetter for the Newburyport, Mass. Herald. The Essex Junto was in total command of the Herald and the editorials reflected this. Cushing, a graduate of Harvard, wrote most of the editorials at the time. Cushing then became the editor of the newspaper and he turned to Garrison and taught him all of the theories and programs of the Essex Junto. Cushing taught him that Black slavery was evil (while he, himself, didn't care one way or the other). He taught him that the Latin American countries should be destroyed (this was for the purpose of creating their own oligarchial empire). He taught him that violence, revolutions and civil war, were the only answer to man's problems.

The apologetic historians sanitize the relationship between Cushing and Garrison. But, the information does exist that they did, indeed, work together to further the cause of the Civil War. From a biography of Cushing we read this:

"It was Cushing who first called young Garrison's attention to slavery. He did not regard slavery as a serious problem until Cushing opened his eyes. Slavery was not the only topic which Lloyd discussed with his new friend. Cushing lent him books and urged him to undertake other challenging subjects. Revolutions in South America, rebellions in Greece, uprisings in Verona and Naples all seemed to forecast the eventual triumph of the people over the forces of reaction and repression. Lloyd's investigation of the South American revolts led him to denounce American foreign policy in ringing tones. If the new republics could not rid themselves of the 'dross of superstition and tyranny' on their own, they must be taught to endorse justice and pay due respect to the American flag. Coercion held the answer. 'The only expedient to command respect and protect our citizens will be to finish with cannon what cannot be done in a conciliatory manner.' "g

The die was cast. Garrison was the Boston Brahmin's-Essex Junto's man to be the antithesis in the great dialectics to perpetrate the Civil War. His famous newspaper, The Liberator, provided the dialectics. He wrote scathing articles on the subject of slavery (in the South) and the Southerners would respond by writing articles to the editor. This continued until it became vicious and violent.

Why would Garrison go to England to wash the dirty linen that was within America if his allegiance wasn't towards the establishment of English and American Anglophile oligarchies' influence over a new empire in the Western Hemisphere? That is exactly what he did. In a speech in England, he said that the U.S. Constitution was:

"The most bloody and heaven-daring arrangement ever made by men for the continuance and protection of the most atrocious villainy ever exhibited on earth. It will be held in everlasting infamy by the friends of humanity and justice throughout the world. Who or what were the framers of the American government that they should dare confirm and authorize such high-handed villainy. It was not valid then-it is not valid now."

By his making that statement in a speech to the English people, he showed his true colors. He was a Tory-Royalist. His concern wasn't over the slavery issue. He was advocating the dissolution of the United States. He was telling the people of England that the time was near for a new empire in the Western Hemisphere.

Space is running out for this lesson in history. The lesson will be continued, God willing, in the next issue. We will continue with the Civil War and the intentions for a new empire. We will introduce the activities of the battleaxe of the World Revolutionary Movement, the Masonic Order. We will show who organized, and why, the infamous Masonic Knights of the Golden Circle. We will show what that means and in doing so, we will show why we invaded Cuba, what the intentions were for Mexico and what the intentions were for the American West. As the American West is discussed, the famous range wars between the cattle barons and the "sodbusters" will be explained. What were the train robberies about? What about the "Committees of Vigilance?" We will present the evidence of White slavery in the Western Hemisphere.

The most important part is that we will show that what Cornwallis said at the surrender at Yorktown has come to pass. We will show the relationship between that statement and the Boston Brahmins and their descendents in modern times.

It may be possible to complete this lesson in one more issue but it may take two. We recognize that it is tedious reading and perhaps even boring because there are so many interconnecting details. We are touching only a part of those details to keep this lesson from being overpowering. Please bear with us. We must know what has been done to us as a Christian people.
