A PONY AND HIS BOY THE STORY OF BERRY & JOSH (2019) USA

25:00 min / Directed by: Julianne Neal

Trailer: <https://youtu.be/ixa9nb8KP00>

An award-winning heartwarming story about an 8-year-old boy, from St Charles Illinois, with Down Syndrome and a very special little 28-year-old pony.

“A Pony And His Boy” has been selected to screen at the National Down Syndrome Congress in June 2019.

EQUUS Film Festival is proud of our partnership with Director Julianne Neal who has helped to create the Spotlight Rescue Series. We are working together to bring the issues facing horses today to the world through documentaries. Collaborating as well to highlight some of the wonderful stories of horses helping people. The new film “A Pony And His Boy”, is one of those stories. Many people have now found the wonderful power of horses to help break through the silence of Autism and the pain of PTSD. This film addresses Down Syndrome and the power of horses to help us connect. Berry, the pony star of the film, teaches us that even though a pony may be old it doesn't mean he can't find a new job and be loved.

“A Pony and His Boy: The Story of Berry & Josh” directed by Julianne Neal, shows the power of a pony and the effect that he has had on one small boy. Josh, an 8-year-old with Down Syndrome, had been afraid of animals, especially horses all of his life. One summer afternoon, when walking in the pasture full of horses with his mom and Lisa, Josh was asked "Do you want to ride?" When he surprisingly said yes, they caught him off-guard, swept him up and placed him on Berry. The relationship that started between Berry and Josh that day has been life-changing, not only for Josh, but for everyone who loves him.

This work has been widely published and exhibited in galleries and museums. John is also completing a feature-length documentary film on working cowboys set to be released in 2019.

Bud Force - director/cinematographer

BUD FORCE IS A DIRECTOR AND CINEMATOGRAPHER WHO CRAFTS NON-FICTION FILMS ABOUT THE PEOPLE, CULTURE, AND CONDITION OF THE WORLD WE INHABIT.

He is the co-director and cinematographer of the feature film "COWBOYS: A Documentary Portrait," and author of the book, "Urban Search & Rescue," published by Tamu Press. He is also the founder and managing partner at Ultralite Films, a commercial production company based in Austin, Texas.

Told in the cinematic tradition of classic westerns, "COWBOYS - A Documentary Portrait" is a feature-length film that gives viewers the opportunity to ride alongside modern working cowboys on some of America's largest and most remote cattle ranches. The movie documents the lives of the men and women working on these "big outfit" ranches - some of which are over one million acres - and still require full crews of horseback mounted workers to tend large herds of cattle.

Narrated through first-hand accounts from the cowboys themselves, the story is steeped in authenticity and explores the rewards and hardships of a celebrated but misunderstood way of life, including the challenges that lie ahead for the cowboys critical to providing the world's supply of beef.

"COWBOYS" was filmed on eight of the nation's largest cattle ranches across ten states in the American West.

FEK'S VISION: PROMO SHORT (2019) USA
11:00 min / Directed by: Ken Howie
Trailer: <https://youtu.be/JPLZkze29rY>
<https://www.feeksvision.com/>

FEK TOOKE

Born April 12, 1909, in Redfield, South Dakota, Chandler Earl "Feek" Tooke was the eldest of six boys born to Earl and Bessie Tooke. The family moved to Montana in 1913, settling 13 miles west of Ekalaka.

One of Feek's aunts didn't care for the name Chandler, and called him Felix instead. Chandler's brother, Fay, had trouble pronouncing Felix. It came out "Feek", and became Chandler's moniker for his entire life. Feek attended school through the 8th grade, after which he worked full time on his father's homestead. A true horseman, Feek felt that any work worth doing should be done with a horse. He bought, sold and traded horses, breaking them to ride and for work.

A keen interest in rodeo led to the building of an arena on the Tooke ranch. The first of many Tooke ranch rodeos was held on Memorial Day in 1931.

Feek, along with his brothers, gathered a string of bucking horses to produce rodeos in Montana, North Dakota and South Dakota. They leased bucking horses to producers across the United States.

At the time, wild horses were the main resource for bucking stock. Feek foresaw an end to that supply, and developed the idea to start a breeding program, with horses bred specifically to buck. Most were skeptical. But Feek set out to turn his vision into reality...and to this day, rodeo is replete with horses carrying champion level Tooke bloodlines.

Feek's Vision, a documentary by Ken Howie, will tell this story - so important in the history of rodeo - through the experiences and recollections of rodeo champions, stock contractors and those closest to Feek Tooke.

Today things went really well, it was the very first time that I've tried to train a mare to come to me when called that has a foal at foot, it was above all my hopes, the mare came and stood near me in the starting pen after only 17mins. Then I increased the size of the training area three times, the result was that after 75mins from starting on the mare I had her coming right up to me at a good speed from 150yds. away! I think that this may well be the best video that I've ever made, it will certainly be the fast time ever for make one of my videos!

When Bernice picked up the reins and rode out, heading to New Mexico from Montana, she had no idea that what she was doing had a name: Long Riding. Nor did she imagine that her personal long ride would become an iconic odyssey with meaningfulness for other people.

It was only out of necessity that she started talking about her experiences on the road. She gave talks at libraries and senior centers, and they would feed her lunch.

People who met Bernice, resonated deeply with her. The exchange was much more than a good story for a sandwich. By being her authentic self, Bernice was modeling courage, ingenuity, perseverance, and presence. People talked. The word spread. Local newspapers began sending reporters out to find her. Bob Dotson of the Today Show interviewed her.

Bernice is easy for people to connect with. She is present, warm, and engaging. But Bernice is known to say "it's not me" when asked to comment on the magnetic effect she has on people. It is the symbolism of her journey that is so compelling. This is not something Bernice talks about, because she simply lives it. But it shines through every story she tells: we all have the ability to make purposeful choices about how we live and how we connect with each other. Bernice is the pilgrim who has searched for – and found – what is sacred to her: life itself.

While living an unconventional life, Bernice has found where she belongs in the community of humanity. Like a compassionate mirror, she reflects all that we can be. In her presence you feel how much more you are.

LAND OF THE THOROUGHBREDS (2019) FRANCE

Directed by: Jennifer Ajuriaguerra

Trailer:

Julen de Ajuriaguerra

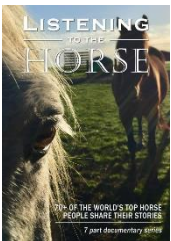

My professional career began with the study of preverbal interactions between infants and adults at the Collège de France in Paris. In my work today, I continue to draw on this experience based on observation in order to convey the emotional power of horses.

From 2009 to 2013, I photographed Lusitano horses, approaching them in a way that was in tune with their lives, remaining as unobtrusive as possible. I paid close attention to their daily activities and the constant mutual adjustments observed between the horse and horseman. I tried to translate through images the sense of wonder and unsettling emotions they evoke in me.

From 2013 to 2014, I lived among English thoroughbreds at Three Chimneys Farm in Kentucky, USA. At this farm, the focus is on the horses' physical and mental well-being, which are essential for their athletic performance. The outstanding professionalism and caring attitude of the handlers toward the horses made this experience in the heart of Bluegrass Country an unforgettable one for me.

ARTISTIC APPROACH

Taking a photograph is a loving gesture. It triggers a subtle adjustment of rhythms and creates a sensory intimacy with the horse. In my video work, I depict sequences from the horse's life.

Humans are natural predators. Horses are natural prey.

Trained to be the ultimate predator, returning veteran, US Army Staff Sergeant James Allen Pennington, has overcome the physical injuries of being hit with an RPG; but the invisible wounds of war still haunt him.

Trained to be the ultimate flight animal, "Red", an injured race horse, has retired from his racing career and, though physically recovered, struggles to fit into the domestic horse world.

After they have completed their jobs and come home, we expect soldiers and race horses to blend back into society like nothing happened. The fact is, that is easier said than done.

Experience their journey as they meet horseman, Tony Simonetti, an expert in the science of horse behavior as he applies his deep understanding of where horses and humans stand in nature and with each other. Tony works with the ultimate predator and the ultimate prey, teaching each to be less predatory and less preyful. At the Warrior Ranch, one soldier and one horse will work with each other, build each other up, become partners and come back into society functioning successfully.

A second chance for human and horse.

 Trailer: <https://youtu.be/66SFM3C6Aw>
<http://www.replaypolo.com>

Brittany Halstead founded Replay Polo in 2016 after her own, extraordinary experience with a polo pony. In 2014, while riding and training in Argentina with Olympic riders and high goal polo trainers, Halstead was in a near fatal car accident. She suffered a traumatic brain injury and was in a coma for two weeks. She miraculously recovered! A few months after she was discharged from the hospital, Luis Ansola, professional polo player/manager of Louisville Polo Club, gave her a retired polo pony to help her heal. This polo pony, named Fanta, became the first ReplayPolo pony and started Halstead on her journey to connect these amazing horses to people in need. Her assessment is that polo ponies have the best demeanor of them all – gentle ground manners, desensitized and very rideable (neck rein, direct/indirect rein and smooth transitions) – that makes them the most suitable option for new careers.

TAMING WILD: PURE VIDA (2109) USA

66:00 min / Directed by: Elsa Sinclair

Trailer: <https://youtu.be/hf8CDBBm8uo>

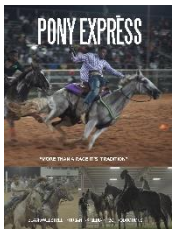

<https://www.tamingwild.com>

Two Costa Rican horses rescued from lives of pain and hardship, two horse trainers on a mission to understand new beginnings and connection through movement. A country to cross from the Pacific to the Atlantic ocean, over mountains, through valleys, across rives, and embraced by Costa Rican jungle. Could this shared journey be enough to build trust between horse and human? Could horses from a history such as theirs learn to trust anew?

Hello! My name is Elsa Sinclair, and I recently made a movie called "Taming Wild" where I took a Mustang fresh out of the wild and spent a year training her in an entirely new way. This led to the epiphany that I now call Freedom Based Training®. It takes everything we know about horse training and develops it beyond what people currently understand about training horses. The movie was intended to be small and inspirational, simply the story of a girl and a horse on an experimental journey of building relationship in a new way. As things do sometimes, this story took off in a way that was beautiful and unexpected, and now there is a large following of people all around the world who want to know more about how to do this with horses. In January of 2018 we are embarking on a second movie, "Taming Wild - Pura Vida", again exploring the ideas behind Freedom Based Training® and implementing and delving even deeper with new ways of building relationships between horses and humans. This time I will be teaming up with Andrea Wady of Pura Vida Equus, who ran Discovery Horse Tours in Costa Rica for the last thirteen years and together we are going to rescue two horses and train them as we cross the country of Costa Rica from the West Coast to the East Coast. I see it as their walk towards a second chance at a good life.

This dance is a conversation between humans and horses to better work together, to build a stable relationship based on trust and communication. Although highly technical, when perfectly mastered it becomes a poem in movement between the protagonists, beautifully executed, where the conversation is held thru gestures, pauses, breathing.

"The Mustangs: An American Story" takes audiences on an odyssey throughout America to places few people have seen or even know about. There are more than 80,000 wild horses on our federal lands and more than 50,000 in holding facilities.

Pulitzer Prize-winning journalist David Philipps says, "The wild horse is so ingrained in the American imagination that even for those who have never seen one know what it stands for: fierce independence, unbridled freedom, the bedrock ideals of the nation. From car ads to high school mascots, the wild horse - popularly known as the mustang - is the enduring icon of America. But in modern times it has become entangled in controversy and bureaucracy, and now its future is in question."

Robert Redford says, "America's wild horses are fighting their last stand. Increasing competition for our natural resources threatens our wilderness areas and wildlife species. Horses are interwoven into the very fabric of what is America. What threatens them threatens us all."

Whether you are a horse person or not, this film will make you fall in love with America all over again and understand why the protection of our wild horses and our public lands are worth fighting for.

“Wings of Kyrgyzstan” is a beautifully shot documentary film about life on the steppes in a remote mountain country, crossroads of the ancient silk roads. Kyrgyzstan is often dubbed the “Switzerland” of Central Asia, and is a lush land of grazing pastures which was beset upon by Soviet occupation with the forced settlement of its semi-nomadic residents.

Recently independent, the country faces high unemployment, and a drain of young people to the lure of income in the Middle East. The great epic stories passed down for thousands of years are rich with the powerful equine and hero traditions which shape the character and aspirations of Kyrgyzstan’s young men and women, and the endeavor to define national and personal identity here is strong.

<https://twitter.com/thegreatflipoff>

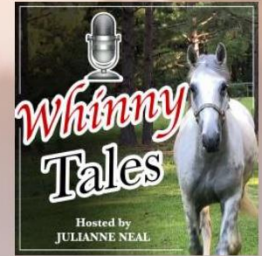

The Great Flip-Off follows extreme circus bareback riding families in what may be their final feat against the loss of their livelihood and the death of their art form. Join these legendary families from Italy, Mexico, Hungary and France as they bring the history, risk and beauty of the original circus act to a multi-generational audience, one last time in Orlando, Florida. Then, return 10 years later to discover how these families have dealt with the passing of time in a range of unusual happy endings and ultimate heartbreak. In 2006, we meet the best-of-the-best bareback artists past and present — The Donnerts, the Turveys, The Suarezes, the Zamperla-Zoppes, Timi Loyal and Mark Karoly. Each family holds a unique place in American circus riding history. They are competitors that agree to unite for a one night performance for the sake of keeping their art alive. From the seventh generation Italian Zamperla Zoppes, to the Donnerts who escaped from communist Hungary, to the Loyals of London who joined forces with the Mexican Suarez family, not only will their bold skill draw you in, but the interpersonal portrait of their family will capture your heart and submerge you into a fascinating world. Jumping through flaming hoops and executing somersaults high into the bigtop while bareback on magnificent steeds does not make them flinch. For these families, fear is not felt at the face of their daring stunts, but rather at the pending unknown: their future without a ring. Fast-forward to 2016. Pushed by the modern climate, elephants are banned from the circus and the Big Top landscape is altered once again. It's a new era when animal rights are in full swing, and the most successful circuses leave behind animal acts, along with the financial burden associated with animal care and travel. We reunite with the bareback riding families 10 years later to find out how they've dealt with these changes, mere months before Ringling announces the closure of the legendary Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus after 146 years. The fate of the American Circus seems almost certain, leaving the future of bareback riding more ambiguous than ever.

<https://www.facebook.com/KodyBundyscratchboardart>

This page is about the art I create with Scratchboard. Scratchboard is a medium that has been around for awhile, but isn't widely used. Scratchboard is a panel covered with a layer of white china clay coated with black India Ink.

Tools such as exacta knives, needles, fiberglass brushes, and steel wool are used to remove the black ink. You are etching into the clay to produce the highlights and leaving the black ink to create negative space. It is the complete opposite of graphite pencil art.

After I've been doing this for awhile I have ventured into adding colored ink. This has added a whole new dimension for me. I believe that I must push into areas that I am unsure of to grow. I hope you follow along with me as I venture on my journey of art.

KISA KAVASS – USA

<https://www.facebook.com/kisakavass>

Kisa Kavass was born in Adelaide, South Australia. At the age of five her family relocated to the United States and spent time living in and exploring various regions before finally settling down in Nashville, Tennessee. Their travels imparted in her an intense curiosity about the world and a fascination with nature and wide open spaces. Kisa obtained degrees in both English and Art History from Vanderbilt University. Her passion for creating art led her to photography and she has worked as a professional portrait and fine art photographer for over twenty years. She has taught workshops on book-making, oil hand tinting and alternative Polaroid film processes. Her fine art work has been featured in magazines and she has had photographs selected for many group and solo shows across the United States.

As the years have progressed her work has evolved and her themes have changed except for the deep connection she has always gained with her subjects. With years of darkroom experience Kisa now has embraced the digital darkroom, yet has still kept the hands on approach with her unique mixed media pieces and each fine art print. For years she has volunteered with animal rescue groups as a foster for dogs needing adoption and as a photographer. This love of animals led her to travel out west in search of America's wild horses. The experience was even more impactful than she expected and she was impressed with the intelligence and sociable nature of the horses. This inspired her to focus on creating fine art photographic studies of the interaction between the horses and their environment. She hopes that her images will inspire everyone to become more engaged in the stories of the herds and their family bands and to sense the importance of protecting our wild lands. She has recently become involved with a domestic horse rescue in Tennessee that helps save horses from the horse slaughter pipeline. These horses come to the rescue hurt and with broken spirits but in time with proper care they can begin new lives. She documents the horses and their progress with her photography.

DAVID SINCLAIR - USA

<https://www.instagram.com/davidsinclairphotography>

Up until a few years ago my career was in theatre and television. Based in London the nearest I had ever been to a horse was on an inter-city 125. Horses were just BIG pets in fields. I had occasion to move to the heart of Gloucestershire five years ago and soon discovered the proximity of many equine disciplines, polo grounds, the hunt and eventing. Aligned with the fact that I have always carried a camera, it wasn't long before I combined one love with what rapidly became another. Horses.

Polo patrons and players became curious about the photographer who spent more time shooting the pony line and grooms than the action on the ground and wanted to see the work, so, shoothorses.com was created.

Now, as an extensive traveler and horse photographer, I have tried wherever I have been in the world to catch not just the essence of the animals themselves, but the spirit and personality of the people who work with them. The wonderful textures and colours of their natural and working environments together with the emotion and intimacy shared between horse and human.

There are many good horse photographers out there, my approach from the beginning was about form and symmetry on an artistic level, trying to capture the power and grace of these horses and moments of harmony between horse and rider.

Having worked in many countries now and with a multitude of horses and people. my understanding of these animals goes a long way to the images I create. For all the potential power and strength they possess, ultimately I find them uniquely calming.

LIZ MASON-SINCLAIR

I am a lifelong horsewoman.

Years ago I began photography because I wanted to paint from my own images, especially those of my flashy, dangerous horse "Magic". At the barn, I followed our horses around with my camera so much they began to hide when they saw me and my little black box.

That led me to my first rodeo. From that first "Cowboy Christmas " (July 4th) I was enthralled by the color, drama, action and values of the rodeo arena. Evident is a tough self – reliance and determination, a genuine trust and belief in a Higher Power. A cowboy removes his hat upon greeting a lady. For me it is a "cultural oasis" ... They called me "Ma'am". (Well, that took some getting used to...) I became a part of the rodeo family in my area. There were buck-outs and jackpots nearly every week. I earned my credentials dodging dirt clods and ducking charging bulls while at the edge of the arena. I arrived early and stayed late, I fried in summer and froze in winter. I was sand blasted and rain soaked. From my new friends I learned to shoot the story behind all the action.

My work has been published in a number of print magazines, as well as online. I have had the honor of photographing events for Amarillo's Visitor Council... And at one time I'm pretty sure at least 800 of my 1600 Facebook friends were using one of my images as a profile picture! With my husband David, I travel extensively . Last summer I stood shooting in the legendary “photographer’s pit” at “The Daddy of ‘em All” in Cheyenne, Wyoming. I could not believe my good fortune. I am anxious to see what happens next!

KRISTIAN VERONO – CANADA

<https://kverono.wixsite.com/verono/equus>

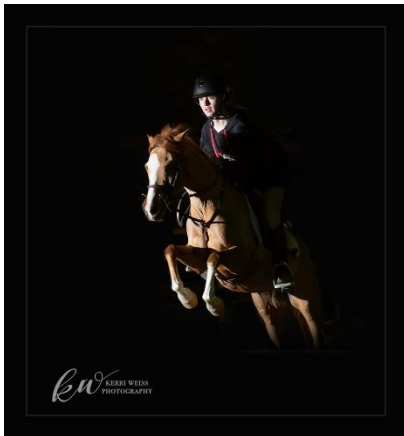

Born in Montréal in 1971.

Verono was awarded his Fashion Design diploma with honours, which opened the doors of the prestigious NYC’s Parson’s School of Design where he perfected his art. Through the World of Fashion he became an instant globe-trotter, but the scarce free time forced him to react quickly thus sharpening his instincts; he would shoot freely then edit later if needed.

Photography ranks high on this multi-faceted artist’s “I like” list.

Self-made man of the 6th Art, he reacts positively to any genre of photography. Whether on the ground, at sea or in the air, often times he is distracted by the beauty that lies beneath our surroundings.

He is looking for balance in shapes and in the timeless aspect of things. He likes his work streamlined, with the only goal of inducing visual relaxation.

COMING IN 2020

One of those small bright spots of the late 1930's was the first published work of C.W. Anderson, Billy and Blaze. This little book started Mr. Anderson on his prolific book publishing career and set the stage for many happy hours of reflection for children around the world. The hope and triumph of this gentle story contributed positively to the greater universal needs the times demanded. As such, the Billy and Blaze series has become a classic, cherished by those who grew up wishing the pictures of Billy and his bay pony, Blaze, could come to life. It is our pleasure to announce that Welkin Studios now owns the film rights to the entire series, with an estate approved script ready to film. When final funding for the simple, but legendary story is secured, the film will be shot in some of the same pastoral settings C.W. Anderson admired while in Virginia.

PERFORMED BY MUSTANG PRIDE
MUSTANG PRIDE

The song, "Mustang Pride" was written and performed by the founder (Sue Anne Wells) and students (Justice Agnew and Mya Humphrey) of an afterschool equestrian program, Mustang Leadership Partners. This program is designed to teach girls, ranging from 12-18 years old, equine and STEM-related material while also providing an atmosphere built upon mentorship. For many students in the program, the time spent working with the mustangs serves as a break from the everyday hardships they may face. The idea of liberation from the everyday served as the creative inspiration for the visual.

"Mustang Pride" is available for download on iTunes, Apple Music, Spotify, YouTube Music, and more! Be sure you purchase this track and support the girls of Chattanooga Girls Leadership Academy and the Mustang Leadership Partners student equestrian program.

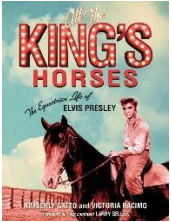

Program Overview

Mustang Leadership Partners (MLP) was established in February 2009 to provide girls and young women with an opportunity to develop, practice, and improve relationship skills, responsibility, social accountability, self-awareness and self-confidence—all of which are mirrored in the mustang’s behavior. Providing hands-on science experiences and equestrian training, the MLP program is grounded in the belief that horses are mirrors to our energy systems and teach us important life lessons. The MLP program serves girls who attend the Chattanooga Girls Leadership Academy (CGLA), Tennessee’s first all-girls public charter school, which serves grades 6-12 and has a curriculum focused on science, technology, engineering, and mathematics.

The vision for the MLP program was born from a partnership with CGLA and Carter Farms in July 2008 to host the school’s inaugural orientation session for 75 girls. During the orientation session girls had an opportunity to meet Charlie, a wild mustang, on his very first day on the farm—an amazing experience as the girls prepared to embark on a new educational and life journey. After the orientation session it was clear that CGLA students could benefit from a structured equine program providing expeditionary science experiences and leadership development.

Victoria Racimo & Kelly Gatto

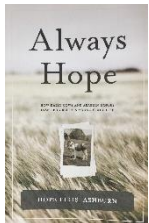

Trailer: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=kY8pwRiCbu0>

<https://www.facebook.com/ElvisATKH/>

This is the first-ever book dedicated to Elvis's equestrian side. It shares stories, interviews, and photographs that shed light on the King's life with horses and the joy they gave him.

When Elvis Presley decided he wanted to buy a horse in 1966, he didn't want just any horse. "He wanted a Golden Palomino," Priscilla Presley remembers. "He would get up at 3:00 in the morning, go to certain farms and ranches and say, 'Do you have a Golden Palomino for sale?' People would say, 'That was Elvis Presley!'" Elvis's legendary love of horses drove him to find the Golden Palomino who would become his beloved companion Rising Sun, and to fill Graceland's stables and Circle G Ranch with horses for family and friends to ride.

In the first-ever book dedicated to Elvis's equestrian side, horse lovers Kimberly Gatto and Victoria Racimo share rare stories, interviews, and photographs that shed light on the beautiful, quiet life the King lived when he was with his horses.

ALWAYS HOPE - USA

Hope Ellis-Ashburn

www.redhorseonaredhill.com

Some of us are born with a sense of agency over our lives. Some of us acquire this sense of agency at a later age while others never acquire it at all. I was born knowing that I was in charge of my own destiny. My stories are equal parts sad, humorous, and everything in between. For example, my father taught me how to drive a tractor at age three. At age thirteen, he taught me how to artificially inseminate cows. Once, we almost lost a farmhand in our manure pit. Always Hope is my coming of age story grounded in rural life, dairy cows, and one amazing Arabian horse.

It's first and foremost my memoir that covers a very specific time period in my life. But I also seek to educate others about what growing up on a farm is like and highlight not only agricultural history, but also my family's history in agriculture as well. Two entire chapters of the book are devoted to Faax and my experiences at Kimbrook Arabians.

LADY LONG RIDER - USA

www.endeofthetrail.com

Trailer: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=52ySjG9iZac>

When Bernice picked up the reins and rode out, heading to New Mexico from Montana, she had no idea that what she was doing had a name: Long Riding. Nor did she imagine that her personal long ride would become an iconic odyssey with meaningfulness for other people.

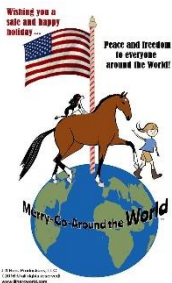

It was only out of necessity that she started talking about her experiences on the road. She gave talks at libraries and senior centers, and they would feed her lunch.

People who met Bernice, resonated deeply with her. The exchange was much more than a good story for a sandwich. By being her authentic self, Bernice was modeling courage, ingenuity, perseverance, and presence. People talked. The word spread. Local newspapers began sending reporters out to find her. Bob Dotson of the Today Show interviewed her.

Bernice is easy for people to connect with. She is present, warm, and engaging. But Bernice is known to say “it’s not me” when asked to comment on the magnetic effect she has on people. It is the symbolism of her journey that is so compelling. This is not something Bernice talks about, because she simply lives it. But it shines through every story she tells: we all have the ability to make purposeful choices about how we live and how we connect with each other. Bernice is the pilgrim who has searched for – and found – what is sacred to her: life itself.

While living an unconventional life, Bernice has found where she belongs in the community of humanity. Like a compassionate mirror, she reflects all that we can be. In her presence you feel how much more you are.

Suzanne Kopp-Moskow

Li'l Herc: The Power of Kindness shares how Li'l Herc helps 'Marie' heal from a difficult time in her life due to a lifelong illness. Because she is unable to run and play or even go to school, Marie feels 'different' than other kids, and worries things may never change for her.

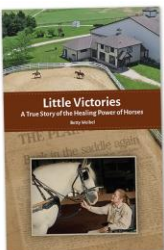

Marie spends a lot of time with her dog, Frida, while reading books about places around the world that she dreams to visit someday. Li'l Herc is sure that he can help Marie—because he knows that “horses are good at helping people.”

Through his horse sense, Li'l Herc helps Marie grow stronger, physically and mentally. As their relationship deepens, so does Marie's hope that she can have her own adventures. Li'l Herc offers to be her travel companion because that is also what horses are good at doing. Frida will join them because true friends always stick together.

Li'l Herc is based on Hercules, the real-life Lusitano bay colt owned by first time horse owner and author, Suzanne Kopp-Moskow. Li'l Herc is brought into Marie's life by Frida, based on Suzanne's real-life tri-color Cavalier King Charles Spaniel, to help Marie overcome her sadness and frustration.

The story is inspired by the author's own struggles from childhood. Bringing Li'l Herc from paddock to paper, is French artist and multi-media illustrator Beatrice Bulteau of Portugal.

It’s the year 2019, and not really a time for miracles. Yet I have decided to trust the magnetic pull that draws me from my normal, comfortable life, to travel to France on the trail of the young warrior I was 400 years ago. Life is like a big puzzle. All the parts are there from the beginning, but it takes time and a special way of looking to find the right pieces and put them together. And at some point the moment will come when I will see the big picture. But it is not that time yet. There is still much lying concealed in the mist. The moment of awakening can have many faces. It’s the little things that change your life. Something completely unexpected happens that you have not planned, which leads you into a future you would never have imagined. My life was turned upside down 7 years ago, by a man I randomly met, a white Lusitano stallion called Habanero and an ancient figurine. RIDING WITH OLIVEIRA – MY TIME WITH THE MESTRE – FORTY YEARS LATER

<https://www.keronpsillas.com/books>

The true Mestre is a person who directs and changes your life. Renowned champion of classical equitation principles and bestselling author Dominique Barbier names the revered Portuguese equestrian Mestre Nuno Oliveira as his. "Through great discipline, scholarly, serious inquiry and analysis, and a nonstop relentless passion, he formed his understanding of the Equestrian Art," says Barbier. "As any student of Mestre Nuno Oliveira will know, he was anything but a simple man."

Over several years Barbier had the unique opportunity to form an intimate relationship with Mestre Oliveira. In this deeply personal book with collaborator Keron Psillas, Barbier chronicles their time together. Beginning in a tiny, dimly lit riding hall in Póvoa de Santo Adrião, Portugal, where seminal moments of Barbier's riding education dawned under the watchful eyes of many luminaries of the European riding elite, the book then explores what came later when Barbier studied with the Mestre in Avedasa and traveled with him to Belgium. Barbier's recollections are complemented by those of three other equestrians who learned from the Mestre: Dany Lahaye, Bettina Drummond, and Luis Valença. The result is a remarkable and insightful retrospective of one of the most extraordinary horsemen of all time.

Pamela Jeffers

<https://www.facebook.com/StandUp.AJourneyWithin>

Many successful trainers have shared their life lessons and epiphanies as a result of years with horses. In Stand Up! Pamela Jeffers applies her years of studying and applying the lessons of these great pioneers, along with her study of spiritual leaders to move through personal adversities and fears. Pamela tells her personal story of discovering internal strength through the power within and improved self-awareness, which ultimately led to compassionate perseverance. Stand Up! is a powerful story of finding strength in difficult times, learning to manage emotions, facing fears, and believing in hope and big dreams with the horses leading the way. Ultimately, Pamela's healing journey leads to combining scientific research discovered to solidify her own discoveries after beginning her Equine Facilitated Learning

SUFFERING IN SILENCE: THE SADDLE FIT LINK TO PHYSICAL AND PSYCHOLOGICAL TRAUMA IN HORSES - CANADA

Jochen Schleese

<https://schleese.com/product/suffering-in-silence-3rd-edition-2017-softcover>

Humans and horses have been joined for thousands of years, and for much of that time, one thing has served as the primary point of physical contact between them: the saddle. However, for many horses and many riders, the saddle has been no less than a refined means of torture. Horses have long suffered from tree points impeding the movement of their shoulder blades; too narrow gullet channels damaging the muscles and nerves along the vertebrae; and too long panels putting harmful pressure on the reflex point in the loin area. Male riders saddle up despite riding-related pain and the potential for serious side effects, such as impotence, while female riders endure backache, slipped discs, and bladder infections, to name just a few common issues.

We must ask ourselves: How much better could we ride and how much better could our horses perform if our saddles fit optimally? If they accommodated the horse’s unique conformation and natural asymmetry? If they were built for the differing anatomy of men and women?

The answers to all these questions are right here, right now, in this book.

It was a cold and foggy February night in 1983 when a group of armed thieves crept onto Ballymany Stud, near The Curragh in County Kildare, Ireland, to steal Shergar, one of the Thoroughbred industry’s most renowned stallions. Bred and raced by the Aga Khan IV and trained in England by Sir Michael Stoute, Shergar achieved international prominence in 1981 when he won the 202nd Epsom Derby by ten lengths—the longest winning margin in the race’s history. The thieves demanded a hefty ransom for the safe return of one of the most valuable Thoroughbreds in the world, but the ransom was never paid and Shergar’s remains have never been found.

Stacie Hammond

"Wild Horses and Mistakes is a modern-day spiritual journey. It chronicles a year of deep soul-searching after the so-called idyllic life that I'd been living...had imploded. I couldn't sit down and churn out another novel, while there was a whole world out there, just waiting for me to taste it. So, that's what I did. I gave myself permission to slow way down; to listen. To learn. To observe and interact. I wanted to get to know the world that I was rejoining, as a single mother. I wanted to get to know myself again. I wanted to heal and leave the past in the past. I wanted to get to the bottom of me: who am I now? What do I want for the remaining days of my life? What bits of life bring the most value, for me? What is truly important? And what do I really, honestly believe in? Life was ripe and simmering with adventure and meaning and great lessons...and I took a big bite." - Stacie Hammond

She homesteads with her tractor-happy husband, Ed, one silly goat, five quirky hens, her flying chestnut horse (a gelding named Hook), a Rocky Mountain mare, and a gregarious Golden Retriever puppy/farm-dog-in-training. She's the author of an award-winning historical romance, The Legacy of Ruby Sanchez, which was a FaithWords finalist in the American Christian Fiction Writers' Genesis contest. She has also had her work published in the American Kennel Club's AKC Gazette, and blogs about her life with horses (Christian Cowgirl Poetry).

Other novels include Saints in the City, a 2009 triple finalist in the Next Generation Indie Book Awards® competition (Romance, Religious Fiction, and Social Change), and a screenplay by the same name which was a quarter-finalist in the 2012 International Page Awards. APRIL ANDERSON: Photographer, videographer and editor April Anderson is the "Head Instigator" behind the Art As Air Project. She created this project with a full-on desire to explore a wide range of experiences and creativity, showcasing artists and life adventurers in whatever medium best represents them. The goal is outreach within communities of all genres and genders in order to create a "world archive," shining a light on unity, passion and connection. April's approach is just as passionate as that of the creators and adventurers whom they profile. Additionally, she has covered events for the Songwriters Hall of Fame for years as a photojournalist (and as their Marketing/Communications Director), as well as conceiving and editing opening video montages for their Annual Induction and Awards Galas.

We began our "Tails of Iceland" journey of creation with the purpose of exploring the differing and varied special relationships between the Icelandic people and their unusual horses. It is about the culture and the connection, and there have been thousands of stories in the hundreds of years since these horses were brought to this fiercely unforgiving and magnificent island. Our goal is to capture some of the tales and a lot of the history, but more importantly, to illustrate how deep this unique kinship goes.

MARTIN NIELSEN DOCUMENTARY

DEWORM DEBUNK

Two equine parasitology research herds were established at the University of Kentucky in the 1970s by Drs. Harold Drudge and Gene Lyons, and they are unique in the world today. These two world-renowned parasitologists had the vision and foresight to establish these research resources to help address many pertinent questions about equine parasite control.

“I wanted to try and address common misconceptions and myths in equine parasite control,” he said. “In this series, I’ll address one myth or misconception at the time and in 45 seconds or less, I will explain why it is exactly that – a myth or misconception. These will be interspersed with a few longer videos providing more background information and highlighting recent research findings.”

BARB PHELPS

TBI PANEL GUEST SPEAKER

CONTACT: uspbarb@aol.com

BARB PHELPS: Considering the fact that I don't really ride, its remarkable how much of the last thirty years have been spent, caring for, watching, studying and paying for horses.

As a kid I trail road with friends on weekends and at summer camp but it wasn't until I had my own children that my life became consumed by all things equine. My three children and I were very active in United States Pony Club for over 20 years. We bought our first OTTB with another PC family and have had at least one horse for 30 years. Torey was the most committed to riding and chose to be an equine studies major at University of Kentucky. She started working for various breeding farms and the TB lifestyle ensued.

Following Torey's TBI in New Zealand I was constantly reminded of the healing powers of horses and the community of horse people. The breeder who had employed her gave us free housing for months during her rehab in New Zealand. Her horse family of friends in Lexington and Ireland had fundraisers to help with expenses. The best thing was the pony that her friend brought to the rehab unit to encourage her to increase her range of motion and communication skills.

Other horses were part of her recovery as she regained strength and balance but none have been as important as our 17.3 he OTTB, Tigger. His patience and kindness have been immeasurable as he literally saved her butt on numerous occasions when her enthusiasm outpaced her ability. In the last six years they have gone from a confused but compliant horse to a team competing successfully in beginner horse trials. He has been her therapist, her companion and in the words of her trainer, "He has given her wings."

BERNICE ENDE – LADY LONG RIDER: My life as a young girl growing up on a small Minnesota dairy farm could have been a hard, even dull life, had it not been for my mother. My father’s thick gnarled hands were a reflection of the work that was required to manage a dairy farm and provide for a large family. It was from him that I learned the art of “can-do-ness”. I.e., the art of improvising. We were poor but never do I recall us being without. My mother added color to our life. Fun surprises that broke up the routine of chores. Her love of life was infectious as she decorated for holidays, baked birthday cakes, encouraged not just me but everyone to play a musical instrument and to read. My mother was a graduate of the University of Minnesota and loved reading. She took us to see plays and concerts. She encouraged her tribe to try different foods and to explore.

She gave me a sense of the horizon and the curiosity to look beyond its limitations. She was the kind of mother who upon laying eyes on her eight-year-old daughter (me) who was standing on the bare-back of our old horse, Chee Chee, and galloping down the gravel driveway — did not scream, but silently smiled and went about her business. When ever I recall this incident to memory I shake my head, “How could she have let me do that, and watch”!!! She gave me the space to be as wildly adventurous as I needed to be. Her philosophy of life had been passed down to her by her mother and her four aunts. Capable, daring women who sought to change the world through education, the arts, science and.... adventure, this my Mother passed down to me.

BRITTANY HALSTEAD / REPLAY POLO

Brittany Halstead: “I know not many people are familiar with Argentina but I must say, Argentina is what saved my life! The support I got from my loving friends, the team of doctors, paramedics and the pilot of the helicopter that life flighted me from one hospital to another in Argentina; they saved my life with all their love, prayers and support. They did it all free of charge. The medical industry in Argentina has made it free to save your life.”

I was 26 years old when I travelled to Argentina (for the third time) because, this time, I got my dream job. I was a professional showjumping rider. But I had another goal, to make contacts with the polo community in that Country. My dream was to start a therapeutic riding program for people with disabilities, including brain injuries. I had just completed an article about it as well....before what happened.

On December 14, 2014 I was a passenger in a vehicle. I was told the driver swerved to miss a person running across the road. That is when the head on collision took place, with another car that was doing a U turn on the highway. One other person died and I had a lot of injuries. I had damage to my left lung and a pretty extensive brain injury. I was picked up and taken to the local hospital. I was placed into a medically induced coma for 10 days. In one picture, you can see my body was swelling so badly that doctors used frozen Coke bottles to cool me down. They are a third world Country so they don't have the same medical supplies available to them that we do here. My dad is an emergency room Doctor and began to make plans to have me flown home. He didn't want me to stay in Argentina because he was worried whether I would live or not if I stayed there. They sent my dad the MRI and it made him vomit when he saw it. But thank God my mommy came down to Argentina to take care of me, her baby! A medical plane was sent to pick me up and transport me back to the United States. When I arrived back in the United States in Nashville, TN – I was taken to Vanderbilt University Hospital.

Brittany Halstead is uniquely suited to operate both the repurposing pipeline for retired polo horses and instructional elements of the business. She has experience with many disciplines: Tennessee walking horses, quarter horses, dressage, hunter/jumper, showjumping, polo, western pleasure, thoroughbred racing, therapeutic riding, and an equine veterinarian technician. Twelve years ago she earned her certification as a PATH (Professional Association of Therapeutic Horsemanship) Instructor, and seven years ago she became a certified PATH Mentor. She makes the perfect liaison between the worlds of high-performance competitive horses and beloved equine partners.

ReplayPolo is a 501c3 organization dedicated to furthering the influential lives of retiring polo horse athletes by preparing them for second careers in therapeutic riding, intercollegiate sports, and other programs that need an exceptional horse for a specialized task. Our program satisfies the original owner, rewards a new owner, and most importantly, allows the horse to remain productive in a happy new environment. Brittany Halstead founded ReplayPolo in 2016 after surviving a near fatal car accident that left her in a coma for two weeks with traumatic brain injury. After a few months in the hospital she miraculously recovered and was given a retired polo pony named Fanta to help her heal. Fanta became the first Replay Polo pony and started Halstead on her journey to connect these amazing horses to people in need.

CANDACE CARRABUS RICE: Award-winning author Candace Carrabus's stories are imbued with the irresistible wonder, mystery, and solace horses have brought to her life. If you like your books filled with powerful women, adventure, and romance, you'll enjoy hers.

Horses have been a vital part of Candace's life. After being diagnosed with scoliosis at age 11, she was strapped into an ugly and cumbersome back brace for 23 hours a day. She sought refuge at the barn where horses didn't judge or poke fun, hoarding her time, wearing the brace for days without break so she could remove it long enough for a weekly riding lesson.

Candace and her best friend and ride ever, Smirnoff.

These years, though often difficult, taught Candace the value of persistence, the healing power of believing in oneself, and how strength can be gained through kindness. Riding, grooming, or simply keeping company with horses helped develop Candace's fearless creativity and sense of humor while providing the deep well from which her imagination springs. Over time, writing became as much of an obsession as riding.

Carrabus writes laugh-out-loud mystery fiction and out-of-this-world fantasy. Her novels include On the Buckle, Dream Horse Mystery #1 ("Fast-paced and enjoyable," Reader's Favorite) and Raver, The Horsecaller: Book One ("Packed full of adventure and intrigue," The Literary Connoisseur). She revels in the natural world, and the Missouri farm she shares with her husband is a never-ending source of inspiration.

She boards her gelding, Remi, where there are plenty of other equines for him to play with and an indoor arena in which to ride. Although riding will always be high on the list, one of her greatest pleasures is sitting on the back deck, sipping tea, reading a good book, and watching the birds.

CARL BLEDSOE

FOSH...WHAT IS IT ABOUT? – GUEST SPEAKER

CARL BLEDSOE HORSEMANSHIP: <https://carbledsoehorsemanship.com>

CARL BLEDSOE: From his farm in Talking Rock, Georgia, Carl Bledsoe brings with him a history of horsemanship and a wealth of knowledge to the gaited horse breeds. He is a second generation trainer of Champion and World Champion Tennessee Walking Horses. Since that time, Carl's views on big lick Walking Horses has changed 180 degrees, and he has taken a public stance against the cruel and inhumane practice of soring Walking Horses. In Carl's letter to Congressman Ed Whitfield, which exposed the illegal soring that was part of the Tennessee Walking Horse show industry, Carl declared, "I choose the horse".

Carl's past is a key component in who he is today because it has completely molded and shaped him into the horseman he has become. At one point he admits that he could not bear to look at himself in the mirror because of the pain inflicted on the horses in order to achieve the high stepping gait that is desired in that particular show arena. He made the decision to walk away from that world, and it was the best decision he ever made in his life. Although he now works with all breeds and disciplines, he and his wife, Tammy, have made it their life's mission to speak out against the mistreatment and misconceptions of the Tennessee Walking Horse and raise awareness about this amazingly talented and tolerant breed as well as all of other gaited breeds.

Rather than shortcuts and gimmicks, Carl believes in education and understanding by having compassion and empathy for the horse. He no longer considers it training but rather building relationships. He approaches each horse as an individual and always asks himself, "What's in it for the horse?"

Carl now has the honor and privilege of traveling and conducting various clinics and sharing his story of his progression from the show ring to teaching with the best interest of horse and rider as his primary goal in hopes of someday proving the wonder and versatility of these amazing creatures.

WEBSITE: <https://www.shootshorses.com>

<https://www.facebook.com/shootshorsescom-David-Sinclair-Photography-180087892075015>

DAVID SINCLAIR: David Sinclair came to equine photography after working in the theatre and television in the UK. Based in London the nearest he had ever been to a horse was on a train journey. 'Horses were just BIG pets in fields'. He had occasion to move to the heart of Gloucestershire and soon discovered the proximity of many equine disciplines; Polo grounds, the Hunt and Eventing. Aligned with the fact that he always carried a camera, it wasn't long before he combined one love with what rapidly became another. Horses.

Now, as an extensive traveler and horse photographer, he says he has tried wherever he has been in the world, to catch not just the essence of the animals themselves, but the spirit and personality of the people who work with them. The wonderful textures and colours of their natural and working environments together with the emotion and intimacy shared between horse and human.

His approach from the beginning was a two sided - one stylized in form and symmetry on an artistic level. Trying to capture the power and grace of these horses and moments of harmony between horse and rider and then, purely documentarily in nature..

Having worked across Europe, his interest spread to Western horsemanship, realizing very little was known about this at home, his travels led him eventually to marrying and settling in the USA. For the last three years he and his wife have been immersed in all aspects of work with horses in North America.

Based in Amarillo TX, he now works on private, commercial or journalistic projects nationwide and with a multitude of people and horses from all backgrounds, from ranching and rodeo to bison and horse stock, whilst still keeping up the work with European styles.

Ultimately his hard earned understanding of these animals goes a long way to the images he creates. "For all the potential power and strength they possess, ultimately I find them uniquely calming. Further to that, I now find an admiration and respect for the people we meet during the course of working with livestock and am doubly incentivised to capture those moments honestly".

CEO - HORSE NETWORK / SVP STRATEGIC INITIATIVES - WRIGLEY MEDIA GROUP

WEBSITE: <https://horsenetwork.com>

ELAYNE FOWLER:

Once at an executive retreat in Argentina, Elayne beat a New York City stock broker (and self-proclaimed “rider”) in an impromptu foot race by closing her eyes and clinging to the pommel while her (un)trusty steed bolted back to the barn. She’s exceptionally proud of that accomplishment. What Horse Network’s CEO lacks in riding experience she more than makes up for in marketing expertise.

From Fortune 1000 companies to start ups, lifestyle brands to globally distributed bike companies, Elayne is a wealth of knowledge in sustainable strategy, maximizing audience experience and investor ROI, empowering stakeholders and exceeding expectations. In other words, she’s the business end of Horse Network and we’d be lost without her. When Elayne is not in the office, you can find her hiking the Swiss Alps, scuba diving on the Great Barrier Reef, and/or complicating the lives of waiters with off menu requests.

Elayne has worked at big agencies you might have heard of like Saatchi & Saatchi and Young & Rubicam, small agencies and even had her own agency. Consistently imagining new solutions and applications for clients, Elayne also has a passion for sustainability. In fact, she is Harvard Sustainability certified! As a triathlete and international traveler, she’s always pushing us to go further and explore the possibilities.

ELIZABETH SHATNER

HORSES HELPING VETERANS...HELPING HORSES PANEL

WEBSITE: <http://www.allgloryproject.com>

ELIZABETH SHATNER: Born with a love of horses, Elizabeth began riding at the age of five, and by 14 she was teaching horseback riding and participating in young judging competitions with the Indiana Arabian Club. She won several national honors and a scholarship, through which she attended a USEF judging clinic. During her time as a youth judge she began to appreciate the power of the horse and its role in both society and nature. She attended Purdue University, studying equine and animal science, as well as Butler University for Telecommunications. Elizabeth went on to dedicate her life to the Horse, eventually holding nine judging cards, being a professional light breed trainer for 25 years, and a Saddleseat instructor for 30.

In 2000, Elizabeth became non-pro, and her version of “retirement” has been to go on to win multiple World Championship horse show titles, both under saddle and to bike. Simultaneously, she has developed a name for herself in the art world, combining high-end photography and digital painting with her own art company, “Elizabeth Shatner’s Art by Nature”. Her pieces focus on the healing power of nature’s forms, and the spirit of the Horse and those who love it.

Elizabeth’s latest endeavor, however, is closest to her heart – for it combines her love of animals, and her desire to bring healing to others, with one of the greatest causes an American can support. In 2010, she founded The All Glory Project, a non-profit that brings animal-assisted therapy programs to military veterans and their family members. The All Glory Project also recognizes our four-legged friends that have served humankind so bravely over the centuries, “We are a non-profit campaign of consciousness to thank our wounded heroes – both human and animal alike,” says Mrs. Shatner. Equine- and canine-assisted therapy is among the most powerful and enduring methods of healing, and Elizabeth hopes you’ll help her make it more available to those who have sacrificed.

2019 EQUUS Film & Arts Fest ELLE BRUNSWICK-HANKS TBI PANEL GUEST SPEAKER BIO

WEBSITE: <https://www.facebook.com/elle.brunswickhanks>

ELLE BRUNSWICK-HANKS: Elle Brunswick-Hanks is a retired special education teacher who is also a freelancer for multimedia projects in and around the Philadelphia area. She resides in Bucks County, PA with her husband and two dogs. The couple also recently purchased their first horse, a Standardbred x draft cross named after John Paul Jones. Originally from Saratoga Springs, NY, a love of all things equine was instilled at an early age. Although she lessoned in Western and English riding, she especially loved the harness racing, so JPJ was a perfect selection for this phase in her life.

What sounds like a typical retirement in this bucolic area is anything but; on September 28, 2016, their lives would be upended by a cruel joke of a tragedy. Brunswick-Hanks adored her career as a junior high math and special education teacher. Late in September, at the beginning of her 20th year in the Central Bucks School District, Brunswick -Hanks became entangled in and fell over a student's laptop cord. Wheeled out on a stretcher and unconscious, she had no idea this day would be her last in that beloved building.

The trauma center diagnosed a TBI and a spinal cord injury. While the number of injuries was minimal, their impact was huge. For most of that year, life was filled with surgeries and various rehab therapies. Her neurosurgeon performed intense surgery on her cervical spine, and with PT and rehab, Brunswick-Hanks was able to make some physical progress. She was, however, left with numerous cognitive, emotional and sensory impairments, including visual dysfunction.

When her neurologist suggested volunteering, possibly with animals, Brunswick-Hanks discovered Ivy Hill Therapeutic Riding Facility. Not surprisingly, it was a perfect match. What was shocking were her improvements. In the two years she spent interacting with the students and horses as first a volunteer and eventually a rider, she thrived physically, cognitively, and emotionally. Her confidence and riding skills grew to the extent that she was able to pursue Western lessons at Red Wing Farm and participate in clinics and shows.

A special education teacher who has to often rely on some of the very techniques she taught her students with disabilities is very humbling and may have come full circle. But so has the horse crazy kid who grew up to have one of her own.

Last March Brunswick-Hanks fell in love with a large bay gelding on a trail ride. Six months later she learned he was being sold at auction, and she and her husband moved quickly to contact a rescue that was working with the family to find homes for about 26 trail horses. Fast forward about three weeks, and JPJ is loving life in his new home at Red Wing Farm and working hard to learn new things and meet new friends.

HEATHER WALLACE: I am a Certified Equine Sports Massage Therapist (ESMT) and Certified Canine Massage Therapist (CCMT). While I am confident at work, I struggle with confidence in the saddle. I left riding as a teenager due to anxiety but returned as an adult after having my first child. This time around is a lot different. I'm older, I'm less flexible, and I'm a lot farther from the ground. Not to mention, I have three daughters at home depending on me. I still doubt myself but my determination to pursue my passion with horses is a constant struggle that I'm working on every day with my pony Ferrous. My advice to you? Never give up. Be bold and step outside your comfort zone.

I am perhaps best known for my best-selling book, Confessions of a Timid Rider, which won the 2018 Equus Film Festival WINNIE award for Best Non-Fiction. I have also written for a number of publications including Holistic Horse Magazine, Sidelines Magazine, and Equine Info Exchange among others. View my portfolio for more information.

Jean Albert Renaud (JAR) is a visionary, world class equestrian and horse breeder, music producer and former Motown songwriter and recording artist. He has combined these skills, resources and energies as an activist, to launch efforts to raise awareness about Human Rights issues, to empower youth, protect wild horses and promote HIV/AIDS awareness and prevention practices. It is through his vision and commitment that Protect Yourself 1, Inc., was founded in 2004. JAR developed Project Arrowhead, a program that empowers and protects America's Treasures: America's youth, the future builders of our nation and the Mustang, who helped transform America's wilderness into the foundation for today's contemporary society. Project Arrowhead, connecting at-risk youth and horses, is designed to raise the consciousness level of youth on ecological issues and urban concerns. In 2013, Jean Albert Renaud was selected as a BMe leader, and his program Project Arrowhead was selected as a recipient of the 2013 Miami Foundation Black Male Engagement Fund.

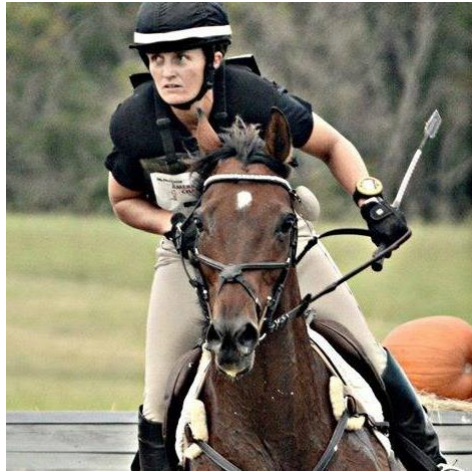

JAR is a celebrated international horseman and horse breeder who has trained horses and riders for members of the royal families of Qatar, the United Arab Emirates and the United Kingdom. From the age of three, he learned from his grandfather to respect the horse for its spirit as well as its strength. Such sensitivity has informed JAR's ability to build a very successful horse breeding and training farm called Sunshine Acres. "The horse helps me find oneness with nature", says Jean Albert Renaud. And that sentiment is what informs his purpose in life: to help our youth appreciate and become empowered by the "natural oneness of life". His horsemanship is featured in many documentaries.

WEBSITE: <https://www.luckydogeventing.com>

JENN O'NEILL: After finishing her degrees in Business Management and also in Equine Studies in 2002 Jenn stayed in Kentucky and made the Bluegrass her home. Over the past 15 years she has managed a boarding facility strictly for college students, and then managed a sport horse operation of 55 horses including a string of training horses and lesson clients. Jenn has cared for horses from companion horses to 4 star veterans. She also has an extensive veterinary background, and has taken care of both sport horse and racetrack layups.

Like most professional horsemen Jenn's love for horses started young. Not coming from a "horsey" family Jenn frequently found catch rides through high school and college, which gave her great experience on many different types of horses. Jenn has also been fortunate to train with other trainers who specialize in their own discipline to the highest level. She has been able to take skills from each of them to help build her own program and style to training horses and riders. Jenn has been able to bring several horses up the levels; her best known partner is That'll Do an OTTB whom she has brought from the racetrack to the advanced level.

Her knack for empathizing with rider's fear and understanding how to help them overcome the mental side of riding has made her an excellent coach for nervous adult amateurs. The same skills have allowed her to be able to get the best out of nervous or "problem" horses. Jenn has students and horses successfully competing from the grass routes to the Intermediate Level.

JESSICA ANNE BOGART – WRITER / PRODUCER

WEBSITE: https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=6lxSr_d2bLk

JESSICA ANNE BOGART: Jessica's love for horses started very young. Her mother introduced her to riding around 9 yrs of age and she quickly grew to love the sport competing in show jumping throughout Alberta, Canada including the world famous Spruce Meadows. As it happened her life went in a different direction after competition and she didn't return to the sport for 25 yrs.

As a successful voiceover actor Jessica had the opportunity to re-ignite her love for riding and show jumping about 10 yrs ago, and in that time she was introduced to Susan Artes. A professional show jumper on the West Coast circuit. The two became friends and Jessica learned of Susie's journey getting to where she is professionally in the sport today. Susie's story of tragedy and grit inspired Jessica to make "Carry Your Hand". A short documentary about a little girl's love for horses that carried her through loss and onward to victory in a sport that reminds us how great our equine ally really is!

Director Statement

"Carry Your Hand" came out of my friend and producer Jessica Anne Bogart's simple question to me, "Do you want to make a film about a horse trainer"? Considering I know nothing about horses, or show jumping at all I said "Yes, absolutely"! Fast forward and here we are with the documentary short "Carry Your Hand". To filmmakers out there, "Say Yes to stuff you know nothing about".

SUFFERING IN SILENCE: THE SADDLE FIT LINK TO PHYSICAL AND PSYCHOLOGICAL TRAUMA IN HORSES

WEBSITE: <https://schleese.com>

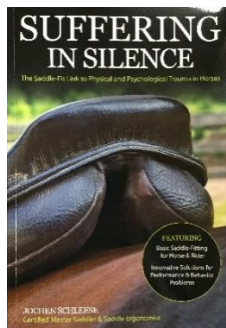

BOOK: <https://schleese.com/product/suffering-in-silence-3rd-edition-2017-softcover>

<https://www.facebook.com/Schleese>

JOCHEN SCHLEESE: Humans and horses have been joined for thousands of years, and for much of that time, one thing has served as the primary point of physical contact between them: the saddle.

However, for many horses and many riders, the saddle has been no less than a refined means of torture. Horses have long suffered from tree points impeding the movement of their shoulder blades; too narrow gullet channels damaging the muscles and nerves along the vertebrae; and too long panels putting harmful pressure on the reflex point in the loin area. Male riders saddle up despite riding-related pain and the potential for serious side effects, such as impotence, while female riders endure backache, slipped discs, and bladder infections, to name just a few common issues.

We must ask ourselves: How much better could we ride and how much better could our horses perform if our saddles fit optimally? If they accommodated the horse's unique conformation and natural asymmetry? If they were built for the differing anatomy of men and women?

JONATHAN L& EVA LEARN: Horse Powers – the documentary film for television.

In this film we follow the adventures of a Mountain Horsewoman, a Viking like Family and a War Veteran as they chase their dreams and experience oneness with nature & well-being through their bonds with horses.

Our most trusted & reliable working partner has become a prescription for our health & well-being. We've relied upon horses for thousands of years to get us from place to place, charging through battlefields and farming our lands. In this film, we'll explore the close bonds that the horse developed with us over the centuries- bonds that have enabled horses to be 'doctors with four legs'. In Norway, prescriptions can be written by doctors for horse therapy- In this film, the long-time traditions with horses may explain the therapeutic value of being with horses. "There is something about the outside of a horse that is good for the inside of a man."~Sir Winston Churchill. From the fjords and forests of Norway, Horse Powers places you in the saddle of the Nordic horse culture.

A combat veteran from Norway served in Afghanistan and now suffers from post traumatic stress disorder (PTSD). He's invited by a Vietnam veteran to Saratoga, New York home of horse, health and history, to meet the '4-legged doctors' -- former race horses where he joins some U.S. veterans.

JP GIACOMINI:

Jean Philippe Giacomini, known as “J.P.”, was born in France and later studied dressage with Master Nuno Oliveira in Lisbon, Portugal for a year and worked as an assistant trainer at the National Portuguese Stud of Alter Real for 3 & a half years with Dom Jose Athayde. He rode many green colts, raced in a few steeplechases, evented, show-jumped and trained the first of 25 Grand Prix dressage horses when he was 20.

While living in England, Giacomini produced international champions in 3 day eventing, dressage and show-jumping, including the Lusitano stallion Novilheiro, who was a Grand Prix dressage horse, an intermediate eventer and British Show-Jumping leading money earner in 1983. Giacomini also coached international event and dressage riders from England, Canada, the United States, Ireland and Portugal. This list includes the 1983 European 3 Day Gold Medallist Rachel Bayliss who, aboard her horse Mystic Minstrel, achieved the unique feat of competing internationally in dressage and eventing the same year. (see picture at Badminton 1980) Giacomini is widely considered an expert at training piaffe and passage and is noted for his ability to bring long-lasting solutions to previously unsolved training or soundness problems.

JP is the inventor of a revolutionary training approach: the Endotapping™ method that addresses emotional and biomechanics issues for both horses and riders. It has paved the way for the design of his Zeno Neuropacer™, a relaxation and pain reducing device (human and animal models). 50 years of observing and analyzing horse behavior lead him to this remarkable discovery designed to help resolved neurological issues in horses and humans. Anecdotal evidence of the effect of the Zeno shows great promise for some severe, as of yet incurable problems such as Separation anxiety, Shivers or Cribbing.

KARL GUSTAV LINDSTROM: With nearly three decades of project-creation and management experience in a wide variety of entrepreneurial venues, Karl's focus has been to bring the passions and creative visions of others into concrete reality. His tenure as a genetic engineer and senior manager for several University of Kentucky research laboratories culminated in his co-designing, building, and operating of the university's cutting-edge genetics initiative, the Advanced Genetics Technologies Center. Beyond his technical and executive duties, Karl was often enrolled as resident liaison, explaining the role and function of the project to interested parties. This was a natural segue to his next career as an Elite Instructor and Trainer for Kaplan Inc. In both live classroom and online environments, Karl coached a wide variety of pre-professionals in the mastery of Medical School and Law School entrance exams. As a Teacher-Trainer, Karl also vetted new teacher applicants, coached junior teachers, and designed curricula for public schools to train teachers in standardized test skills.

Additional past projects include the creation and operation of a successful catering business, a non-profit art gallery, an online retail shopping site, and regular contracts as a public speaker and emcee (one of his degrees is in Theatre - which he considers his official avocation). MOUNTED POLICE CONTACT INFO

On-Duty Officer: 859-509-1450 / Office: 859-259-4250

Captain Lisa Rakes, Mounted Unit Commander - E-mail: lisa.rakes@ky.gov

The responsibilities of the KHP Mounted Police Department are:

Provide uniform patrol service 24 hours a day, 365 days a year

- Provide traffic control and related duties for large events
- Monitor and respond to the fire and security alarm system
- First responders in emergency and/or crisis situations
- Investigate criminal and non-criminal complaints to include personal injury and accident reports
- Enforce Kentucky Administrative Regulations
- Coordinate with cabinet officials and other law enforcement agencies on special events
- Promote and maintain positive public relations
- Maintain safe and suitable horses capable of performing police related patrols and details
- Perform ceremonial duties by participating in honor guard and escort details

Generally, the mounted police horses are a draft or draft cross breed that are big boned and durable, but also athletic in build. They possess a kind disposition, and are docile, friendly and curious in character. Mounted Patrols are effective for crowd control in many ways. Because of the height the officer gains when mounted (giving an overall height of almost 9 feet), officers can see over the crowd and spot problems. The highly visible officer presence can make unruly elements in a crowd think twice before creating a problem. If a disturbance does occur, mounted officers can quickly disperse an unruly crowd, most of the time without ever having to make contact with the persons being moved.

The KHP Mounted Police and the Lexington Mounted Police units host the annual National Mounted Police Colloquium and Civilian Sensory Clinic at the Kentucky Horse Park. National and international instructors are brought in to instruct both police and civilians in various types of training to include equitation, jumping, crowd control and sensory techniques. This event brings together people and horses from all around the country to learn new techniques, share ideas, and train their amazing horses. Training is always conducted in a controlled environment geared to improving the confidence of both the horse and rider.

KISA KAVASS: Kisa Kavass was born in Adelaide, South Australia. At the age of five her family relocated to the United States and spent time living in and exploring various regions before finally settling down in Nashville, Tennessee. Their travels imparted in her an intense curiosity about the world and a fascination with nature and wide open spaces. Kisa obtained degrees in both English and Art History from Vanderbilt University. Her passion for creating and art led her to photography and she has worked as a professional portrait and fine art photographer for over twenty years. She has taught workshops on book-making, oil hand tinting and alternative Polaroid film processes. Her fine art work has been featured in magazines and she has had photographs selected for many group and solo shows across the United States.

As the years have progressed her work has evolved and her themes have changed except for the deep connection she has always gained with her subjects. For years she has volunteered with animal rescue groups as a foster for dogs needing adoption and as a photographer. This love of animals led her to travel out west in search of America's wild horses. The experience was even more impactful than she expected and she was impressed with the intelligence and sociable nature of the horses. This inspired her to focus on creating fine art photographic studies of the interaction between the horses and their environment. She has recently become involved with a domestic horse rescue in Tennessee that helps save horses from the horse slaughter pipeline. These horses come to the rescue hurt and with broken spirits but in time with proper care they can begin new lives. She documents the horses and their progress with her photography.

KODY BUNDY: All the paths I took in life led me to this moment. Even when you feel you are the furthest from your destination, the next thing you know you look up and you have arrived. Wildlife in wild places and western scenes is not just a saying to me it's what my life has been entangled by. Each etching I create is a view I have observed on my path.

The art I create with Scratchboard. Scratchboard is a medium that has been around for awhile, but isn't widely used. Scratchboard is a panel covered with a layer of white china clay coated with black India Ink. Tools such as exacta knives, needles, fiberglass brushes, and steel wool are used to remove the black ink. You are etching into the clay to produce the highlights and leaving the black ink to create negative space. It is the complete opposite of graphite pencil art.

After I've been doing this for awhile I have ventured into adding colored ink. This has added a whole new dimension for me. I believe that I must push into areas that I am unsure of to grow. I hope you follow along with me as I venture on my journey of art.

KRISTIAN VERONO: Born in Montréal in 1971.

Verono was awarded his Fashion Design diploma with honours, which opened the doors of the prestigious NYC's Parson's School of Design where he perfected his art. Through the World of Fashion he became an instant globe-trotter, but the scarce free time forced him to react quickly thus sharpening his instincts; he would shoot freely then edit later if needed.

Photography ranks high on this multi-faceted artist's "I like" list.

Self-made man of the 6th Art, he reacts positively to any genre of photography. Whether on the ground, at sea or in the air, often times he is distracted by the beauty that lies beneath our surroundings.

He is looking for balance in shapes and in the timeless aspect of things. He likes his work streamlined, with the only goal of inducing visual relaxation.

Larry McMillan has ridden the trails of Big South Fork for over 34 years. He could navigate the trails in the dark (and has!). He's ridden miles on elk hunts in New Mexico, W. Virginia, Kentucky and Colorado -- add a three week jungle trip Honduras.

McMillan sat his first horse at 6 months old. He learned to ride whatever was under him. In his greener years, McMillan pushed cattle in TX and OK and worked horse shows in Ocala, FL. Much of his equine savvy is self-taught. "The gift of being around horses" has enhanced his ability to understand people – given him a "life degree" in human/horse nature.

McMillan has outfitted trail riding adventures at Big South Fork (BSF) (known as "the Yellowstone of the east") since 1988. BSF is the second largest network of public horse trails east of the Mississippi. McMillan is committed to provide a custom rider-focused trail experience. Besides hours/day trail rides, McMillan's years of experience brings knowledge based creativity to his rides and multiple-day pack-mule trips. His tailor made riding events include families, business groups, church groups, scouts, reunions, weddings and romantic renewals.

McMillan thrives on what he does. Southeast Pack Trips rides out -- year round – weather be darned. McMillan's pre-ride motto is, "Rock 'n roll."

She purchased her first padded (performance) TWH in 1996 with thoughts of being able to showcase her horse in a humane way. She was quickly educated about the world of soring in order to enhance gait and be competitive in the show ring. By 1998 Lisa was looking for ways to help end this abuse!

Through friends on the Internet, she found a newly formed association named FOSH (Friends of Sound Horses). FOSH was formed to provide a sound showing venue for flat shod horses and provide a fair playing field for horses and exhibitors. In 1999, Lisa became a DQP through the FOSH HIO. DQPs are licensed by the USDA to inspect gaited horses for soring before they enter the show ring. LIZ MASON-SINCLAIR: I am a lifelong horsewoman.

Years ago I began photography because I wanted to paint from my own images, especially those of my flashy, dangerous horse “Magic”. At the barn, I followed our horses around with my camera so much they began to hide when they saw me and my little black box.

That led me to my first rodeo. From that first “Cowboy Christmas “ (July 4th) I was enthralled by the color, drama, action and values of the rodeo arena. Evident is a tough self – reliance and determination, a genuine trust and belief in a Higher Power. A cowboy removes his hat upon greeting a lady. For me it is a “cultural oasis” ... They called me “Ma’am”. (Well, that took some getting used to...) I became a part of the rodeo family in my area. There were buck-outs and jackpots nearly every week. I earned my credentials dodging dirt clods and ducking charging bulls while at the edge of the arena. I arrived early and stayed late, I fried in summer and froze in winter. I was sand blasted and rain soaked. From my new friends I learned to shoot the story behind all the action.

My work has been published in a number of print magazines, as well as online. I have had the honor of photographing events for Amarillo’s Visitor Council... And at one time I’m pretty sure at least 800 of my 1600 Facebook friends were using one of my images as a profile picture! With my husband David, I travel extensively . Last summer I stood shooting in the legendary “photographer’s pit” at “The Daddy of ‘em All” in Cheyenne, Wyoming. I could not believe my good fortune. I am anxious to see what happens next!

M. J. EVANS: I am a graduate of Oregon State University and a lifelong equestrian. I am also a former teacher at the secondary school level. My husband, Tom, and I have 5 wonderful children, ten incredible grandchildren and live in Colorado with our three horses and a standard poodle.

I have always loved writing and using my imagination to create stories and characters. For seventeen years I coached Odyssey of the Mind and Destination Imagination teams for my kids. It was so fun helping them learn to write one-act plays.

Because of my love for horses, this magnificent animal is the subject of most of my books...from the non-fiction equestrian trail guide books titled "Riding Colorado", "Riding Colorado II" and "Riding Colorado III" to my fantasy stories and novels.

I have known and loved many noble and great horses in my life so I also decided to start a blog about them. You can learn about famous and loved horses at www.themisttrilogy.blogspot.com. I love riding on trails in the beautiful Colorado mountains and competing in Dressage. So, if I am not sitting at my computer writing a new story, you can find me sitting in a saddle!

MATTHEW BLACK EAGLE MAN: Matthew was born Kevin Prince on Long Plain First Nation Indian reserve in Manitoba, Canada. He was adopted away from his people at the age of nine after spending three years in 33 foster homes, and raised in Seymour, Indiana. Though a registered tribal member at birth, he was not aware of his status as a tribal member until his late teens. Prior to this, he found himself growing up in a world where he didn't belong and never fit in. When he found he could not scrub off the color of his skin, suicide seemed the only option. Were it not for his sister's intervention, Matthew would not be here today to share his story of survival. He is an avid horseman, a Dakota 38 descendant and Memorial Rider that participates in a ride that spans 330 miles on horse back.

His experiences led him and his wife to found Red Road Awareness, a non-profit organization that shares indigenous culture and history with our area youth. Through their Traveling Tipi Village, Matthew speaks at schools, churches, powwows and scout groups, encouraging today's youth through Native teachings. This work is a labor of love inspired by the story of his life. His deep-rooted connection with his tribe has inspired others to invite him to speak at various functions such as Parliament of the World's Religions, Festival of Faiths, and the United Nations.

What began as a protest in 2007 blossomed into an organization which saw a need for Native Americans living in the Kentuckiana area. Suddenly, there were people in crisis who needed help, social issues that needed attention. Today, our focus is on education and programming geared towards educating our youth with correct Native American historical information, culture, and raising awareness to the needs facing Native Americans in our city and beyond.

MAUREEN SHELLEAU: To understand an animal is an art by itself. To be privileged enough to have an emotional bond with one is a blessing. To capture the spirit of the animal in hopes that we may have a better understanding of and appreciate our companionships with these beloved creatures... that's as priceless as an epiphany.

Backed by three arts degrees, Maureen Shelleau's portfolio is a versatile arrangement of high realism animal paintings, wildlife and nature photography, animation, comics and sculptures.

Her paintings and prints of famous race horses are collected around the globe and hang in private homes, prestigious Racetracks and Museums across North America. While showcasing her work at an equine exhibition, Maureen's classical Disney-esque drawing style of cartoon horses captured the attention of Natural Freedom Wellness Center, located in Athens Ohio. MICHAEL TRAVERS: I have been interested in film and science since childhood. As an undergraduate, I majored in chemistry, while at the same time shooting films whenever I got the chance. I earned a Ph.D. from the University of Colorado, Boulder then did post-doctoral research at the Center for Astrophysics at Harvard. After teaching for over a dozen years, I switched gears and began focusing on my other passion, filmmaking.

Technical aspects of filmmaking are quite similar to astrophysics. Both rely on light! The creative process is an exploration much like the search for scientific knowledge.

I have also always been a storyteller. As a child, I remember recounting to friends a film I had seen or event witnessed. All in tremendous detail, and it is this attention to detail that serves me well in the scientific world. Often, it is the little things that make the biggest impact!

MILT C. TOBY - AUTHOR

WEBSITE: <https://miltonctoby.com>

MILT C. TOBY: Is an attorney and author who has been writing about Thoroughbred racing for more than 40 years. His ninth book, due for release in the fall from the University Press of Kentucky, is Taking Shergar: Thoroughbred Racing's Most Famous Cold Case. On a miserably cold and rainy night in February 1983, a gang of armed men entered Ballymany Stud near Kildare, Ireland, and made off with Epsom Derby winner Shergar. Days away from starting his second season at stud, Shergar was one of the most valuable horses in the world. The thieves demanded a multi-million-dollar ransom; when the ransom wasn't paid, the horse disappeared, never to be found. Taking Shergar recounts the remarkable story of horse racing's most famous cold case.

Milt's previous books include Dancer's Image: The Forgotten Story of the 1968 Kentucky Derby (winner of the $10,000 first prize in the Dr. Tony Ryan Book Award honoring the year's best book about Thoroughbred racing, and an American Horse Publications award as the best equine book of the year); Noor: A Champion Thoroughbred's Unlikely Journey from California to Kentucky (Milt's second American Horse Publications book award winner); and Cañonero II: The Rags to Riches Story of the Kentucky Derby's Most Improbable Winner.

Milt also was a contributor to Thrillers: 100 Must Reads, published by International Thriller Writers and named USA Book News Book of the Year. Thrillers also was a finalist for the year's Edgar, Anthony, and McCavity awards. President of the American Society of Journalists and Authors, the nation's leading organization representing freelance writers, Milt is a popular speaker discussing the business side of writing, copyright, publishing contracts, and other legal issues affecting writers. In 2013 Nick directed a short documentary on a first time bodybuilder. The film, SLAM premiered in 2014 at the New Filmmakers Film Festival to rave reviews.

Nick began directing BAZE largely because of his father's obsession with horse racing. However, he quickly found himself moved by Russell's story and has been eager to tell it ever since.

Director Statement

Russell Baze stands for all that is right with sports and competition - a hard work ethic, confidence, humility, focus and perspective. He currently holds the records for most races, most wins and highest winning percentage, he is already in the Horse Racing Hall Of Fame and at age 57 he is showing no signs of slowing down. Yet Russell is widely ignored in the discussion of the all time greatest jockeys.

Our film, BAZE seeks to define exactly what a champion is.

WHAT IS THE P.A.S.T. Act? The PAST Act: End horse soring

SORING VIDEO: https://youtu.be/gxVlxT_x-f0

What is the PAST Act?

The Prevent All Soring Tactics, or PAST Act, is the federal bill to end the cruel practice of horse soring.

The PAST Act would amend the Horse Protection Act to do the following:

- Amend the industry's failed system of self-policing;
- Ban the use of devices implicated in the practice of soring;
- Strengthen penalties; and
- Make other reforms needed to finally shut this abuse down.

What is soring?

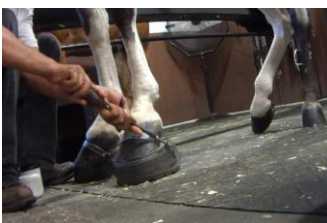

Soring is a practice used by unscrupulous trainers to deliberately inflict pain in order to exaggerate the high-stepping gait of their horses and gain unfair competitive advantage at horse shows.

Who endorses the PAST Act?

A massive group of horse organizations, industry professionals, legislators, members of the media, veterinarians, animal advocates and celebrities openly stand against cruel horse soring—and for the PAST Act.

The Problem: Cruel soring of show horses

Congress enacted the Horse Protection Act (HPA) in 1970 to make illegal the abusive practice of “soring,” in which unscrupulous trainers deliberately inflict pain on Tennessee Walking Horses’ hooves and legs to force the horses to perform an exaggerated, high-stepping gait and gain unfair competitive advantage at horse shows. Soring methods include applying caustic chemicals, using plastic wrap and tight bandages to “cook” those chemicals deep into the horse’s flesh for days, attaching chains to strike against the sore legs, inserting hard objects such as screws and resins into tender areas of the hooves, paring the soles of the feet down to sensitive tissue, and using salicylic acid or other painful substances to slough off scarred tissue in an attempt to disguise the sored areas. Sored horses often live in constant and extreme pain throughout their show ring careers.

This documentary responds to this approach by looking at the relationship between the human and the horse in the context of equine therapy. As part of this therapy, the animal is not used at its expense but on the contrary, depends on this relationship of trust with humans and is a facilitator for the therapist, the connection with the human in treatment.

RON SYRKO:

Tango was in the Sugar Creek Livestock Auction in Ohio where he was purchased by a dealer, who then sold him to his previous owner. She is the one who named him Tango. He was a very energized horse. He would rear, liked to kick and was barn sour. I bought him from her in the late 1990s.

Tango was my first horse, “Little did I know he would become my heart horse.” He was a hard horse to catch. After a few months, I decided to sit in the pasture and become part of the herd! Soon, I became part of the herd following them around as they grazed. Then Tango just walked up to me! After that, every time I called him, he came running to me. Over the years we attended local horse shows and trail rides, including rides and special events for fundraisers and charities.

Over the years he had a near-miss with lightning and a pelvis injury from a possible bullet on the first day of deer season. He recovered very well and never has missed a New Year’s Day Ride and is always my” Special Event Horse”. He has won many ribbons at trail challenges, placed 7th in the South East in ACTHA, won the trail challenge at Leatherwood and appeared on the TV show Best of America by Horseback, he also appeared in the ACTHA promotional video and was interviewed by a local ABC tv station at the AHA beach ride 2017.

WHAT IS THE SAFE Act? Safeguard American Food Exports (SAFE) Act

Speak out against horse slaughter (SAFE Act)

Each year, tens of thousands of American equines—working, racing and companion horses, donkeys, mules and even children's ponies—are horrifically slaughtered for human consumption. They are inhumanely transported long distances across our borders, in cramped trailers without food, water or rest.

They are then brutally killed, and their meat is shipped overseas. Sadly, the vast majority of the equines who become victims of this predatory and deceptive industry are young, healthy animals who could have led productive lives with loving owners if they'd been given the chance.

Not only is slaughter immensely cruel, but U.S. horses are not raised for food, and over the course of their lives they are given a wide variety of drugs and veterinary treatments that make their meat unfit for human consumption.

TAKE ACTION

Please make a brief, polite phone call to your two U.S. Senators and U.S. Representative and ask them to support the SAFE Act. Look up your legislator's phone number. You can simply say, "As someone who cares about horses, I urge you to co-sponsor the Safeguard American Food Exports Act, H.R. 961/S. 2006, and do all that you can to get it enacted quickly."

The Safeguard American Food Exports (SAFE) Act (H.R. 961/S. 2006) is federal legislation that would prevent the horse slaughter industry from re-establishing operations in the U.S. and prohibit the export of American horses for slaughter.

2019 EQUUS Film & Arts Fest STEPHANIE BROWN-BEAMER BIT & BRIDEL FITTING BIO

WEBSITE: <https://horsebyhorse.com>
stephanie@horsebyhorse.com

STEPHANIE BROWN-BEAMER: I founded Horse By Horse LLC out of my commitment to the horse, education, and my belief in ongoing research.

It all started with being loaned a Neue Schule Verb bit for a pony that I was training. I thought I was a good and kind dressage trainer and rode pretty much everything in a double jointed loose ring snaffle. A friend loaned me a Neue Schule Verb and the mare I tried it on, came up in her shoulders, through her back, and was no longer fixated on her mouth. This started an in depth inquiry into how, why and what the company was up to.

After gaining a great insight into Neue Schule and their work, I started to work for the North American distributor of their bits, attending numerous trade shows, barn calls for fittings, and took advantage of the Neue Schule online academy. Following numerous barn calls for Hunter Jumper and Dressage trainers, I decided that the best way for me to spread the extensive knowledge of Neue Schule, was for me to hit the road and educate riders and trainers and continue my education.

I've always had the moto.. "I'll only be able to train a certain number of horses in my lifetime, by founding Horse By Horse, this allows me to make a difference to a greater number of horses."

I feel that being an FEI rider/trainer, "L" graduate, and having a commitment to creating true partnerships with horses, lends to the success of my bit fitting clinics. I believe in Neue Schule's philosophy of always putting the horses comfort first. Their bits are ergonomically designed using the latest CAD technology and they are continually conducting research.

WEBSITE: <https://mustangleadershippartners.com>

SUE ANNE WELLS: Founder - Mustang Leadership Partners is home to thirteen mustangs, a number that varies as we adopt new horses and welcome foals on the farm. Eight of our mustangs are Kiger mustangs, a rare and sought-after breed first discovered at a round-up in Betty’s Butte, Oregon, in 1977. Kiger mustangs possess traits very similar to the ancient Spanish horses introduced to North America by the Spanish conquistadors who invaded Mexico in the early 1500s. Now a breed with its own registry, Kiger mustangs are popular horses, boasting sound feet, good minds, boldness and sturdy endurance.

Most of the Mustang Leadership Partners mustangs were adopted from the Bureau of Land Management. All of our Kigers are registered with the Kiger Mesteño Association, an organization that has been registering Kiger mustangs for over 20 years. Mustang Leadership Partners is the permanent home for some of our mustangs. Others are sold after an intensive placement process to “adoptive” families or individuals who can provide appropriate care and a nurturing environment.

2019 EQUUS Film & Arts Fest SUSAN ABEL - AUTHOR BIO

WEBSITE: <http://www.susanabel.com/index.html>

SUSAN ABEL: Has had a passion for writing, second only to her passion for horses, since she was a child growing up in the Detroit area. With writing assignments becoming her favorite projects in school, she completed her first novel at the age of seventeen, a story about a girl and a horse, of course.

Following a twenty-plus-year career as a professional horse trainer and riding instructor in the mid-West, Rockies and Southeast, Susan returned to school to earn a degree in journalism at the age of forty as a single mom with two girls. Following graduation, she worked several years as a beat reporter and feature writer for various newspapers as well as for a private university group. Once her girls were grown, she returned to her two passions: instructing with her own riding school while returning to creative writing. Now retired from teaching, she has more time to ride while devoting herself to her writing.

Having lived a diverse and well-travelled life, Susan has a broad expanse of life experiences to draw upon, enabling her to flesh out characters, describe locations and understand the human condition in such a way her stories come to life in the imaginations of her readers.

Susan has attended ten consecutive Association of Writers and Writing Programs (AWP) Conferences and is a member of the Women's Fiction Writing Association (WFWA), Romance Writers of America (RWA) and Women Writing the West (WWW).

Susan currently lives in the metro Atlanta area on a small farm with her husband and a menagerie of animals. In addition to writing fiction and riding her horses, she loves to read, draw, fish, travel on adventures and go for long hikes with her husband and their two Akitas in the mountains of North Georgia.

HORSE PLUS HUMANE SOCIETY: <https://www.horseplushumanesociety.org>

TAWNEE PREISNER & HORSE PLUS HUMANE SOCIETY: Tawnee Preisner: Horse Plus Humane Society was founded in 2003 by Tawnee Preisner when she was only 19 years old. At that time Tawnee had no idea that Horse Plus Humane Society would become a National Organization helping thousands of horses across the United States, she just wanted to help horses and wanted to prevent them from being sent to slaughter. With her leadership and innovative ideas, she and her team revolutionized the horse welfare industry. After many years of success, national animal welfare organizations took notice and began implementing many of Tawnee's ideas for rescuing and sheltering horses.

The Horse Plus team rescues hundreds of horses each year – horses, minis, ponies and donkeys that otherwise would be sold for slaughter. A large segment of her rescues here in TN are Big Lick TN Walker show horses. Tawnee can explain why.

Tawnee has revolutionized the horse welfare industry.

HORSE RESCUE HEROES: Is a new reality TV show about the heroes who rescue horses, overcoming insurmountable challenges that are ever present in rescuing these large animals and finding loving homes for them. Tawnee Preisner and Payton Christian co-host this exciting show. Together with their team from Horse Plus Humane Society they will help a horse rescue that is struggling to make ends meet. The horse rescue will receive a $10,000 grant to improve their facility and become a Full Circle of Life horse shelter. Tawnee will draw from her nearly 20 years of horse rescue experience to mentor the horse rescue, helping it grow and be able to save even more horses.

TBI PANEL GUEST SPEAKER

TOREY PHELPS: Started riding my first horse at five, an OTTB mare that our family owned and rode for 15 years. My love of horses brought me to UK for college where I started working the thoroughbred yearling sales. I continued to work for various TB breeding farms throughout college and for 3 years after graduation. In 2008 I was offered a job with yearlings at a breeding farm in New Zealand. My boyfriend and I were planning for me to meet him there and work for 6 months during the Southern Hemispheres summer months of yearling prep and sales. I flew to New Zealand in November, worked for a week and was then in a catastrophic car accident. We were T boned on a twisty country road in the middle of NZ horse country. Fortunately a party bus was stopped on the road while the first responders tried to remove me from the mangled vehicle. A doctor on the bus saved my life by forcing the paramedics to allow her to assist. I had stopped breathing and she was able to reposition me safely. A Neuro unit had just been opened at the regional medical center so they were able to treat me quickly. My injury was so severe that the brain swelling required the removal of the skull from the area covering my forehead. In the beginning it was expected that my left side would be entirely paralyzed due to the extent of the injury. I was put into a medically induced coma for 10 days during which time my family came to New Zealand.

I was in a neuro rehabilitation unit for approximately 3 months during which time I had to relearn how to swallow, speak, feed myself and walk. The highlight of all my therapy was when the pony, George would literally come into my room at the rehab unit. Most of my therapy goals used horses as a stimulus, from putting a bridle together to visiting the farm where I had worked and helping to feed the horses. When I returned to the US in March I continued with outpatient therapy including therapeutic riding. Muscle memory took over and I continued to relearn my skills on some saintly horses when we moved to Kentucky and my horse family welcomed me home. Finding my current horse, Tigger was the final reward. He is a 17.3 he OTTB and a gentle giant. He has helped me achieve my dream of returning to riding cross country after a ten year recovery time. We are eventing again at the starting level but looking at all we've overcome and learned together I realize how lucky I've been to have horses and horse people in my life.

VICKI MARTIN & “DOC” the TENNESSEE WALKING HORSE MEET & GREET A TWH AFTER THE P.A.S.T. ACT PANEL BIO

P.A.S.T Act: <https://www.horsenation.com/2019/01/23/past-act-reintroduced-for-2019>

VICKI MARTIN: In 2015, when struggling with recovering from personal tragedy, Vicki met Doc at a friend’s farm in Eastern Kentucky. And so the journey began. We hear wonderful stories about rescuing animals and how much they mean to us in our lives. But Vicki didn’t rescue Doc, he rescued her. Since then, Doc and Vicki have ridden many miles of beautiful trail, do liberty work, practice classical dressage, and Vicki completed a certificate in equine therapy. Mostly, they are best friends and partners in crime and spend as much time together as possible, even if they are just hanging out in the field while Vicki reads a book and Doc munches away.

Doc is a show-quality Tennessee Walking Horse (TWH) with quite a pedigree. This incredible gaited breed, in humane hands, is a gift. In fact, the smooth gait they were genetically endowed with is commonly called “gait of the Gods” while others refer to it as the “magic carpet ride”; by the way, well-suited to the older retired or novice adult rider. Notably, Doc’s lineage hails from the Big Lick show ring, a legacy of which we should hang our heads in shame. Thankfully, Doc didn’t end up on that path. Unfortunately, as a result of the practice of Big Lick, there is considerable stigma about “walking horses” so their exceptional qualities have been overshadowed by this. Hallmark features of the athletic TWH are sure footedness, endurance, a sweet and calm disposition, and versatility.

Even in Lexington, Ky, the horse capital of the world, where Doc and Vicki live, it was hard to find training help and guidance. Thankfully, Doc and Vicki met Jenn O’Neill. Jenn is an upper level Eventing competitor, trainer and professional equestrian. With an uncommon open mind and heart, and a resolve to ignore the critics in the non-gaited equestrian world, Jenn has worked patiently over the years with this duo and lovingly calls Doc her ATV. Doc calls her Aunt Jenn. In fact, Jenn recently rode Doc in his first gaited dressage competition. Not a bad day for myth-busting for this mountain boy!
