Questionnaire (please answer questions directly and keep responses succinct and brief)

1. Please describe your qualifications for the position you seek (include your key issues, priorities if elected, and any key endorsements you'd like to share), plus anything else that you'd like our members to know about you and your candidacy.

I was born and raised in Santa Cruz, so I have a unique perspective and feel I am uniquely qualified to serve as a Santa Cruz City Council Member. I come from a single parent, mixed race, mother led household., raised as a feminist by my mom who was studying feminism with a multicultural emphasis with Bettina Aptheker at UCSC.

As for my principles, I am community oriented and I have a profound commitment to nonviolent advocacy. I currently work at the Resource Center for Nonviolence as the volunteer coordinator and program staff. In addition to that, approximately two years ago I founded a local nonprofit called Project Pollinate that is geared towards community building. From my work with a broad cross section of youth and residents from all backgrounds I have come to understand that we are all concerned about the same things. Inclusivity in local politics, access to affordable housing, transportation and the environment.

My platform is designed to address all of the issues that are facing our city. I have pledged to work towards increasing the required amount of affordable housing inclusion in new developments from 15% up to 25%. I have pledged to be a strong advocate for a fully funded transportation system, a steward of our river, beaches and forests and to ensure that development is done in a responsible, sustainable way. All of this under and umbrella of what I call "inclusive politics". The dedication to bringing more voices to the table when making policy decisions or when weighing important choices for the city. This means reaching out to and working with organizations and alliances like the LGBTQi+ Alliance and other coalitions that have dedicated their missions to solving these issues.

2. Why are you seeking the endorsement of Santa Cruz County's grassroots LGBTQ political organization, the GLBT Alliance?

Inclusion is a primary part of my campaign and something I will be dedicated to once elected. Positive working relationships with organizations like the GLBT Alliance will be imperative in constructing policies that represent a broad spectrum of the community and at the same time focusing on specific communities and their needs.

I am an ally, I am a friend and I am an advocate for LGBTQi+ rights and incorporation in local politics.

3. Please tell us about any past or current experiences or involvement you've had addressing LGBTQ issues, or working to support the LGBTQ community.

I have had the pleasure of working with a wide range of individuals that identify as LGBTQi+ in my community building efforts in and around Santa Cruz. From rallies of solidarity to community events and even in my campaign, I strive to be as inclusive as possible, creating safe spaces and inclusionary group work to include people from all backgrounds and identities.

Being someone who has spent years studying sociology and the makeup of our social structure, I am an outspoken advocate for LGBTQi+ rights. I am currently coordinating a workshop through the Resource Center for Nonviolence which will take participants on a tour of the Diversity Center and listen to presentations about the work they do there as well as the issues facing the LGBTQi+ community here in Santa Cruz.

4. What political or civil rights issues were you aware of, prior to reading the attached informational materials, regarding LGBTQ equality?

Prior to reading the informational materials, something that has always been important to me regarding LGBTQi+ equality are the support services (or lack thereof) for LGBTQi+ youth. One of the least served communities in Santa Cruz, these individuals are stuck trying to find acceptance and a sense of belonging in a heteronormative society. With some of the highest rates of homelessness and suicide among their age groups, this is a population that needs the most support.

In addition to LGBTQi+ youth, adults also face issues of alienation and abuse locally. After speaking with one of the lead staff at the Diversity Center I learned about the passive aggressive tactics being used by the business owner next door. A disregard for requests of mutual respect and a general negative attitude with an unwillingness to negotiate is a just a small example of the discrimination that the LGBTQi+ community have to face.

Even on campus in schools, community college campuses and at the university, hate speech, violence and threats take place daily. These things must stop.

5. What is your philosophy about working with minority communities of which you are not a member, and how will this manifest in your future work with the LGBTQ community?

A question near and dear to my heart. I am a strong believer in the philosophy that community organizers, political leaders and the like should not attempt to enter communities they do not belong to with the intention to “organize them”. This is for two main reasons. If outside “saviors” come into a disenfranchised community and create change, there is no sustainability. That is to say, if one is to enter a community and solve their problems for them, what will happen once that person leaves?

What is important, is to help foster the creation of a sustainable, self actuated community. Organizers and political officials have the obligation to create spaces within that community for the residents to become empowered on their own. It is our responsibility to offer skills and education that will allow those who are being oppressed to stand up with their own voices and demand the change they want to see in their own communities.

This is true with all oppressed communities, including and especially the LGBTQi+ population.

6. Please describe any programs you know of that impact the LGBTQ community and that are governed by or funded through the elected office you are running for, and include any suggestions you may have for improvements.

To be quite honest, I am not aware of ANY programs that address the needs of the LGBTQi+ population that are funded by the City Council. After a quick web search for “LGBT Santa Cruz City Program” I came back with only one document from the city website that contained a very poorly made list of “Youth Resources”.

This is telling not just about the lack of attention the city is placing on such a historically underserved community, it also speaks to the lack of resources and support readily available for those who are currently in search of or in need of services. This must change. Funding must be increased to support the creation of a city sponsored support program in addition to a city based support website that can direct individuals looking for support on where they can go. This is just one aspect of what needs to take place in order to create a welcoming, safe and compassionate city.

7. If elected, how would you use your position to help further issues of importance to the LGBTQ community?

If elected, I will use my influence and position to establish an increase in community resources and education focused around LGBTQi+ rights and realities. Not only will I work to fund city sponsored programs that support the LGBTQi+ community, I will also work towards an educational campaign that addresses the realities of being a member of the LGBTQi+ community here in Santa Cruz and around the country to raise awareness, understanding and compassion for all.

8. If you receive the GLBT Alliance’s endorsement, will you display it in your campaign literature?

YES! I will wear it loud and proud wherever possible. It will be listed on all campaign materials, our website and on our social media platforms. I would be honored to have your endorsement.

Attachment 1: Informational Handout on Local, State and National LGBTQ Issues

National LGBTQ Political Landscape

The Human Rights Campaign (HRC) recently released a report citing a surge of more than 175 anti-LGBT bills have been introduced across 32 states in 2016, and specifically names 2016 as the most dangerous year on record for transgender Americans.

Current anti-LGBT efforts include attempts to turn back the clock on marriage equality, as well as various “religious exemption” bills that would allow the use of tax-payer dollars to discriminate against same-sex couples, and laws that protect LGBT “conversion therapy,” practices.

The American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) has catalogued anti-LGBTQ legislation currently pending in states across the nation and in the federal government, by category, locality and active status. Please read through their list, here: <https://www.aclu.org/lgbt-nondiscrimination-and-anti-lgbt-bills-across-country>.

In particular, there are 44 proposed new laws across 16 states targeting transgender people. These laws would prevent transgender folks from changing the gender marker on their birth certificates, impose humiliating burdens on transgender people seeking to get married, make it harder to access gender-affirming health care, and would deny access to bathrooms that align with one’s gender identity. 23 of these bills specifically target children and students.

HRC Report on Anti-Transgender Legislation Nation-Wide:

<http://hrc-assets.s3-website-us-east-1.amazonaws.com/files/assets/resources/HRC-Anti-Trans-Issue-Brief-FINAL-REV2.pdf>

The U.S. House of Representatives has introduced the Employment Non-Discrimination Act (ENDA) to prohibit discrimination in hiring and employment on the basis of sexual orientation or gender identity by employers with at least 15 employees. This legislation has been introduced in every Congress since 1994 except the 109th. Protections based on gender identity were first added to ENDA in 2007. At that time, some believed that ENDA did not have enough support with transgender inclusion to pass Congress, and gender identity was dropped from the bill. It passed the House and then died in the Senate. In 2009, 2011 and 2013, a transgender-inclusive version of ENDA was reintroduced and in 2013, the Senate passed it with bipartisan support. However, as a result of a political maneuvering by the republican majority in 2014, a version of ENDA with a narrow religious exemption amendment was added to the 2015 defense authorization bill and was then rejected by the House Rules Committee. The legislation remains in flux to this day. Read more on ENDA, here: <https://www.congress.gov/bill/113th-congress/senate-bill/815/text>.

There are many more nuanced issues facing the LGBTQ community, nationally. We encourage you to learn more about issues facing LGBTQ youth, seniors, the Latino/a LGBTQ community, immigrants and same-sex immigrant couples, transgender healthcare, transgender issues in the criminal justice system, “bathroom safety bills” and religious exemption efforts nation-wide. California State LGBTQ Political Issues

Here in California, we have seen the election of many LGBTQ and allied state representatives who have helped pass progressive legislation to help protect LGBTQ people from workplace, housing and medical discriminations, to ensure same sex married couples can access partner benefits, to prohibit LGBTQ school bullying and include LGBTQ history in school curriculum, and to make sure transgender students can safely access bathrooms in schools that align with their gender identity. While great progress has been made toward equality, there is still much more to be done.

Equality California (EQCA) is our state's largest LGBTQ organization working to advance the health and well-being of LGBT Californians through direct healthcare service advocacy and education in Sacramento and beyond. Through electoral, advocacy, education and mobilization programs, EQCA forwards a robust state legislative platform in tandem with progressive LGBTQ and allied state law makers to advance equality and social justice for LGBTQ people state-wide. Learn more about EQCA's current legislative platform here: <http://www.eqca.org/category/legislation/2015/>, and the history of recent LGBTQ legislation in California, here: <http://www.eqca.org/legislation/past-legislation/>.

Locally and throughout the state, LGBTQ youth still face bullying in schools. Our seniors still face isolation and discrimination as they seek care for aging. While denying transgender people access to healthcare, training and advocacy is desperately needed to help curb illegal denial of coverage by insurance companies, and better quality healthcare by providers. HIV/AIDS funding is on the decline even though we've seen an uptick in infection rates. We encourage you to learn more about the issues facing LGBTQ people throughout California. Local LGBTQ Community Issues

HRC manages a "Municipality Equality Index", or MEI score-card, rating cities across the nation for the ways they support the LGBTQ people who live and work there, even where states and the federal government have failed to do so. Please review the MEI, here: <http://www.hrc.org/resources/mei-2015-see-your-city-score>.

None of the cities within the County of Santa Cruz have been entered into the MEI to be rated. Please consider doing so: <http://www.hrc.org/resources/submit-a-municipality-to-be-rated-2015>.

Locally, in addition to the GLBT Alliance as Santa Cruz County's queer political organization, there are many groups providing a wide array of supports and services to the various demographics within the LGBTQ community. Some of these groups include:

The needs of LGBTQ Youth in our area schools are great. While national and state laws aim to protect LGBTQ students, local schools and school districts often lack the funds necessary for training, enforcement and implementation of policies to educate students on equality, and protect students from bullying. While many schools in our areas have Gay-Straight Alliance and Queer-Straight Alliance clubs, not all do, and not all are able to because of complicated local political issues. LGBTQ Youth also face higher rates of homelessness locally and nationally, due to the lack of family support many youth face when they come out of the closet. Please learn more about programs aiming to make youth and student experiences better, here: <http://qytf.org/safe-schools-project/safe-schools-project-report/>.

LGBTQ Seniors often go back into the closet as they pass retirement age, as a result of facing greater risk of isolation and discrimination as they seek specialized aging care in and out of their homes. The Diversity Center's 60+ Seniors Program offers LGBTQ Seniors in Santa Cruz County opportunities to enhance their quality of life through social and recreation activities. Learn more: <http://www.diversitycenter.org/senior>.

HIV/AIDS education and services are an important public health intervention for at-risk communities, which has always centered on the gay male community since the AIDS epidemic first arose in the 1980s. In more recent years, the disease has had an unfortunate resurgence among men who have unprotected sex with other men, and who largely do so without identifying as gay and without seeking medical care or advice accordingly.

The City and County of Santa Cruz each have a long history of responding to the HIV/AIDS epidemic by supporting the Santa Cruz AIDS Project, the work of the County Health Department and syringe exchange programs as proven, successful intervention programs. Continued support for successful health education and intervention programs that curb the disease from spreading and that help eradicate HIV is critical, and local government's role cannot be overlooked—especially among those in the LGBTQ community who have been at ground zero of the epidemic since its beginning.
