

STEPHENSON COUNTY 4-H

4-H is a youth organization that belongs to the members, their families, and other interested adults who serve as volunteer leaders. Professional leadership is provided by University of Illinois Extension staff. Support for 4-H programs is a joint effort of local organizations, county government, the University of Illinois, and the United States Dept. of Agriculture.

In 4-H, youth ages 5 to 18 share, grow, and learn together from various projects, events, and activities in informal situations under the guidance of their families and other volunteer adult leaders. 4-H members can decide what they want to learn about by selecting 4-H projects that interest them. Group activities and events such as trips, camps, fairs, shows and workshops provide additional learning experiences and opportunities.

4-H is open to all youth and adult volunteers regardless of their race, color, religion, gender, racial origin, ancestry, marital status, sexual orientation or disability. Most 4-H clubs have meetings for the entire membership once a month. During these meetings, decisions are made about group sponsored activities such as community service efforts, project opportunities, and fund-raising.

The major focus of 4-H is on youth development. Providing youth with an opportunity to develop and practice leadership, citizenship, communication, presentation, and social skills is an integral part of their 4-H experience. In addition to club-level activities, youth are offered developmental experiences at the county, state, and national levels. 4-H Youth Development Educators and Program Coordinators provide structure, guidance, and support to 4-H youth, parents, and volunteers. Participants have fun learning, working, and succeeding together in their homes, communities, and beyond.

In Stephenson County, the 4-H program is administered by University of Illinois Extension. The office is located in Building R on the Highland Community College campus in Freeport. Staff members include:

THE BENEFITS OF 4-H PARTICIPATION

Research has shown that children who are exposed to each of the following eight critical elements over prolonged periods of time are most positively impacted by youth program efforts. Youth impacted in this way are more likely to...

- Report recognition for good grades
- Graduate from high school
- Go to college
- Feel good about themselves
- Indicate higher levels of self-efficacy
- View themselves as effective and in control
- Find a job they enjoy
- Value community service

4-H's objective is to consciously help youth develop and obtain the eight critical elements for a fulfilling future. The eight critical elements that are linked to such success include:

1. A positive relationship with a caring adult
2. A welcoming, inclusive environment
3. A physically and psychologically safe environment
4. An appropriately structured environment
5. Opportunities to achieve competency and mastery
6. Opportunities for self-determination
7. Opportunities to value and practice service to others
8. Active participation in the future

As a 4-H member, one can expect to learn life skills such as leadership, commitment & follow-through, listening skills, communication skills, teamwork skills, and self-confidence. Through the program a member can also take various 4-H projects such as: Aerospace, Visual Arts, Forestry, Interior Decorating, Food & Nutrition, and Woodworking; but that's not all. We have over 175 projects available for youth to choose from. Our program functions with the assistance of active volunteers, which helps us provide a hands-on learning atmosphere. 4-H actively believes in the difference youth can make in our world, and we value the eight elements and how they can guide us in providing a quality, positive learning experience for all youth. For more information about the Stephenson County 4-H Program, please contact the University of Illinois Extension Office at 815-235-4125.

University of Illinois Extension provides equal opportunities in programs and employment.

If you need reasonable accommodations to participate in any 4-H activity, call the Extension Office at 815-235-4125.
