

Randy Huston

Randy Huston is without a doubt one of the premier western music artists, specializing in taking his listeners on a musical ride into his world of horses, cattle, bumps and bruises and the wide-open spaces of New Mexico. He is living proof that the old western traditions are alive and well in the new west.

"If you look at the songs I write, family and faith are right at the top, Randy says. "And there's a strong sense of honor and morals, and a relationship with people.

His family operates a ranch near Cuervo, New Mexico, where he and his father tend to a herd of Corriente cattle. Hence, Randy's life is literally a musical opus where each day is filled with the events that feed his musical passion. Through his work on the ranch along with his music, Randy Huston is keeping the romance and reality of the west alive. As long as there are men like him the traditional values of a truly American way of life will be preserved.

- FOUR time recipient of the National Cowboy & Western Heritage Wrangler Award
- Academy of Western Artists' Album of the Year.
- 2010 Academy of Western Artists Male Vocalist of the Year
- Randy and his songs have been featured on the History Channel's special "Cowboys and Outlaws," part of which was filmed on his ranch for the section titled "The Real Lonesome Dove."
- Featured on the liners for the Western Movie Channel's films