

Rhonda Flint
Wellness Educator
Young Living Essential Oils

Rhonda Flint is a 17-year veteran homeschool mom with three grown children, two of whom are profoundly deaf. She started her health journey 12 years ago by educating herself on the harmful food products that she was feeding her family on a daily basis. Her children were plagued by ailments such as asthma, severe allergies, eczema, acid reflux, carpal tunnel and more. Reading labels became a necessary way of life along with eradicating the boxed, canned and processed foods that used to line her pantry. After seeing the immense change in her family's health, she sought out other ways to bring health and wellness to her family while reducing the toxic western meds that were being ingested by her family.

Rhonda has been a Wellness Educator with Young Living Essential Oils since 2011 and is also certified in Raindrop Technique and Emotional Release. Her mission in life is simple: she aims to be a bridge. Not only does she believe that essential oils are the bridge to natural living but she also desires to help others realize how simple it is to use these natural products in their everyday lives to stay above the wellness line.

Rhonda and her family are the healthiest they have ever been even though they are the oldest they have ever been!
