

Mabopane Foundation: Becky Young, Founder

With the help and support of many, Becky launched the Mabopane Foundation in 2003. After a great deal of prayer and research, the Foundation transitioned from financially supporting shelters to launching the "Building Together" campaign in 2011 to build Ya Bana Village. The first house was constructed and furnished that same year.

Ya Bana Village has flourished into a gated community with eight houses. Each house is managed by a carefully selected and properly trained single "house mom" who supports 6-8 children. This environment gives the children a true sense of security and authentic family life. The Village also includes the Early Learning Center, Youth Living Center, and Rondavel guest house.

For over 20 years now, Becky's passion and vision for providing food, shelter, clothing, and education for orphaned and vulnerable children has been caught by hundreds of people. The Mabopane Foundation has provided financial assistance to help hundreds of children over the years, assisting with housing, electricity, water, gas, school fees, uniforms, medicine, food, continuing education, and job skill training.

Becky's passion is contagious and she welcomes an invitation to speak with your friends, family, church, or civic organization. Your heart will be challenged to make an investment of time, talent, or treasure when you hear first-hand the amazing "God Stories".
