<ul style="list-style-type: none"> I have always viewed reading assignments as having the purpose of supporting and enhancing what was already taught in class. The readings in this class posed two challenges in that I myself have difficulties in learning from solely reading the information and that most classes worked to build off of what was discussed in the readings prior, not vice versa. These worsened my overall experience in the class and my ability to gain the most possible from the information provided. Dr. Tsun is one of the best professors I've had at CNU
