

INTRODUCING
CHRIS JONES

LABOUR'S CANDIDATE FOR
BROADLAND 2015

Because not all politicians are the same.

Chris is an NHS consultant who lives and works in Broadland and is passionate about defending the NHS and the people who depend on it

I've lived in Broadland since 2001 with my wife, who was a mental health nurse and UEA lecturer, three dogs, some chickens and a hive of bees! I attended a comprehensive school in Yorkshire before studying medicine and then law in Nottingham.

If you care about our community and our NHS I hope you will give me your support in the crucial 2015 election

CHRIS JONES

LABOUR CANDIDATE FOR BROADLAND 2015

CHRIS JONES – JUST WHAT THE DOCTOR ORDERED

Labour has the policies to tackle the problems we face – an end to the coalition's policies of BENEFIT CUTS for the NEEDY and TAX CUTS for the GREEDY.

LABOUR WILL

- Give the NHS Time To Care and put patients before profits
- Abolish the Bedroom Tax
- End the abuse of zero-hours contracts
- Freeze energy prices and tackle the cost of living crisis
- Build affordable homes in the right places to protect our countryside
- Increase the Minimum Wage to £8 per hour so that people in work don't have to rely on benefits

Dear Broadland Resident:

My name is Chris Jones and I'm delighted to have been selected as the Labour candidate in Broadland for the general election in May 2015.

I've never worked in politics – for 30 years I have been a doctor, and for me defending the NHS and our public services is the natural progression of 30 years working to protect the weak and vulnerable in our society.

Working in mental health means that every day I meet and talk to people from all backgrounds, hearing about their lives at first-hand, and helping them deal with their problems. More than anything this has taught me to understand and empathise with people and what I can see at the moment isn't right for any of us

I'm standing to be your MP because I really want to make a difference. I will be a local MP who wants to make sure that the people of Broadland can enjoy the best of our great county and country. Throughout this campaign I am still working at my 'day job', but please contact me using the details on the left, and I promise to get back to you as soon as I possibly can
