Community Days Grand Marshals Patrick and Anne Wallin

Take someone who loves being around people.

Mix in a passion for creating delicious, farm-fresh food.

Combine that with great business sense and hardworking employees, and you've got a recipe that will stand the test of time.

This "secret recipe" is what Patrick and Anne Wallin have stuck to for decades, making the Lonsdale Country Market one of the most successful businesses in the town's history. Their winning partnership and dedication to the community are why they were selected by the Lonsdale Chamber of Commerce as the grand marshals of this year's Lonsdale Community Days.

In the spring of 1979, Pat and Anne purchased the business at 123 South Main Street from Bob and Betty Chlian. They converted it into a meat market, created a variety of quality meat products, and listened to what their customers wanted. Over the years, the Lonsdale Country Market has built a strong customer base in and around Lonsdale and their business has thrived.

"He really enjoys being here for customers and doing what he does," Anne said about her husband who manages the store, its employees and its products. She helps out from behind the scenes, managing the accounting and finances for the business. Together, they have proven to be an unbeatable team.

When asked how he does it all, he simply stated: "We just get up and go every day."

In addition to the business, Pat has been an active member of several community organizations, including the Chamber of Commerce, the Lonsdale Knights of Columbus, the Elko New Market Webster Lions Club, Lonsdale Community Days and several years of coaching youth baseball. In 2015, they were the Lonsdale Chamber Business of the Year. They have also generously donated to several local fundraisers and events over the years, making Lonsdale Country Market a true pillar of the community.

A statement from Chamber Executive Director Shanna Gutzke-Kupp explains why the Wallins were selected as grand marshals. It reads: "The Lonsdale Chamber of Commerce would like to thank Pat and Anne for being an integral part of this community for so many years. Your humbleness, friendliness, kindness, business loyalty, your passion for what you do, your consistent support of local organizations and involvement in this community have earned you the distinction of being nominated as our 2017 Lonsdale Community Days Grand Marshals."

When asked if they were surprised by the nomination, Pat humbly stated: "Yes and no. It's a real honor and we were asked two other times over the years, but I told them there were others who should be considered first. We're in transition now, so when we were asked, we accepted."

After 38 years in the business, the couple announced they are going to sell Lonsdale Country Market this summer to their son and daughter-in-law, Michael and Jenny Wallin. Mike currently works at the shop part time, and has a great understanding of how the business operates. Keeping the shop in the family is a legacy Pat and Anne are pleased to leave behind.

"They have five kids and I'm sure when they're old enough they'll be here helping out too, just like our kids did," Pat said, noting he will stay on for a time to be sure the transition is a smooth one. "We'll be here to help him through the busiest time, August through May." He paused. "It has been a fun 38 years and a good place to settle down to."

With more time on their hands, the couple said they're looking forward to spending it with their nine grandchildren and would possibly like to do more traveling. Still, Pat knows a slower schedule is going to take some getting used to. He also knows what will be the hardest part about leaving the business he built.

"It's the people," he said. "I'm going to miss them the most."

Zach Johnson, son of Keith and Julie Malecha, was 12 years old when he was diagnosed with Cystic Fibrosis in 2006. Family and friends wanted to create a way to raise money for the CF Foundation.

Annual proceeds of approximately $4,000 are shared between the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation, MN Lions Diabetes Foundation and our local benefactor this year is 12 year old Hannah Foster from Elko New Market.

Dedicated family, friends, community members, local business sponsors and the Veseli Area Lions Club continue to support the Malecha's each year in their effort to support this cause!
