

Jennifer Vega, is a Portrait & Wedding Photographer. She's been married to her husband, Dom, for 18 years; he's her biggest supporter! Jennifer is a homeschooling mom of two beautiful girls & a dog mom to their bulldog, Ruby. She counts it a privilege and a blessing to have been able to homeschool their girls from the very start. Jennifer resigned from Corporate America to be home with her girls and started their homeschool journey 12 years ago. Her love for photography began in high school where she took her first photography class with her husband who was then her high school sweetheart. Five years ago, Dom encouraged Jennifer to pursue her passion, and that's when she officially began her own photography business. She's been blessed to be able to help provide for her family while doing something she absolutely love. Jennifer is so excited to be able to share her love of photography with her students and impart the wisdom she has obtained over the years to them. She will strive to encourage them to see the beauty in all God's creation, and guide them in honing their ability to capture it well.
