Sunday Meditation

In Christ we're altogether righteous, as righteous as we can be. In fact, we're the very "righteousness of God." "God made Him who knew no sin to be sin for us, that we might become the righteousness of God" (II Cor. 5:21). We don't always feel righteous or even act righteous. But God says we're righteous with Christ's righteousness. Do we believe that; can we believe it? When we repent and confess our sins; or pray "forgive us our trespasses," they're forgiven and "the righteousness of God which is by faith" is credited to us (Rom. 4:11). Without any qualifying action on our part, we become eligible for all the blessings that Scripture promises to "the righteous." Not that Christians are incapable of becoming unrighteous by lawless deeds. But if we walk in the light, "every sin" is forgiven and we stand blameless before God (Phil. 2:15; I John 1:7)). All for Jesus, Richard
