

FLAMBOROUGH HEAD : The east side of the north landing again shows the vertical chalk cliffs and the capping of softer boulder clay showing how the impact of geology can lead to a bevelled cliff profile. Material from the upper cliff will be moved by sub-aerial processes onto the wave cut platform extending beyond the foot of the cliff. High wave energy in this north facing inlet removes all this fine material from the platform

