THE AMERICAN LEGION FAMILY

American Legion Family

Did you know that collectively, all the Legion organizations are considered the “American Legion Family”?

The American Legion Family 218 includes not only Legion members, but also members of American Legion Auxiliary Unit 218, Sons of the American Legion Squadron 218 and Legion Riders Chapter 218. Together they serve and honor veterans, military, their families and community.

American Legion Auxiliary (ALA) members are mothers, (male or female) spouses, daughters, sisters, granddaughters or grandmothers of Legion members. Women veterans may join both or either the Legion or the Auxiliary.

Sons of the American Legion (SAL or Sons) members are male descendants of American Legion members and military who died in service.

The Legion Riders include members of the American Legion, Auxiliary or Sons of the American Legion. These motorcycle enthusiasts share in the Legion's mission.

So here's a question for our veterans in the Legion:

Have you asked your spouse, daughters, granddaughters, sisters or grandmothers to join the Auxiliary? Have you asked your male descendants to join the Sons?

And, if you like riding motorcycles and you belong to any one of the American Legion Family organizations, you may join that, too.

Want to learn how your family members can join the American Legion Family 218?
